On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of this House, this bill is known as the Municipal Court Bill. It provides for a Municipal Court for Philadelphia County, a court that will have jurisdiction in the smaller civil and certain criminal cases. We have been agitating such a court as this among the business men of Philadelphia for a number of years. Ever since the Chicago Court was established in 1906, the term "Municipal Court" has had something of keen interest to our business men and an effort to secure this court has been one that they have very actively engaged themselves in.

In 1911 there was a Municipal Court bill introduced in this House which failed of passage. There was also a County Court bill providing for Allegheny County and a similar court which was passed, signed by the Governor and has been in operation for the last two years. We have a very clear need for this court in Philadelphia. The figures secured by the Committee of the Law Association there show that we have to-day nearly ten thousand cases untried—on the first of October, 1912, ten thousand untried cases were on our trial list in our Common Pleas Court. If our Common Pleas Court conduct business at the same rate three thousand cases a year, at the present rate of transacting the business of the court, it would take three years if there was not another case tried in Philadelphia County, before the last case on the present trial list would be reached and disposed of.

Another feature that I think should appeal very strongly to us and that is the necessity in any jurisdiction for a system of distribution of justice which will meet the real demands of the community. Our trial list and Court record of Philadelphia don't by any means show what we really need in Philadelphia. In the last thirty years, since our Constitution was created for Philadelphia County, four Common Pleas Courts three judges each, Philadelphia County has much more than doubled in population since. We have only added three judges to the original quota allowed to us. I think it is only fair to assume that our fifteen judges cannot accomodate a natural increase in litigation that occurs in a community of the size and of the business importance of the city of Philadelphia. During that period the number of cases of civel suits brought in our courts has not materially increased. We have secured the figures for the March term of each five year periods since 1875. The figures show in the March term of 1875 that there was entered in the appearance Dockets of Philadelphia four thousand nine hundred and thirty-three cases, showing that civil suits to that number have been tried in our Common Pleas Courts. In 1890 there were only three thousand, eight hundred and ninety-two, in 1900, four thousand five hundred and ninety-two; in 1905 four thousand five hundred and seventy-seven; in 1910, four thousand eight hundred and seventeen. You might judge from these figures that there was no need possibly for any further Courts in Philadelphia County in this respect as the figures don't show that there has been any great increase in litigation there. But there has been sufficient increase and there will continue to be an increase in the number of cases and the courts will have to be increased to provide for this in our County. I can assure you, Gentlemen, that in Philadelphia County there are four or five times the number of cases that are never brought into Courts that properly should be brought into the Courts and for which we should provide proper means for securing justice which never appear before our Common Pleas Courts because of the congestion of trial lists and the poor methods of providing for the accomplishment of the needs of justice. I want to point out to you the result in Chicago of the establishment of a modern and efficient court. Prior to the establishment of their Court in 1906, there appeared annually in the courts cases corresponding to our Common Pleas Courts, just about identical; the same number of cases in a year that are brought to-day in Philadelphia County. They averaged prior to 1906, from eighteen to nineteen thousand cases a year but after the Municipal Court was established, there, owing to the number of cases brought into the other court, civil court suits fell off to about twelve thousand cases a year, and the number in the Municipal Court jumped to forty-nine thousand cases a year and to-day they bring practically the same number of civil suits in the old Chicago civil courts annually—that is about sixteen to seventeen thousand cases. In the new Municipal court, they dispose of some fifty-three thousand cases. What we need in Philadelphia is a Court built on the same lines as the Chicago Municipal Court. We need a court that will handle business efficiently and that will dispose of the business and take care not only of the litigation that to-day is adjusted in our Common Pleas Court, but additional business. All litigation never goes into our courts because we have not sufficient means to dispose of it. We have in Philadelphia, the support of every Trade Association; every Business Men's Association; every Credit Men's Association and many other organizations together with a vast number of individuals in the city of Philadelphia. Unfortunately; this measure at this particular session has to face not only the opposition which has come to it naturally but the opposition due to the introduction of a rival measure providing for five Common Pleas Judges for the County of Philadelphia. It is my opinion, Gentlemen of the House, that we are not getting anything here but that we should get in Philadelphia to-day and that Philadelphia needs to-day, she needs a more efficient up-to-date adminstrative court—namely, a Municipal Court. Most of you have received telegrams and letters asking for the support of this measure. It stands for modern judicial methods in Court procedure. I therefore, ask you to provide for Philadelphia County something that she so much needs and something that has been asked for, for years—a Municipal Court.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill No. 107, entitled:

An Act establishing a court for the County of Philadelphia prescribing its jurisdiction and powers providing for the service of its writs processes or warants by the proper officers of the county or city of Philadelphia regulating the procedure therein and appeals therefrom and providing for the expenses thereof passed third reading, be reconsidered.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I am asking for the reconsideration of the vote by which this bill passed third reading, so that it can be made acceptable for the offering of a small amendment which I desire to offer and then if you desire to vote it down, that can follow afterwards.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman to read his amendment for information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will submit his amendment for the information of the House.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, the amendment which I desire to offer applies to section two, line five. The paragraph from line four to ten reads. "The president judge shall receive a salary of six thousand five hundred dollars ($6,500.00) per annum and the associate judges shall receive salaries of six thousand dollars payable by the State in the same manner that the salaries of the judges of the courts of Common Pleas are paid. The term of office of the elected judges of the court shall begin on the first Monday of January following their election."

I desire to amend the bill to reduce the salaries from $6,500 to $5,500 and from $6,000 to $5,000. This is done for purpose of making it uniform with the salaries that are paid the same judges in the same court for the same class of work in Allegheny County.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEIN. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, was the gentleman present last week when the amendment was offered to this bill reducing the salaries from $7,000 to $6,000?

Mr. STEIN. I was.

Mr. STERN. Was the gentleman present last evening when the gentleman from Philadelphia offered an amendment to the bill?

Mr. STEIN. Last night; I would not say that I was.

Mr. SHERN. Was the gentleman present?

Mr. STEIN. I came in late last night; but I want to say in explanation of my answer that on second reading my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnut, offered an amendment reducing the salary to $6,000. I distinctly told him that I was absolutely opposed to it, and so I think that all the gentlemen from the western part of the State are opposed to it unless the salaries are made uniform with those in Allegheny County. I am opposed to it unless the salaries of all the judges are made uniform.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEIN. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALNUT. Do you consider the salary of $5,000 now paid the Allegheny County court judges too high?

Mr. STEIN. Too high? It is not too high, but is not too low either.

Mr. WALNUT. Do you recall a conversation that I had with you in which you said you considered that $7,500 was a proper price to pay your judges, but you did not desire the judges of Philadelphia County to be paid more than the Allegheny County court judges, but that in two years from now you would be willing and ready to advance an amendment to raise the salaries of them all to $7,500.

Mr. STEIN. I have no doubt that I did, but that was more in the nature of a prophecy or a prediction on that point.

Mr. Speaker. I move that the vote by which this bill passed on third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I would greatly like to state that it appears to me that this contention is more a matter of feeling that it is upon a broad principle as to whether or not our judges are receiving more than they are entitled to. We want to get a good court in Philadelphia. We feel that we can get a good court in Philadelphia if we pay the proper salary, and they surely will be with the salary that we intend to pay. The experience of the Chicago court has shown that the business done by the court—the costs charged—are more than sufficient to pay the expenses of the court.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I trust you will pardon me for intruding upon your attention again, but I shall make this as a final argument for the motion and the amendment. Now, I fully agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia in the need of this court. I fully agree with him that it is desired by the mercantile association, by the bar generally and entire population of the State, and I will go one step further by saying that we have just such a court in Allegheny County and it is giving almost universal satisfaction. But, desirable as the court may be for both Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, you gentlemen are sitting here paying out the money of the State, and I say to you it is not fair to the taxpayers, it is not fair to your constituents, it is not fair to your own conscience to pay a judge in Allegheny County $5,000 and to pay the same judge for the same service in the same court $6,000. Now, whether our salary in Allegheny is inadequate or not is not the question, and whether we intend to raise it hereafter is not now before the House. The only question now here is, should the salaries be uniform? Now, you gentlemen know that there is a cry all over the State that public officials are being overpaid and we know there is a good deal of truth in that complaint. Now, how can we consistently, how can we conscientiously say that the Philadelphia judges ought to get more than the Allegheny County judges? The cost of living is no greater in Philadelphia than in Allegheny. Notwithstanding your boast of the reputation of Philadelphia, conditons are exactly alike. We all know that for equal service, we ought to get equal pay, and that, gentlemen, is why I insist on this amendment, and I trust the gentlemen from Philadelphia will bear with me and see the motive of the amendment and not think for one moment that I am trying to interfere, or clog or impede their very much needed legislation.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am not interested in this petty quarrel and I want to say to the gentleman from Philadelphia that while I expect to vote for his bill, he ought to be willing to accept this amendment as offered by the gentleman from Allegheny to put it in proper form, to satisfy those who are not interested—that is, personally—in this little tiff, whatever it is. I want to say to the genleman from Philadelphia that if he wants my vote on the bill, he ought to be willing to do what the gentleman from Allegheny ask him to do.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEIN. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Do you think that $6,000 is overpayment for the qualifications of judges who assume the duties outlined in this bill?

Mr. STEIN. Is it an over-payment?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Is it too much?

Mr. STEIN. It is too much in view of the fact that we are doing it in Allegheny County for $5,000.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. I think that the amount proper to pay is not dependent upon what Allegheny County gives. I believe that $6,000, and $6,500 for the president judge, is small enough to secure the type of talent which we desire. I also feel that the salaries that the Allegheny County judges are working for are too small, and if the members of Allegheny County will introduce an amendment to the bill increasing the salaries of the judges of the Allegheny County court, I will cheerfully vote in favor of it, but you must remember that this bill forbids them for the ten years of their term to practice law. It means that you are asking men to accept a position which prevents their building up a large practice. You are asking them to lay down all hope of building up a future practice for at least ten years during the prime of their lives in order that they may serve in that capacity. and you are asking them to do so for the paltry sum of $5,000. My prophesy is, you will not get the right type of men and the perfect court that you want.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot believe that the gentleman from Allegheny and his colleagues would be so narrow as to defeat this legislation, because there is a difference between Allegheny County judges and the bill under discussion of a thousand dollars. The duties that are outlined in this bill are practically the same duties that the judges of the Courts of Common Pleas have in both Allegheny and Philadelphia County. At the last session of this House, my friend from Allegheny voted to increase the salaries of the Common Pleas judges from $8,500 to $11,000. There is absolutely no distinction as regards the duties of the judges as outlined, except as regards jurisdiction. This bill carries with it a jurisdiction up to $1,500, in all cases of trespass. When I speak of cases of trespass, I mean those cases of negligence, of which there are hundred and thousands in the large cities. I am speaking from personal knowledge, because I represent a public service corporation, and in nine-tenths of the thousands of cases brought, the verdicts are under $500 and under $1,000. This court gives jurisdiction in such class of cases up to $1,500. in which these people who are slightly injured can receive immediate relief instead of waiting two or three years in the Common Pleas court for that relief. We have in the Courts of Common Pleas a period of from twenty-six to twenty-eight weeks of jury trials, and three weeks of jury trials are devoted exclusively to cases of negligence or what are known as "personal injuries". When you ask men learned in the law—and we expect to get men who are qualified to fill these important positions—to accept the paltry sum of $5,000, I am convinced that those members who are lawyers in the Allegheny and Philadelphia delegations—none of them—would acept the position if offered to them to-day for $5,000 or even $6,000.

At the last session of the House, Mr. Speaker, we voted a salary of $5,000 to a Board of Viewers who meet possibly two or three time a week in the City of Philadelphia and in the County of Allegheny. We increased the salaries of men who will not have one-third, nor one- fifth the duties to perform these judges will have under this bill. I am convinced, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, that there are members upon this floor and among my own friends in this delegation who are not going to support this bill, because, forsooth, they believe that the old antiquated system of magistrates in Philadelphia will be abolished by the constitutional convention the bill for which will go from this House to the Senate and which will possibly go before the people. When that constitutional convention is approved by the people, they will meet in this House and they will abolish the old magistrate system throughout the State of Pennsylvania and the City of Philadelphia, as it should be abolished. Magistrates in Philadelphia have jurisdiction, Mr. Speaker, only to the extent of one hundred dollars in civil cases. They have no jurisdiction at all in trespass cases. Every case is appealed that is brought before them. They have jurisdiction in every criminal case, and every criminal case is held for the Quarter Sessions court,no matter how trivial it may be; no matter how aggravated it may be; and what is the result? There is that congested condition in the courts of the City of Philadelphia comprised of 1.600,000 inhabitants that the people cannot receive prompt justice. For the last six years there have been constant requests, not only from every labor organization but from every business organization, from every social organization and from organizations of every character and description, asking this Legislature to take the proper measures to relieve the congested condition of the courts of our great city. I do not believe that there exists in this House a member who is going to vote against this bill simply because there is a difference of one thousand dollars in the salaries mentioned in the bill. I ask you gentlemen not to be so narrow. If you believe in the merits of this bill, which the citizens of Philadelphia demand, I ask your support for the bill because it is demanded in Philadelphia. If I would depend upon the position which I occupy as trial lawyer for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, I would be against this bill because it means the employing of more claim agents, more inspectors and more lawyers and will probably put the transit company to a great expense in order to give the people of Philadelphia the justice that they need when they are injured by the negligence of their employees.

There recently appeared in a Philadelphia newspaper a statement that I was lobbying for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, that I was keeping in committee the compensation bill which I introduced and which is on the second reading calendar of the House. I ask that that correction be made by the newspaper correspondent representing that publication, because it was manifestly unfair to me and to the constituency which I represent. I know I am digressing from the subject, but I ask in all fairness that you give us the remedial legislation which the people of Philadelphia have been crying for for the last eight years.

On the question recurring,

Will the House reconsider the vote by which this bill passed Third reading.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question.

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I regret very much that the more important of the two measures which have to do with the conditions in Philadelphia could not come up in connection with this one. I refer to the Senate Bill now on second reading, which proposes to increase our Common Pleas judges by five members. This bill has not only received the approbation of the Senate, but comes here with the endorsement of the Philadelphia Bar Association. The Bar Association endorses this bill for the increase after making a very exhaustive investigation through a subcommittee, which came in with a full report of the necessities of increasing the judges and also considered the municipal court proposition and the full debate in the Bar Association meeting. I say again that the Bar Association endorses the Five Judge Bill. Personally, I believe the Five Judges Bill—and the Bar Association bears me out and it is certainly the body of men who are most conversant with the conditions of our courts and is best able to prescribe the remedy to bring about a more desirable condition of affairs in our litigation—I believe that the Five Judges Bill is the most desirable of the two. I, however, propose to support both bills. I propose to vote for the Municipal Court Bill, but I say that if any believe that Philadelphia should have one but not the other, it is more necessary for Philadelphia to have immediate relief from the Five Judges than it is for the Municipal Court. However, I think both of them are desirable. If we receive both the Municipal Court and the Five Judge Bill, our proportion of population to the number of judges on the bench will be reduced. We have now one judge to every one hundred and three thousand and under the Five Judges Bill, if passed we will have one to every thirty-five thousand people of actual residence in Philadelphia. That is just about the proportion which is now existing in Allegheny, in New York and San Francisco. Boston has about one judge to every 26,000 people. For that reason I believe it is desirable that Philadelphia have both these measures. The Five Judges can reduce the trial list. As it now stands, you have heard it will take almost three years to clean up our list in its present condition. Philadelphia has increased from 756,000 in 1874 to 1,750,000, and that does not include our large suburban population which is really a part of Philadelphia, where people live and sleep, and do everything else in the City and are possible litigants in the City. Now gentlemen I ask you to give us justice and help us on both of these bills, but if one must be defeated, if you can only vote for one, vote for the Five Judges Bill.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

On the question

Will the House agree to the section

Mr. NEELY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend section three, line 5 by striking out the word "Saturday" and inserting the word "Tuesday."

On the question

Will the House agree to the amendment.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, The purpose of this amendment is to change day of the primary from Saturday to Tuesday. This bill has been considered in Committee and the question involved by the change was fully discussed and the reasons advanced for keeping it at this time were that Saturday under the present law was the day that should be retained for the day of the primaries, for the reason that at that time laboringmen and men being employed out of the City could come and have more of an opportunity to vote and that it was a far better time to hold the primaries and it was not deemed advisable to change that day, and for that reason I ask you to vote down the amendment.

Mr. NEELY. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, the reason I offer this amendment is that Saturday is the day on which we now hold our primaries. In Allegheny county, especially in my district, which I have intimate knowledge of, Saturday primaries begin at two o'clock and close at eight o'clock. The Board stays in the polling places from eight o'clock until five and six or ten twelve and sometimes on into Sunday afternoon. Now the new primary law provides for an all day primary. And provides for non-partisan primary. This style of primary will bring out a large number of voters to the primary. They must come to the polls in a primary election in order to express their preference for the men who are to run at the November elections, that of course will increase greatly the work of the election boards. The polls will be open all day. No person will lack the chance of coming in and casting a vote. It is immaterial whether a man is off on Saturday afternoon or not. He has Tuesday all day from eight o'clock in the morning until eight o'clock in the evening to come and cast a vote. Under this style of primary, of course the work of the election board would be greatly increased. Under the new system where we have municipal elections once every two years, the members will likely work all day Sunday to tabulate the vote of the district. Then there are several other things. First the religious objection is that these persons have to work all day or a part of Sunday, and then there are other persons who are interested in the election and they are all kept away from church because they are all interested in finding out how the vote is.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. NEELY. I will.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. I understood that one of your objections at the time was the fact that Saturday was the Sabbath day for some religious sects and that it kept them away from the proper observation of the Sabbath.

Mr. NEELY. I did not hear what you said.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. I would ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether or not his objection was not based on the fact that Saturday is the Sabbath for a certain religious sect.

Mr. NEELY. That is one of my objections. I have not yet reached that point.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. I would ask, Mr. Speaker, whether or not the force of his objection is not the fact that the elections being held on Saturday forces the Board to work on Sunday.

Mr. NEELY. The great number of ballots cast, and the large number of officers or candidates whose votes are to be tabulated make the work of the election board so great that they are unable to complete the work until late Sunday morning. In addition to the arguments I have already stated, I also wish to call your attention to the fact that a certain nationality in our city, in Pittsburgh, the Jews, the Orthodox Jews refused to vote on Saturday. Under the old primary law, the Orthodox Jew could have assistance and have someone mark his ballot for him as his religious belief is that he cannot use a pencil for writing on Saturday, which is his Sabbath. Now a great number of Jews refuse to vote on Saturday for that very reason, and under this law the same condition will exist, and under the assistance law, which was passed here some days ago, not one of the Jews of that faith would be able to cast his vote at all.

Mr. MARTIN. I am quite sure that this amendment would affect the farmers very largely, and I am sure that it would be objectionable to them to have the primaries on Tuesday instead of Saturdays. In their behalf I appeal to the members of this House, as well as for others who I am quite sure would be better suited to have the primary election on Saturday instead of on Tuesday. Therefore, I ask the members of this House to vote down this amendment.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I am opposed to this amendment from the fact that it will disfranchise almost all of the traveling men of this State. As you know, most of them are at home on Saturdays, and if this amendment is carried it will be necessary to keep them home until Tuesday. It will work a hardship to them, and on that account I am opposed to the amendment.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House. I am heartily in favor of this amendment and my cause is this: We have a sect in our county, by name, the Seventh Day Adventists, who are practically disfranchised by reason of our primaries coming on Saturday. Hence they do not attend any of the primaries and not having the privilege of voting at the primaries, they do not even vote, since our primaries come on Saturday at any of the regular elections, and I hope the House will vote for this amendment.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House. I quite agree with what has been said in relation to the amendment as was suggested by the gentleman from Allegheny. There are certain sects, the Orthodox Jews that would not praticipate in any election held on Saturday, and as the gentleman from Bedford suggested, there are other sects to which this would apply. Other than that we all know that under the present law that on account of the large number of names which appear on the ballot that it is very seldom that an election board gets through its work until long after the hour of midnight and long after the dawn of the following day, which is Sunday. There are some men who object to being placed on election boards. We have in our county and you have it all over the State men who will not serve on election boards simply because of the fact that the day on which they are serving their state runs over to the next day and the fact that they are not through counting until long after church time on Sunday. I have known Boards in our county which did not close the doors and finish count until Sunday evening and it is unfair to require people to serve in that capacity and at that time when it can be done just as well at other times of the week. In regard to a certain element, to-wit, the traveling men of this State, there is little if any argument in that matter, but I do believe that when you compare the number of them who might be absent on their business on Tuesday, it will not in any measure compare with the business men who on account of the increased business which they do on Saturday must not only himself stay at his place of business, but endeavor to keep his help there and not allow them an opportunity to go to the polls to vote. I think it would be a sensible thing at this time to make this a matter of convenience to the greatest number and unquestionably that will be met if the time be fixed on Tuesday instead of on Saturday.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the House that if an adjournment is now taken that this bill, which consists of twenty-five sections, will be the first matter in the order of business to-morrow morning.

The motion to adjourn was then agreed to, and at 1:45 P. M., the House adjourned to meet to-night at eight o clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, March 11th, 1913.

EVENING SESSION.

The House met at 8:00 P. M.
HONORABLE DANIEL J. SHERN presiding.

MEMORIAL SERVICE ON DEATH OF JOHN H. RIEBEL, LATE REPRESENTATIVE FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, we have met for a solemn purpose. We are here to pay tribute to the memory of one who answered very suddenly a few days since to the call of God. We are glad that Thy servant was engaged in his work when this call came; that he was standing in his place and fulfilling his mission as the servant of the people. Public tribute has already been paid to the fidelity and earnestness with which he responded to the calls coming to him and rendered his work.

We rejoice in this tribute and in the further tributes which shall be uttered in the progress of this service. Wilt Thou take charge of the service, so controlling and directing that all that is said and all that is done shall be helpful to us and comforting to those who stood most near to Thy servant whilst yet he was living. May we be in full harmony with the service, our hearts tender, our sympathies responsive, and wilt Thou graciously bless the shadowed circle and the darkened home from which Thy servant was taken, being the God of consolation and the Minister of Grace to those who are there. And may we all so try to live and to labor that when God's call comes to us, be it at the noon-time of live or at the even-time of life, we may answer to that call without trepidation or fearfulness and leave behind us memories, influences and wrought out work that shall be cherished as exceedingly sacred and precious.

We ask all this in the name and for the sake of Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen.

CHAIRMAN SHERN. My colleagues and friends of the decease, we are gathered this evening in accordance with the sacred custom to pay a humble tribute of respect and affection to our departed colleague.

Somewhere, it has been written that "Friendship is a sentiment of affection; undiminished by distance; scarcely dissolved by death and with God's permission to be renewed in Heaven." The deceased, John H. Riebel, was a real friend. My first acquaintance with him commenced when I entered the Halls of this Body in the Session of 1903. I was absolutely green as to the knowledge of parliamentary law and legislative procedure. It was my good fortune to be assigned to a Committee of which the decease was a most active member and I never had occasion to consult him in regard to information on legislation but that he gave it with all the courtesy possible and extended to me the information which I desired. The deceased of late years was not as aggressive as he was when I first entered these Legislative Halls. As you probably know, he was the Father of the House, having served continuously from the Session of 1887 down to the present time. In all the difficulties and most bitter political contests that took place in his district, John H. Riebel, was always returned from that district to membership in this House. His loss will be felt not only by his colleagues here; not only by the vast number of friends and constituents in his district but by the great State of Pennsylvania that he has so long and so faithfully and so devotedly served. I sincerely trust that his soul has gone to a peaceful resting place. He had no enemies. All men were his friends. I never, in all the twelve years that I knew him, heard him speak ill of any one.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Chairman, Gentlemen of the House. Honored by an invitation to speak on this memorial occasion, I confess that words fail me in an endeavor to express my feelings. I knew Brother Reibel best by the name of Mr. Reibel, The Father of the House, and for him, I had the profoundest respect.

He was a conscientious, genial, courteous, fair legislator. He was a hard conscientious worker for his constituents and his entitre State, and so much did his constituents appreciate his loyality to them, that he was serving his thirteenth consecutive term, so I am informed. Hence, the title of "Father of the House" by the point of service.

When the news flashed across the State that Father Reibel had passed to his reward, it came as a great shock to us all, and to-night we mourn for a griend, a brother and a loyal member of the House of Representatives; and while his seat and desk are vacant, and are decorated with a symbol of mourning, the flowers, however, denote life which tells us that he still lives in the memory of those who knew him, and to know him was to love him.

I served with him in the session of 1911, and learned to love him, for his kindness and fairness, he was conspicuous for the stand he would take when he believed his cause right, always taking an active part in all legislation in which his constituents were interested or affected, and none will miss him for being called to his reward more than they. But let me say that we, as members who knew him best will miss him as do his constituents, and we shall feel his loss very kneely, but knowing that our loss is our brother's gain, we submit to our Heavenly Father.

By Party choice he was a Republican and had served as a member of the committee in his ward for thirty years or more. This attests to the loyalty to his Party. He served with distinction in the late rebellion, loyal and true which was characteristic of him.

His beloved wife having gone to her reward some years before him, in the same loyalty and love, he nas gone to be reunited never more to be separated.

And now, brethern, let us ever cherish and remember the good qualifications of our brother forgetting his faults if any he had, commending the family and friends to our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well, and who has said: "Cast thy burden upon me and I will give you rest." Let us all live, for to live in the hearts we leave behind is not to die.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER: Mr. Chairman and Members of the House. We meet at this hour to pay our tribute of respect to an honored Member of this House, John H. Riebel, who, because of his continued service as a Member, was known as the father of the House of Representatives. His first session being in the year of 1887. Many of you have known Mr. Riebel better than myself. My acquaintance goes back to the 1911 session and I have always found Mr. Riebel a man of a willing mind to assist a friend in his work Mr. Riebel's death was sudden to most of us, for few knew he was ill at all. We miss his counsel, he was studious and conscientious in his views. He was esteemed in all of his public official life. His ability and integrity never was questioned. He was fair and impartial. He took a great interest in charitable institutions and untiring in his work. Mr. Riebel was a man of his word, frankness in his expressions and we generally knew where he stood upon all Legislative questions. Mr. Riebel was admired not only by his fellow members but was beloved by his constituents, where he was known best. His twenty-six years of continuous service in public life is a high tribute to him and would be to any member of this House. His chair is vacant draped in mourning. We miss him, his friends and kinsman miss him, but in his home where his loved ones surrounded him and where comfort and enjoyment was a pleasure, miss him most, his example here will not be forgotten. He was Chairman of Committee on Electric Railways and those who served with him on other Committees recognizing Mr. Riebel as a man of good sound judgment upon every legislative question. Mr. Riebel has given valuable service to the State and to the nation. We often asked the question when one of our friends in the midst of what seems on the outer appearance in the best of health, is called from life to reward. What does this mean? We listen, it is full of solemnity and impressiveness. A life of character exalted by all men. Yes one of our members has fallen. He has fought a good fight. Our prayers goes out to his loved ones at home, and in closing and what seems to me most fittingly at this time I quote these beautiful words:

"At last thy life well lived, thy work well done
Thy shining course of steadfast duty run,
Thy time of rest has come at set of sun.

Now in thy lot in glory dost thou stand,
Yet liveth on in this terrestrial land,
In other lives touched by thy gracious hand.

Thy life was seed for harvest yet to be,
And its full and ripened fruitage, none may see Till breaks the dawn and dawn of eternity."

And now O, God, Thy grace impart
Sustain and heal each wounded heart,
And in the hollow of Thy hand
O keep that broken, weeping band.

We joy with thee that thy life's goal is won
Beyond the glory of the setting sun
Where Jesus waited with his sweet, well done.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Chairman: The oldest man in years of service has passed from this House—a rugged milestone in our legislative road has been removed, and to-night we do this worthy person but simple justice when we hold solemn memorial session in commemoration of his passage from our ranks to the Great Beyond.

John H. Riebel served in this House almost as many years as I am old, and I deeply appreciate the opportunity of playing some part in these memorial exercises of a splendid Philadelphian and distinguished legislator.

Mr. Riebel was born in the old district of the Northern Liberties in 1845 long before its consolidation with the City proper, lived there his young life and when his country issued her call for native sons to defend her, he answered on June 3, 1861, when but 16 years old, and served through the entire conflict, being honorably discharged December 12, 1865.

In 1887 he began the longest continuous legislative service of any man who ever came to the Legislature, and now in his thirteenth term, a life that stood valiant and true in '61 a connecting link with stirring days, has gone forever.

It has been the custom on occasions such as this to extol in flowery verbiage the life and deeds of departed men, and whilst garlands of the most beautiful verbal construction would not be inappropriately placed upon this picturesque figure, I will not take up your time in any long enconium.—Mr. Riebel would not have desired it—his life was a busy, honest, practical life; his character was candid, bold and brave; and he was the rugged, strong, manly, patriotic Philadelphian of whom we, as Philadelphians, and we, as Pennsylvanians, might well be proud. He was full of the highest and noblest manly impulses. He was a real friend and an able legislator.

He carries with him the affection and esteem and appreciation of all who knew him. Let us, from this worthy life which leaves the record behind of which anyone might justly be proud, take rather the lesson for the living. Let us in these solmen exercises find a human living note to encourage those of us who now struggle in matters of legislation. Let us remember that this valiant defender of '61, this busy legislator of 26 years, was a candid, honest, open-hearted courageous man and what more can be said of any one. Let us in hope raise up our heads as he would have us do, looking to the future of promise, resolved to so live and act, each man his own life, that when the last call comes we shall pass each in turn to the Great Beyond, as in the words of the poet, like one who draws his mantle about him and lies down to pleasant dreams.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Chairman and fellow Members, I appreciate more than I can express this opportunity to drop a flower upon the grave of Uncle John Riebel. The companionships of good and true men mold in great measure yours and my life. The memories of our good friends leave a lasting imprint upon character. The halls of this House and of thirteen preceding sessions have been honored and graced by the presence of one who to-night sleeps his last sleep. Some of you have known him but a short time; others, like myself, for a more extended period; still others, perhaps, through your entire political lives To all who know him he endeared himself. A character, as has been said, that was most positive and bold, yet retiring and unassuming. In 1845 God breathed into him a living soul. In 1861 when the call for volunteers was first made, it is recorded that he joined the Marine Corps. Then a mere boy, he served his country four and a half years, gallantly, nobly and with true American spirit; his first call to arms, his first service for his country.

In 1887, having entered somewhat into the political field, he responded to the call of his constituents and from then until now, has been rewarded by being returned at their hands up to the day of his death. It seems but yesterday that he was here. I recall having talked with him on Tuesday evening for sometime, the last Tuesday evening before he left use. He was with us again and in the House on Wednesday on Thursday, he fell to sleep.

To-night, Mr. Chairman, we are paying our last tribute and in memory and in spirit are at this moment on the very verge, the edge of the dark river which separates life and death; and in memory and in spirit, we reach out into and beyond the shadows which separate us from the Great Beyond, the Great Unknown. In spirit and in death, we touch again the glad hand. The warm heart that we knew pulsated for you and for me, for your interest for my interest, and for the interest of his people, the interest of this Commonwealth in the breast of our good friend, Uncle John is stilled in death. Mr. Chairman, answering the call of his people, as he did, so bravely, just as he had done in youth, bravely he answered the call of death. May peace and happiness be attendant spirit on his ever living soul.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Chairman, let me add a small but earnest tribute to our John H. Reibel. I say the word "our" for he was our "Father John." I, too, like you, Mr. Chairman, was instructed by him and he helped me as a new member. I thanked him then and now I say, may he rest in peace and perpetual light shine upon him.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Chairman, I met Brother Reibel early in the session of 1907 when I first came to Harrisburg. Among others Robert Deardon and "Uncle John" Reibel, as I called him, met me, and from that time until the present we were devoted friends. When I returned here I missed my friend Robert Deardon. Possibly by reason of our age and our experience and our reminiscences we frequently met together. And in knowing Mr. Reibel since that time, I can only utter one expression in the extemporaneous remarks that I may make to-night, that he was one of Nature's noblemen. I profited by his suggestions and by his experiences here in his many days and many years in this Assembly, and I always found him a trusted and true friend. In his modest way of expressing himself, with a voice as tender as a maiden, and his heart as true, no one ever heard him utter a word behind your back or before your face that was a reflection on any Member of this House. This testifies to the fact that he came here during all those years; this takes you back to the reward of a true man whose constituents had absolute faith in his intergrity, in his honesty and in his uprightness and his clean manhood. There is no one here to-night, with all regard and respect to the members of this House, that I shall miss more than "Uncle John" H. Reibel, as we called him. In the language of that beautiful song poetry I feel to-night like.—

"One who treads along that banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are field,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but I departed."

And we might say, when we consider the life of "Uncle John" Reibel, while he was taken away from our midst so suddenly—I met him the night before he left here—he departed by reason of his illness, he went home, he laid down and departed this life; he answered that last roll call with that same conscientiousness that gives a free passport to the happy Beyond.

And yet we may say to-night, considering Brother Reibel's departure, why all this turmoil of an hour Earth's noblest efforts end in "Dust thou art; unto dust thou shalt return."

Mr. BASS. Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, Time, with its all-softening hand subdues the passions of men, but Death, like the fabled stroke of the thunderbolt, illumines and consecrates the virtues. I remember the first time that I met Mr. Reibel. His appearance and his demeanor impressed me. His calm, suggestive features, his unobtrusive civilities, his vigilant interest in public affairs, his energy without ambition beyond his duties, his convictions free from passion and his words inspired credence. He seemed to be the growth and the expression of his splendid character and nature. But he is gone, like an unreturning wind, like a declining shadow, like a passing vision, he has vanished for all time, leaving behind him the example of a faithful, conscientious and earnest life for those of us to emulate when his body is mouldering away, and we trust his spirit is with the blest.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou art the Author of all wisdom and the fountain of all light. We come to Thee this morning, asking that Thou wouldst so enlighten our minds with the knowledge of the truth and so govern our wills by Thy laws, that no evil shall entice us or lead us astray, and no temptation corrupt us. We pray for Thy guidance and government. Thy quickening and help through the whole day, keeping us faithful in our duties and services, giving us alert minds, cheerful dispositions, and responsive hearts. May we be ready to respond to the calls which come as the day advances, and may we cultivate that forbearance and charity, that brotherly kindness and sympathy, which shall most closely attach us to those who are about us, and make our influence enriching and helpful. And we ask all this in the name of him who taught us to say: Our Father, who art in Heaven, hallowed by Thy name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in Heaven; Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from all evil, for Thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory, forever. Amen.

The SPEAKER: The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

To the Honorable the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to transmit herewith for your information copy of report of the Commission appointed under and by authority of the General Assembly, to examine the laws relating to the recording of deeds and mortgages, transfer of lands, insurance of titles, etc., and to recommend such act or acts or changes in the Constitution as will in the opinion of the Commissioner materially improve the present system.

(Signed, JOHN K. TENER.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the report of the Commission which accompanies this communication will be printed in the current Legislative Journal for the information of the House. The Chair hears no objection, it is so ordered.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION APPOINTED BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA UNDER AND BY AUTHORITY OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, TO EXAMINE THE LAWS RELATING TO THE RECORDING OF DEEDS AND MORTGAGES, TRANSFER OF LANDS, INSURANCE OF TITLES, ETC.' AND TO RECOMMEND SUCH ACT OR ACTS OR CHANGES IN THE CONSTITUTION AS WILL, IN THE OPINION OF THE COMMISSIONERS, MATERIALLY IMPROVE THE PRESENT SYSTEM, ETC.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Pursuant to a concurrent resolution of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, approved May 12th, 1911, Joseph K. Fletcher, James E. Lennon and Frank Craven, of Philadelphia, and John C. Slack and George T. Hetzel, of Pittsburgh, were appointed by the Governor a Commission to investigate the different systems of recording deeds and mortgages, and insurance of titles, now in effect in the several States, and report to a subsequent session of the Legislature such act or acts or changes in the State Constitution as will materially improve the present system in the State of Pennsylvania and authorize Counties to insure purchasers of real estate against defects in titles and provide for the assistance and co-operation of the Legislative Reference Bureau. And it was further Resolved, "That the Governor of the Commonwealth be, and he is hereby, authorized to appoint a Commission consisting of five citizens of Pennsylvania, whose duty it shall be to investigate and examine the various laws now in effect in the different States relating to the recording of deeds and mortgages, the transfer of lands, the insurance of titles, and the practical operation of such laws, and report to the next session of the Legislature such act or acts and changes in the Constitution, if necessary, which, in the opinion of the Commission, will materially improve the present system governing the recording of deeds and mortgages in the several counties of this State, with a special view of recommending a law authorizing the counties of the State to assume the responsibility of insuring purchasers of real estate against pecuniary damage by reason of defective titles."

THE SAID COMMISSION RESPECTFULLY BEGS LEAVE TO REPORT:

That the above-named Commissioners were duly commissioned by his Excellency, the Governor, on the 20th day of December, A. D. 1911.

The Commission met in Philadelphia on the first day of February, 1912, and organized by electing Joseph K. Fletcher, Chairman, and James E. Lennon, Secretary.

It is with much regret that we have to report the death of George T. Hetzel, Deputy Recorder of Deeds, Pittsburgh, one of the Commissioners. He died on the 26th day of September, A. D. 1912. On the first day of December, 1912, the Governor appointed J. Smith Christy, of Pittsburgh, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Hetzel.

For the purpose of learning the views of all interested parties, the Commission held public meetings: one at Philadelphia, on the tenth day of June, 1912, and one at Pittsburgh, on the fifth day of December, 1912. The meetings were given wide publicity through the newspapers and by notices mailed to individuals and associations.

The meetings were attended by members of the Bar, real estate brokers and conveyancers, representatives of Building and Loan Associations and of The Building Association League of Pennsylvania, which league represents nearly all of the Building and Loan Associations of the State, and by representatives of the title insurance companies.

Many of those who attended gave full expression of their views on the subject, and the Commission was gratified to note the deep interest displayed by those present showing that the questions involved have received attention from those who do business in the offices of the Recorders of Deeds and in transfers of real estate.

The Commission takes this opportunity of thanking those who attended, for their assistance.

The Commission also, for the purpose of obtaining all available information, corresponded with the officials of each of the States of the United States, and with the executives of Australia and Canada, and have collected a large amount of material which will be filed hereafter with the Legislative Reference Bureau.

The laws relating to the Recording of Deeds in the several States of the Union, where a modern method patterned after the Torrens system has not been introduced, are similar to those of the State of Pennsylvania, and an explanation of the recording laws of this State will apply to them.

In Pennsylvania, the transfer of land is made by deed recorded, which record gives constructive notice to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees. This system of recording deeds, etc., was introduced into the Province of Pennsylvania in 1683, and an enrollment office was established on the lines of the enrollment system in Middlesex, England.

The first legislative enactment of 28th of May, 1715 (1 Smith's Laws, page 94), is the foundation of the present system of transferring lands by deed in Pennsylvania, and by various acts of Assembly, passed at different times, there has ben envolved a perfect system in this State whereby purchasers and owners have notice of all changes in the ownership of real estate and encumbrances. Notwithstanding the excellence of this system, drawbacks have developed. In former days, when our population was smaller, it satisfied the popular demand, but with the increase of population it has become less serviceable. The people are now largely concentrated in cities and populous towns; the density of population and the increase of real estate transactions are reflected in the mass of records in the offices of the various Recorders. In the county of Philadelphia alone, there have accumulated since 1683 over 15,000 large books of record.

In former years in transferring real estate it was necessary to prepare a brief of title, which required a laborious examination of the records for errors, mortgages, liens and other encumbrances, by persons of learning and experience. These briefs of title were then submitted to lawyers, upon whose opinion the proposed transfers were made or rejected. This method was cumbersome and expensive. Generally, when an owner desired to sell, a re-examination of the title was required by the attorney or conveyancer of the subsequent purchaser, which entailed further delay and expense, especially if defects or flaws were discovered in the prior examination of the title. The cost was always borne by the purchasers or mortgagors.

This uncertainty and expense became so burdensome in time, as to affect the ready availability of real property as an asset and led to the information of title Guarantee companies throughout the State. These companies do the work which formerly was performed by the lawyer and conveyancer. They make and deliver searches for those who do not desire to insure their titles, which were formerly made and issued at the offices of the recorders of deeds and other county officers, and for themselves when they guarantee or insure against loss by reason of a defect in the title. In Philadelphia and Pittsburgh the guaranteeing of the title by a title company has become largely one practice. Back of this guaranty is the capital of the company, instead of the opinion of a real estate lawyer, which may be erroneous, or may be disputed by the attorney for a subsequent purchaser or others.

Although this system of title insurance has given some relief, it still involves a new examination of title with every change of ownership.

In view of these facts, it cannot be doubted that the public is entitled to have the cost reduced and to have the operation of transferring titles to real estate made more simple, speedy and direct, if possible.

To overcome these objections, efforts have been made to devise a method to simplify, expedite and make more economical the transfer of land, and permit of the trading in real estate as expeditiously as in stocks, bonds and other securities, and to make titles thereto absolute.

After careful examination of the different methods of transferring real property now in use in the civilized countries of the world, a system of transferring real estate by registration of titles, sometimes called the "Torrens System", or modifications thereof, seems to overcome, to an extent, the present difficulties and merits careful consideration.

A form of this system of registering titles has been in use in Austria-Hungary from the Twelfth Century and has been universal in Austria since 1811. It was adopted in Prussia in the year 1872.

"The Torrens System" takes its name from Sir Robert Torsens, Baronet. About 1850 he became Registrar of Deeds of Adelaidefi, Australia. During his incumbency of that office he became familiar with the old system of transferring titles by deed and recording, which is substantially that now in general use throughout the United States. He was convinced that because of its lack of simplicity, accuracy, expedition and economy, it was out of harmony with the practical ideas and progress of the age.

As commissioner of customs, Sir Robert had become acquainted with the facility with which transfers were made of shares in ships under the Merchants' Shipping Acts. After his appointment as registrar of deeds he was impressed with the expedition and simplicity of that system as compared with the regulations surrounding the dealings in real estate. Modeled on the Merchants' Shipping Acts he finally evolved the scheme of registration of title, as opposed to the old system of registration of deeds, which has since become known as the "Torrens System."

In 1858 the Torrens System was introduced in South Australia with Torrens as the Registrar-General. This step, taken by South Australia, was soon followed by other colonies: Queensland in 1861, Victoria, New South Wales and Tasmania in 1862, New Zealand in 1870, West Australia in 1874 and Fiji in 1876. In England the matter has been agitated since 1850. In 1862 a Royal Commission was appointed and in accordance with its recommendations a land transfer act was passed in 1875, known as "The Lord Cairn's Act." There have been several acts passed by Parliament since that time, terminating in the Act of 1901, which made the use of the system, under certain conditions, compulsory in the City of London. In British Columbia the same system has been in operation since 1870; in the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba since 1885.

In 1892 a Commission was appointed by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois to investigate "The Torrens System" of transferring titles; as a result of which a bill was introduced and passed which was declared unconstitutional and void by the Supreme Court of Illinois. A second Act was passed in May, 1897, and, as to the questions passed upon was held to be constitutional. Besides the decision in Illinois, it was upheld in Massachusetts in the case of Tyler vs. The Judges, 157 Mass.

In the State of Ohio an Act was passed by the Legislature, but was declared unconstitutional. To overcome the defect in this Act, an amendment to the Constitution of Ohio was adopted, September 3rd, 1912, by the votes of the People; there being a large majority in favor of the amendment authorizing the establishment of the system.

The system was adopted in California in 1897, in Oregon in 1901, and in Minnesota in 1902 and amended in 1909, in Colorado in 1903, in Washington in 1907, and in Massachusetts in 1908, in New York in 1908 and in some other States. It has also been adopted by the government of the United States in the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, and other insular possessions. The experience of these States shows that the system is more or less feasible, and, in large communities, of value.

The report of the Commission appointed in the year 1907 by his Excellency Charles E. Hughes, then Governor of the State of New York, now Justice of Supreme Court of the United States, to examine the system of registering titles to real property known as the Torrens System, says, in part:

"Of the three historical methods of dealing with transfers of real property, (1) transfer by instrument unrecorded and simply held by the owner, (2) record of instruments of transfer and incumbrance, and the giving of constructive notice by such record, and (3) registration of titles (as distinguished from registration of documents) as a means of assuring them and facilitating their transfer—the second method, which is used in New York and most of the States of this country, grows more cumbersome as it becomes older, and, in spite of efforts to make it less burdensome, is tending to break down of its own weight. The multiplication of records, the complication of titles, and the repeated expense of re-examination and the delays incident threto, should be avoded if any feasible method of doing so can be devised. We are very clearly of the opinion that a system of registering titles may be put in operation in this State, in such manner as to avoid these and other difficulties incident to the present system and to become of much utility and advantage to conveyancers and owners of real property.

"That such a system can be constitutionally made and operated seems to be clear from the authorities and arguments set forth in the brief on that matter. *

"The feasibility of such a system has been practically shown by its working in other States, even against strong opposition and this notabily in Massachusetts, where the conditions are very similar to those in New York. The utility of interests in real property originates from, and rests upon the State. It is natural and logical that by a fiat of its courts the State should increase that utility whenever possible. After a thorough examination and a certification by a competent examiner and care and deliberation on the part of a Justice of the Supreme Court, any ordinary title in this State may be so determined and assured, by a judgment of that Court, as to need practically no subsequent examination; and such a title may be so dealt with thereafter as to obviate the necesssity of such investigations as are now made whenever a title is passed.

"Therefore, while recognizing the importance and advisability of some other changes in our present Real Property law, such as are recommended in this report, we are convinced that the most important matter to be dealth with, and that which should demand the first attention of the Legislature, is a plan or method for registering titles to real property. The essential features of such a plan, and those which we have sought to embody in the accompanying proposed bill, are as follows:

"1. The primary objects to be accomplished by the system are to give greater security and certainty to titles, to avoid the necessity of long and repeated examinations of titles in the future, and to make real property interests, because of the ease and quickness with which they can be transferred, more readily available to security and assets, and thus cause them to become more useful and valuable.

"2. Registration must be in the first instance the outcome of a judicial proceeding which, as far as possible, shall determine and quiet the title and fix and specify the matters, if, any, that may still be left undetermined or to be worked out in the future.

"3. Because of the age, value and importance of titles in this State, the system should be voluntary, and adopted gradually as its needs and importance may appear to the owners of real property. It is hoped and believed that the proposed statute will appeal at once to many owners of land, especially in the largr counties, and that its utility will become more and more apparent with its use.

"4. Such a systm should be inaugurated with as little innovation as possible, and as far as practicable should leave the existing law unaffected. It has been the earnest effort of the commission, in drafting the proposed statute, to make it harmonize with the historic and settled principles of our system of real property, and not to make any change except where it was necessary in order to introduce the registration system.

"5. A new law of this character should also be avoided as far as possible, the multiplication of public offices and officials, and the use of complicated methods and machinery. It should employ, as far as available, existing agencies and forces."

Congress has recognized the system adopted in the States named by enactment providing for the entering of judgments rendered by Federal Courts in the various registration districts.

The system, in all its modifications and as adopted in the various States, provides that any owner or owners of land may petition such a Court as may be designated by Act of the Legislature, for leave to register their title to the same, producing their muniments of title and a survey or plan of the property. Then, a complete abstract of title must be prepared, which petition and abstract are referred to an Examiner, upon whose favorable report the Court fixes a time for hearing, of which notice is served upon all known parties within the State by Summons, upon all known parties out of the State by registered mail, and upon all unknown partes by advertsement. At the hearng evidence is taken and all parties interested in who appear are hear.d If any legal rights adverse to the application appear, the petition is dismissed without prejudice, or an issue may be framed to be tried before a jury; if warranted by the evidence, the title of the petitioners is declared to be an estate in fee simple, and a decree to that effect is entered upon the record. The effct of the decree is to debar all adverse claimants at the date thereof, who do not appear with a Bill of Review within a stated time; and in some instances to substitute money awards for ownerships divested b ythe procedure; the lands are also thereby protected from all claims upon adverse possession, and the decree is binding and conclusive equally on those who have appeared, infants, persons insane or under any legal disabilities, absentees, and persons who have not received or could not possibly have received notice of the proceeding. If such parties have estates or interests which are taken from them by this provision of the law, they are entitled to claim the value thereof in money; lwful method being provided for the adjustment of the same, and a fund is created by a special tax on each proceeding, called an Assurance Fund, with which to pay these claims. The registered land is conveyed and mortgaged by transfer of the certified copy of the decree, which is done by the Register of Deeds of the proper county, who may lay any transaction he doubts the legality of before the Court for its review and instruction.

The Commission is convinced that there is a demand for a change in the system of land transfers in Pennsylvania This is evidenced, not only by the many representatives speakers who attended the meetings above referred to, but by numerous communications which were received.

It is apparent to the Comission, after mature consideration, that the "Torrens System" as above described, can be inaugurated in Pennsylvania and made effective, but an amendment to the Constitution of the State is necessary and your Commission would recommend that an amendment in the form as follows be submitted for adoption:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION.

Laws may be passed providing for a system of registering, transferring, insuring of and guarteeing land titles by the State or by the counties thereof, and for setting and determining adverse or other claims to and interests in lands the titles to which are so registered, transferred, insured and guaranteed and for the creation and collection of indemnity funds and for carrying the system and powers hereby provided for into effect by such existing Courts as may be designated by the Legislature and by the establishment of such new Courts as may be deemed necessary. In matters arising in and under the operation of such system judicial powers with right of appeal may be conferred by the Legislature upon County Recorders and upon other officers by it designated. Such laws may provide for continuing the registering, transferring, insuring and guaranteeing such titles after the first or orginal registration has been perfected by the Court and provision may be made for raising the necessary funds for expenses and salaries of officer which shall be paid out of the treasury of the several Counties.

Notwithstanding the favorable experience of other countries and several of our States, the reform is one that should not be made without exhaustive research and deliberation.

The subject should be referred for further consideration and report, if deemed wise by the Legislature, pending action upon the proposed Constitutonal amendment, so that progress of the system in other States of the union may be observed and a carefully prepared scheme of legislation creditable to our great State may be ready for submission.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

In the Senate January 21, 1913.

Whereas, The Commission to investigate and report upon Surface Support in Mining Anthracite Coal, created by Joint Resolution, approved the 24th day of March, A. D. 1911, will be unable to make its report to the General Assembly on February 1st, 1913, the date specified in the resolution, because of insufficient time;

And Whereas, This delay has been occasioned by the fact that the Commission has as yet been unable to secure certain maps and other valuable data now in course of preparation, and because of the fact that the testimony of a number of expert mining engineers and others is still to be taken by the Commission;

Therefore, Be it Resolved, (if the House concur), That the Commission hereinbefore mentioned be granted an extension of time to make its report to the General Assembly, said report to be made on or before the first day of March, A. D. 1913.

PERSONNEL OF THE COMMISSION.

The Act creating the Commission was approved by Governor Tener on March 24th, 1911.

The Commission originally consisted of Hon. J. Benj. Dimmick, Hon. W. L. Connell, Col. R. A. Phillips and E. J. Lynett, of Scranton; W. A. Lathrop and Charles Enzian of Wilkes-Barre; W. J. Richards and W. H. Lewis, of Pottsville, and G. M. Davies of Lansford.

ORGANIZATION

The Commission met for organization on June 12th, 1911; Commissioner W. J. Richards, of Pottsville, was elected President and Commissioner G. M. Davies, of Lansford, Secretary. The Commission elected as their Clerk, Mr. Charles B. Stevens, of Scranton. The Commission was well under way with its investigations when it suffered the great loss through the death of Mr. W. A. Lathrop, who passed away following a surgical operation, on the morning of April 12th, 1912. Mr. Lathrop had taken a great interest in the work of the Commission, and although prevented from attending its sessions, due to pressure of official duties, his helpful suggestions and mature advice was manifested in shaping the work of the Commission. Governor Tener appointed Mr. S. D. Warriner, of Philadelphia, Pa., to the vacancy caused by Mr. Lathrop's death.

Respectfully,

W. J. RICHARDS,
President.

SUMMARY STATEMENT

THE SITUATION PRESENTED FOR CONSIDERATION.

In the coal regions of Pennsylvania, it is a matter of common occurrence, that land is divided by horizontal as well as vertical lines, so that the surface is owned by one person and the coal under it by another. As the coal owner conducts his mining operation he is frequently confronted with the alternative, either of leaving unmined coal which he has a right to remove, or of mining it out at the risk of damaging the surface. Whether the operator is legally bound to support the surface, either by leaving unmined coal which he has a right to remove, or of mining it out at the risk of damaging the surface; whether the operator is legally bound to support the surface, either by leaving unmined pillars of coal for that purpose, or substituting artificial support, of whether he has the right to remove all the coal without regard to its effect upon the surface, depends upon the rights acquired by, or reserved to, the mine owner and surface owner in and by the deeds and contracts under which they respectively hold title. These deeds and contracts in many instances were executed when the development of the mining industry was in its infancy and the surface overlying the coal was but sparsley inhabited. As mining progressed, population naturally centered in the neighborhood of collieries, and towns and villages grew up on lands underlaid with coal, the owners of which had acquired the right to wholly mine it out without obligation to support the surface. In exercising this right, it is evident that the removal of all the coal without furnishing other support must, and often does, cause a subsidence of the surface, menacing the safety of the structures and people upon it.

To consider this condition, and if possible, to suggest remedies which will tend to minimize, so far as may be done, the dangers resulting from this situation, this commission has been constituted.

In submitting to the Legislature of Pennsylvania, this report of the investigations upon the physical conditions and legal rights in the matter of surface support in mining anthracite coal in Pennsylvania, the Commission realized that its scope was clearly and comprehensively set forth in the clause in the resolution, viz:—

> ".....to investigate and report upon both physical conditions and legal rights in the matter of surface support where coal has been removed, or the right to remove said coal is vested in others than the owners of the surface; and for the further purpose of suggesting new legislation relative to the same; and an appropriation to meet the expense of said commission....."

and it is hoped that the facts ascertained and the conclusions drawn therefrom will be accepted as representing the best thought and study of the Commission.

It may be assumed that the best evidence of the magnitude and importance of the problem exists in the fact that the Legislature of our Commonwealth created this Commission. The deposit of Anthracite should be conserved as far as practicable, so that the economic and social prosperity of the State of Pennsylvania may be perpetuated.

State and Federal authorities have collaborated in investigations of mining operations in the Anthracite region, as this industry is recognized as of national as well as State importance. The investigations conducted by this Commission have been developed by careful deliberations.

Its conclusions embody the best thought of many practical mining men familiar with the economic operations of coal mines in the United States and other countries.

The entire coal area of the Anthracite fields is but four hundred and eighty-four square miles; in the year 1911 the market requirements, as represented by the shipments, reached seventy million tons.

To ship seventy million tons of coal requires a mining production of approximately 87,500,000 tons, to provide for the fuel consumption at the mines, the losses and waste in preparation, and the shipments.

The extent and present shipments of each region are:—

Region	Square Miles	Shipments—Tons
Wyoming	176	40,803,912
Lehigh	45	9,775,018
Schuylkill	263	19,375,369
Total	484	69,954,299

The Wyoming Region embraces the Wyoming and Lackawanna Valleys, and is contained in Lackawanna and Luzerne Counties.

The Lehigh Region embraces the territory surrounding Hazelton, and the Panther Creek Valley, east of the Little Schuylkill River at Tamaqua. It is contained in Luzerne, Carbon and Schuylkill Counties.

The Schuylkill Region embraces Schuylkill, Mahanoy and Shamokin Valleys, lying west of the Little Schuylkill River. It is contained in Schuylkill, Columbia, Northumberland and Dauphin Counties.

The shipments since the beginning of mining from each region have been:

Wyoming Region	996,259,033 tons
Lehigh Region	291,710,938 tons
Schuylkill Region	594,991,272 tons
Total	1,882,961,243 tons

These tremendous demands are drawing upon the coal contained in the ground, and it must be realized that certain portions of the field are being rapidly exhausted.

Of the shipments during the year 1911 from the Wyoming Region, 20,177,155 tons were from Lackawanna County, of which 6,542,817 tons were mined from under the City of Scranton.

In Lackawanna County very little virgin land remains to be developed. The tonnage remaining to be mined being mostly contained in pillars and thin veins which were formerly considered unminable at the lower prices then prevailing. The assessment figures of 1907 prepared by the County Commissioners of Lackawanna County show this condition clearly.

Of the one hundred and seventy-six square miles of coal land in the Wyoming Region, approximately eighty-three square miles are in Luzerne County, and ninety-three in Lackawanna.

The support of the surface and the structures located thereon will in the future seriously reduce the life of the region, especially the Wyoming, unless some wise policy can be made to prevail.

In Lackawanna County, of the ninety-three square miles, sixty-six square miles are occupied by incorporated boroughs and cities, while in Luzerne County, out of eighty-three square miles, thirty-five square miles are similarly occupied, while fully one-half of all the territory in both counties offers serious embarrassment to mining because of surface obstruction.

The area occupied by incorporated boroughs and cities in each region is given below:—

Region	Total Area Square Miles	Incorporated Boroughs & Cities Square Miles
Wyoming	176	101.00
Lehigh	45	7.72
Schuylkill	263	18.00

A careful study of the tabulations contained in the body of this report will disclose the following facts:—

That while in all the regions there was a material increase in the production of coal from 1899 to 1911, inclusive, when analyzed by counties it is found that Lackawanna County, which is the northeastern portion of the Wyoming Region, shows a comparatively smaller increase in its tonnage than the counties of Luzerne and Schuylkill. In the City of Scranton, the mining and commercial center of Lackawanna County, with a population of 130,000 people, located entirely within the coal measures, and in which the movement to solve the mine cave problem originated, a marked decrease in the percentage of shipments is indicated as compared with other localities in Lackawanna County. The percentage of shipments from the city as compared with the entire county, is substantially less in 1911 than it was in 1899, although the shipments from the entire county show a substantial increase. The shipments from the city increased from 32.5 per cent in 1899, to its maximum of 41 in 1902, and from then on steadily decreased to 32.4 in 1911. In other words, if the present rate of mining is maintained, the coal under the City of Scranton will be exhausted in about twenty years. The same is true of the mining industry of Lackawanna County. The life of the mining industry of Luzerne County and the Schuylkill region will be many times this period. Therefore, it is of vital importance that the greatest practicable amount of coal should be ultimately removed, and any action which will shorten the life of the mining industry will materially react upon the commercial activity of the city. All of which emphasizes the importance of the cooperation of the public and the mining companies in wisely conserving the coal for the market, thereby prolonging the life of the industry as much as possible. The result will be of substantial benefit to the community, to the surface owners and to the mining companies.

The great importance of the mining industry upon the commercial prosperity of the community is emphasized by the fact that there are employed in and around the coal mines, in the City of Scranton, about twelve thousand men and boys. Including the boroughs of Taylor, Dunmore, Old Forge and Dickson City, which are contiguous to Scranton, there are employed in and around the mines thirty thousand men and boys, whose annnual wages aggregate $22,860,000.

The influence of the production of Anthracite coal upon the growth of the communities located within the coal measures, as compared with the communities directly outside of the coal measures, is demonstrated by the tables contained in the main body of the report, illustrations from which follow:

COMMUNITIES WITHIN THE COAL MEASURES.

	Population 1900	Population 1910	Per cent of inc.

PROBLEM.

The Commission recognized that its problem was two-fold: First, To find remedies for existing difficulties.

Second, To suggest measures to prevent the continuation of the present menacing conditions. With these points in view the Commission makes recommendations which are contained in the body of the report.

In reaching a solution of this important problem, the Commission has not been unmindful of the efforts of the people of various municipalities to induce manufacturers seeking new sites to locate within their limits. Such activities are necessary if the municipalities are to continue to maintain their present importance and to grow and thrive after the coal has been exhausted. Nevertheless we desire to call attention to the fact that coal mining is the basic industry, bringing many millions of dollars in wages into the coal region every month, and that in locating new industries care should be taken to provide against undue interference with the conservation of coal and that mining may not be hampered by operations of far less magnitude and value to the communities.

SOLUTION.

To state, as may be very fully stated, that no communities in the country, excepting those that have been visited with sudden and overwhelming catastrophies, have ever been confronted with a problem as difficult as the one now confronting the communities in the Anthracite coal regions, is but to admit the many and great difficulties in the way of any substantial solution thereof.

While more than fifteen months were devoted, exclusively, to the obtaining of whatever information, in the form both of data and of opinions that might give promise of shedding light upon the problem, fully six months were largely devoted to the consideration and discussion of possible remedies, and it soon became apparent that the members of the Commission hold widly different views, from insistence on the one hand, upon the admitted legal right of the owners of the coal, to insistence ,on the other hand, not only upon the equitable rights of the owners of the surface, but also upon the inalienable rights of community life to exercise its police power, whenever security, health or morals are threatened.

As the discussion proceeded, it became evident that the views as set forth were irreconcilable, and that if either were to prevail, it could only be after years of stubbornly fought contests, both political and legal.

On the other hand, the Commission was unanimous in its belief that:

First,—Any practical delay in the application of remedial measures would work not only great, but irremedial injury.

Second,—The development of hostility between the communities and the owners of the basic industry of those communities, would also work serious injury by reason of their common interest .

Third,—If reasonable concessions were made by all the parties interested, there might be a middle ground upon which all could stand, and which if found, would result in practical benefits of great value to all concerned

These views being entertained unanimously by the Commission, negotiations were entered into with the Presidents of the prinicpal mining companies and the final result thereof was a voluntary undertaking upon the part of these companies, as agreed to by their respective officers, of a pclicy as herewith set forth:

PLAN.

On condition that, and so long and so far as, the exercise of their rights to mine coal are not restrained, restricted or penalized by the passage or enforcement of State laws or municipal ordinances, the mining companies agree to protect all public highways and city streets; this protection, however, to be based generally upon the principle of the conservation of the coal thereunder for market purposes, and to involve a reasonable attitude upon the part of the communities having jurisdiction over said public highways and city streets, and also a reasonable use of the right of said companies to mine thereunder, so far as affecting the surface is concerned. On the one hand, the communities to refrain from unreasonably enjoining mining where no serious public injury will result; and on the other hand, the companies to refrain from so conducting their mining operations as to seriously interfere with the centers of traffic in municipalities where the conditions are such that serious public injury will result, and to provide for the security and convenience of the public by giving proper notice of proposed mining which may affect the surface, by providing temporary ways of passage, and finally, by repairing at their own expense any and all damage caused to the municipalities by said mining.

Pay at least one-half of the cost of repairing all structures (except those of mining and railroad companies) damaged by mining having a value of five thousand dollars or less.

Whenever danger of surface subsidence is imminent, sell so far as they have the legal right so to do, for a fair consideration to owners, (except mining and railroad companies) of structures exceeding five thousand dollars in value, such pillar coal as they may reasonably desire to purchase for the support of said structures, such consideration to be twenty-five per cent. above the prevailing royalty value upon leases made at or near the time of purchase, the basis of computation being eighteen hundred tons to the foot acre. In the event of such purchase, however, the coal thus purchased to be forever appropriated to the support of the surface. If, however, support may be reasonably provided by filling or otherwise, then to flush, fill or build artificial supports, in such portions of the mines as may be desired by the surface owner, at a price not to exceed the cost thereof to the mining companies, but at the expense of such surface owner, provided that when such support is at the election of the mining company, the expense to the surface owner shall not exceed the cost of pillar coal as hereinbefore provided.

In recognition of the peculiar conditions and the general fear of immediate surface damage in the city of Scranton and borough of Dunmore, and with a purpose of relieving the public solicitude, but without admission or interpretation of the present value of the coal, the principal operators in this territory agree that during the period of eighteen months after March first, 1913, they will sell so far as they have the legal right so to do, to owners (except mining and railroad companies) of structures exceeding five thousand dollars in value, such pillar coal as they may reasonably desire to purcase for the support of said structure at the rate of thirty-five cents per ton on the basis of eighteen hundred tons to the foot acre.

In the event of such purchase, however, the coal thus purchased to be forever appropriated to the support of the surface. If, however, support may be reasonably provided by filling or otherwise, then to flush, fill or build artificial supports in such portions of the mines as may be desired by the surface owner at a price not to exceed the cost thereof to the mining companies, but at the expense of such surface owner, provided that when such support is at the election of the mining company, the expense to the surface owner shall not exceed the cost of pillar coal as hereinbefore provided.

Provision to be made for the adjustment of any disputes arising in connection with such sale or putting in of artificial supports.

The undertaking as set forth upon the part of the companies is revocable; on the other hand, the communities remain perfectly free as regards the exercise of police power, a power that they could not divest themselves of even should they consent thereto.

The Commission, however, is unanimously of opinion that when the practical benefits of the plan are appreciated, the benefits being substantial to the communities, to the surface owners, and to the mining companies, that all parties will be led, not only through selfish interest, but also through a regard for the public welfare, to exercise that self restraint that will be necessary to render the Plan substantially and permanently effective.

That the Plan may occasionally work a hardship is undoubtedly conceivable, but no solution of so complex a problem could presumably be without that defect.

That the benefits are mutual and substantial is the well-considered belief of the Commission, and that they may be the more easily and clearly comprehended, they are herewith set forth.

Speaking broadly, all the parties,—the communities, the individual and the mining companies are benefitted, obviously, by any prolongation of their basic industry, and therefore, as far as compatible with community and individual rights and necessities, this principle was acknowledged and kept in view, It was recognized in the classification of property, under which pillars are not to be left, by the dividing line of value, of five thousand dollars and under; such dividing line not only increasing the total amount of coal to be mined, but also decreasing the burden of making good the surface property of a very large percentage of the total structures of the Anthracite Regions, inasmuch as the cost of repairing the damage caused by letting down the surface under structures of five thousand dollars or under, will average much less than either of the two other methods, namely, the "leaving of pillars," of "flushing."

The prolongation of the basic industry is also helped by mining under highways and streets safeguarded, as to traffic centers, said highways and streets, however, being restored in all cases, to their original status and conditions, by and at the expense of said mining companies.

The mining companies, therefore, benefit by such boardened activities and in consideration of same, they participate in the burden of making good all surface property, such participation taking two forms:— First,—By paying one-half, at least, of the cost of repairing all structures having a value of five thousand dollars or under. Second,—In selling the necessary pillar support for all structures exceeding five thousand dollars in value, at a price that is a distinct concession from the actual value of such pillar coal to them as coal miners. The former burden is estimated, in the city of Scranton alone, at say $3,500,000, while the concessions upon the coal pillars, also in Scranton alone, would probably reach the same figure.

The benefit to the surface owners is, therefore, substantial, the companies, roughly speaking, paying one-half of the cost of the ultimate solution of the problem, as regards probably ninety per cent. of the property owners of the Anthracite regions and making a distinct contribution wherever pillar support is demanded by reason of the character and value of the remaining ten per cent.

The communities are benefitted by the prolongation of the industry, and by the securing of terms for individual property holders that while burdensome are not considered as being prohibitive. Possibly one of the greatest benefits to the community is the sentimental reassurance that should come from the placing in immediate operation of a practical remedy for conditions that not only menace, but are actually retarding community development. As to the placing of a portion of the cost of supporting private property upon the communities as such, which is, in effect, but changing the form, but not the weight, of the burden, it was felt that such action would be impracticable, owing to the voluntary character of the plan, to say nothing of the inequalities that would be worked through the varying conditions in any given community, or of the complications that would arise from increased municipal indebtedness.

The query very naturally arises as to what will be the attitude of the smaller companies who are not included in the arrangement. The Commission can only suggest that it will be difficult for any mining operator, however small may be his filed, to decline to acknowledge this reasonable measure of his responsibility so overwhelmingly established by his competitors in trade, unless it be that such operator is indifferent not only to equitable, but also to ethical obligations.

With the setting forth of the benefits of the Plan, and with a renewed expression of confidence in the effectiveness thereof, the Commission feels that it but remains to finally submit the same, and in so doing they simply express the hope that the practical results of their investigations and conclusions may, in some degree, be commensurate with the labor and thought expensed thereon.

LEGAL RIGHTS.

After receiving carefully prepared opinions from learned counsel employed by the Commission, as to legal rights of the various parties interested in the problem, it was realized that such rights could hardly be set forth with a degree of certainty that would not be open to dispute, and in view of the character of the solution to be recommended, it was felt that it would be unwise to attempt to do so, in fact the fundamental divergence of views as to the legal rights constituted an important factor in bringing about the Plan as agreed upon and hereinafter recommended.

VOLUNTARY UNDERTAKING OF CORPORATIONS.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE ANTHRACITE MINE CAVE COMMISSION.

Scranton, Pa., February 19, 1913.

On condition that, and so long and so far as the exercise of their rights to mine coal are not restrained, restricted or penalized by the passage or enforcement of State laws or municipal ordinances, the mining companies do agree to:

First. Protect all public highways and city streets; this protection, however, to be based generally upon the principle of the conservation of the coal thereunder for market purposes, and to involve a reasonable attitude upon the part of the communities having jurisidiction over said public highways and city streets, and also a reasonable use of the right of said companies to mine thereunder, so far as affecting the surface is concerned. On the one hand, the communities, to refrain from unreasonably enjoining mining where no serious public injury will result; and on the other hand, the companies to refrain from so conducting their mining operations as to seriously interfere with the centers of traffic in municipalities where the conditions are such that serious public injury will result, and to provide for the security and convenience of the public by giving proper notice of proposed mining which may affect the surface, by providing temporary ways of passage; and finally, by repairing at their own expense, any and all damage caused to the municipalities by said mining.

Second. Pay at least one-half of the cost of repairing all structures (except those of mining and railroad companies) damaged by mining having a value of five thousand dollars or less.

Third. Whenever danger of surface subsidence is imminent, sell, so far as they have the legal right to do, for a fair consideration to owners (except mining and railroad companies) of structures exceeding five thousand dollars in value, such pillar coal as they may reasonably desire to purchase for the support of said structures, such consideration to be twenty-five per cent. above the prevailing royalty value upon leases made at or near the time of purchase, the basis of computation being eighteen hundred tons to the foot acre. In the event of such purchase, however, the coal thus purchased to be forever appropriated to the support of the surface. If, however, support may be reasonably provided by filling or otherwise, then to flush, fill or build artificial supports in such portions of the mines as may be desired by the surface owner at a price not to exceed the cost thereof to the mining companies, but at the expense of such surface owner, provided that when such support is at the election of the mining company, the expense to the surface owner shall not exceed the cost of pillar coal as hereinbefore provided.

Fourth. Provision to be made for the adjustment of any disputes arising in connection with such sale or putting in of artificial supports.

Fifth. In recognition of the peculiar conditions and the general fear of immediate surface damage in the city of Scranton and borough of Dunmore, and with a purpose of relieving the public solicitude, but without admission or interpretation of the present value of the coal, the operators agree that during the period of eighteen months, after March first, 1913, they will sell so far as they have the legal right so to do, to owners (except mining and railroad companies) of structures exceeding five thousand dollars in value, such pillar coal as they may reasonably desire to purchase for the support of said structures at the rate of thirty-five cents per ton on the basis of eighteen hundred tons to the foot acre. In the event of such purchase, however, the coal thus purchased to be forever appropriated to the support of said surface. If, however, support may be reasonably provided by filling or otherwise, then to flush, fill or build artificial supports in such portion of the mines as may be desired by the surface owner at a price not to exceed the cost thereof to the mining company, but at the expense of such surface owner; provided that when such support is at the election of the mining company, the expense to the surface owner shall not exceed the cost of pillar coal as hereinbefore provided.

To this agreement, formal acceptances have been given, as to their respective territories, by the following corporations:—

COMMISSION'S RECOMMENDATION.

In the opinion of the Commission, any general solution of the problem should contemplate, so far as practicable, the ultimate extraction of all the coal.

In the future all cemeteries in the anthracite coal regions be located outside of coal measures. In several communities of the anthracite coal regions subsidences have occurred which have involved the disturbance of graves and the displacement of coffins. Such desecration is shocking to human sensibilities and in the future should be avoided by the location of cemeteries in safe places.

In communities in which mining operations are being carried on, this Commission advises recommends that in the future school buildings and other public buildings should be built with special reference to existing conditions, so that the least possible injury may occur by reason of the subsidence of the surface.

The Commission recommends that hereafter no new plans of lots and streets shall be laid out over coal measures, where mining conditions are such that serious danger to the public is to be apprehended by reason of the mining out of the underlying coal.

It shall be duty of all municipal and quasi-municipal corporations to require and direct that all public improvements be so undertaken, if practicable, that the tendency would be to lead to the location of municipal addition or extensions over areas not underlaid with coal.

The attention of prospective builders of structures in the coal regions is called to the dangers of building on lots underlaid with coal and are advised to desist from building on such lots unless the conditions are reasonably safe.

In mining communities, all waste materials, such as ashes, refuse, earth, etc., should be used for flushing purposes, whenever practicable, and that in order to secure co-operation to that end, municipalities, corporations and individuals should deliver such waste at such points as may be practicable for the mining companies to avail themselves thereof.

The Commission endorses the practice of mining companies in reasonably compensating surface owners for damages caused by mining operations.

PROPOSED LEGISLATION.

The Commission recommends the enactment of the following bills:—

AN ACT

PROVIDING FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF ARBITRATORS TO SETTLE DISPUTES AS TO CERTAIN FACTS CONCERNING THE DAMAGE TO PUBLIC OR PRIVATE PROPERTY BY MINE CAVES AND FIXING THEIR COMPENSATION AND PROVIDING FOR THE PAYMENT OF THE COST THEREOF.

Whereas, A joint resolution, for the appointment of a Commission by the Governor of this Commonwealth for the purpose of investigating and reporting upon both physical conditions and legal rights in the matter of surface support where anthracite coal has been removed or the right to remove said coal is vested in others than the owner of the surface; and for the further purpose of suggesting new legislation relative to the same; and making an appropriation to meet the expenses of said Commission, approved by the Governor, March 24th, 1911.

And Whereas, In pursuance of said resolution said Commission has organized and fully considered the matters submitted to it under said resolution and has made its report to the Governor as therein required.

And Whereas, The said Commission has reported that there has been a voluntary offer made on the part of the mining companies to the effect that upon certain conditions they agree to bear a certain proportion of the cost of repairing property, and also will repair streets under certain conditions; and further, that under certain other conditions coal for the support of the surface will be sold at rates therein fully set forth or supports will be furnished for the support of the surface.

And Whereas, It is necessary to enact a law whereby any disputes arising as to the cost of repairing property, ascertaining the quantity of coal left to support the surface and improvements thereon, or the cost of furnishing artificial support, and further as to the repairing of public highways under conditions named in said report.

Now, Therefore, Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is herby enacted by the authority of the same:

Section 1 That whenever any dispute shall arise concerning the matters as herein stated, that such matter of dispute shall be submitted to a Board of three arbitrators, one to be appointed by each of the parties to such dispute, and the said two arbitrators to appoint a third, and in case of their failure to agree upon a third arbitrator within a period of thirty days after their appointment, then the said third arbitrator to be appointed by the President Judge of the county in which the land is located about which the dispute arises. AN ACT

TO AFFORD ADDITIONAL PROTECTION TO THE PUBLIC AGAINST DANGERS RESULTING FROM THE CAVING IN OR SUBSIDENCE OF THE SURFACE OVERLYING ANTHRACITE COAL MINES.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same:—

That where the owner or operator of any anthracite coal mine in this Commonwealth possesses the right to mine out all the coal without obligation to support the surface, and proposes to exercise that right by removing or materially weakening the support theretofore afforded to the overlying surface by pillars of coal, it shall be unlawful for him to do so until sixty days after he shall have ceased to be served in the manner provided by law for service of the writ of ejectment, a written or printed notice of his intention so to do upon the owner or owners and the occupant or occupants of the surface lands liable to be affected by such action. Such notice shall specify the time when such pillar mining will, in the operator's opinion, render further occupation of the surface dangerous, and shall be served at least sixty days before the date stated therein. Within the period during which the said occupant or occupants are thus given an opportunity to remove from such place of danger, it shall be his or their duty to do so and remain absent therefrom until the danger from subsidence of the surface has passed.

Section 2 The said owner or operator shall cause to be served in the manner aforesaid, a notice of fifteen days, upon gas companies and electric light or power companies maintaing pipes and wires in territory under which mining operations are being conducted, which notice shall state when, in the operator's opinion, said mining operations will be liable to disturb said gas pipes and electric wires; whereupon it shall be the duty of said companies to shut off the gas and electric currents or regulate the supply thereof in the threatened territory until subsidence of surface shall have occurred or the danger to be apprehended therefrom has passed away.

REASON FOR VOTING ON HOUSE BILL NO. 232.

Representative John R. K. Scott, of the 8th District, assigns as his reason for voting against the Steele Prohibition amendment, as follows:

"For the same reason that I voted against Local Option I vote against this amendment.

"It is undoubtedly the fundamental right of the majority to enact laws to govern. If it is the desire of a state to exclude the sale of liquor, then that is their right. The sale of liquor is a right permitted by our laws. Under these laws there has grown up a large industry in the manufacture and sale of vinous, spiritous and malt liquors. Many millions of dollars are invested by individuals in this industry. The right to possess property is inherent in an individual. The right to own that property free from confiscation without compensation is the inherent right of an individual. This right of the individual is as sacred as is the right of the many to make laws for its self-government. To vote for the above bill permitting the many by constitutional amendment to deprive the individual of his property at the command of the many, and this without any compensation to the individual, would be unfair and but a taking by the many the property of the few. This would be without the color of right. For this reason my vote in the negative was given."

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION TO FIX THE MINIMUM WAGES FOR UNITED STATES ARSENAL EMPLOYEES.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. James A. Dunn.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was twice read by the Clerk, as follows:

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Whereas, In the United States Arsenal located at Frankford, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, over twelve hundred women and men are employed in the manufacture of ammunition and explosives; and

Whereas, The minimum rate of wages paid such women is approximately one dollar to one dollar and ten cents per day, and the wages paid such men one dollar and fifty cents per day, except where those who work at piece work, which said minimum wages by forced work is raised occasionally to one dollar and fifty cents for women and one dollar and seventy-five cents for men; and

Whereas, It is eminently proper that the United States Government should take the lead in establishing minimum wage scales for men and women in this country, especially for those who are employed on work that is extremely hazardous; therefore

Be It Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the President of the United States is respectively urged to recommend to the Congress of the United States, as soon as practicable, the passage of an act of Congress establishing a minimum rate of wages for employes in the arsenals of the United States of one dollar and fifty cents for women and two dollars for men; and

Be It Further Resolved, That each senator and member of Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be requested to advocate and vote for the passage of any measure so recommended; and

"Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be duly prepared, certified and forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the President of the United States and to each senator and member of Congress from this State.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will lie over for printing.

RESOLUTION TO PLACE BILL ON CALENDAR.

Mr. KEEPORT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Keeport.

Mr. KEEPORT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was twice read by the Clerk, as follows:

Resolved, That House Bill number seven hundred and thirty-nine entitled "An Act providing for the reimbursing of persons partnerships and corporations for loss sustained by deprivation of privilege of selling or manufacturing vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors regulating such reimbursement and providing for the levying of a tax in the proper county city borough town township or ward" be placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the fact that it has been negatively recommended to this House by the Committee in Law and Order to which it was committed

The SPEAKER. Is the resolution seconded?

Mr. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, I second the resolution.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. KEEPORT. Mr. Speaker, the object of this resolution is to reimburse the men who are complying with the law which the State has recognized for years—closing them without being violators. It is not fair and just between man and man that they should be closed without being reimbursed for the loss that they have sustained. I therefore ask to have this bill placed on the calendar for action, notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks. Mr. Keeport, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KEEPORT. Yes, sir.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman this question: Suppose up in Lawrence County, where the judge has decided that there shall be no licensing, whether that county or some other county will be required to pay these hotel men up there that are supposed to have lost money?

Mr. KEEPORT. Mr. Speaker, No, sir. This bill does not go back of the time of its passage.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I could not hear the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman repeat his answer?

Mr. KEEPORT. No, sir. It does not go back of the time of its passage.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman further just exactly what people are to be reimbrused—I would like to know who is to be reimbursed.

Mr. KEEPORT. Mr. Speaker, the wholesaler and the retailer. Te bill, as it is now written, includes the manufacturer, but it was my thought to have it amended and I have the amendments in my pocket now. I had a little talk with the chairman of the committee and I told him that possibly I would not be able to get through to get these amendments in the committee and when I returned this morning, he told me that the bill was reported. For that reason I am now for the reconsideration of this resolution.

The SPEAKER. The question is upon the adoption of the resolution to place this bill upon the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation. The Clerk will call the roll.

COMMUNICATION FROM PRESIDENT WILSON.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to report to the House that in compliance with the resolution passed a few days ago, the Chair telegraphed said resolution to the President of the United States and that a reply has been received, which the Clerk will read.

The Clerk read the communication as follows:

IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, D. C., March 7, 1913.

My Dear Mr. Speaker:—The resolution of congratulation adopted by the Pennsylvania House of Representatives as embodied in your kind telegram of March 6th, is very gratifying to the Pesident, and he would be glad to have you convey to you colleagues an expression of his warmest thanks.

Sincerely yours,

J. P. TUMULTY,
Secretary to the President.

Honorable George E. Alter,
Speaker, House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented the following communication from the Governor, which was read, as follows, viz:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 12, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—A resolution adopted by the House of Representatives reads as follows:

"Whereas it is currently reported that there are persons in the employ of the several departments of this Commonwealth holding more than one position under the administration, the duties of which are nominal and the combined salaries greatly in excess of the services rendered.

Therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of five members of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, two of whom shall be Democrats, shall be and are hereby constituted a committee to inquire into the facts and to make report of their finding to the House within thirty days. Such committee shall have full power to administer oaths and to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books and papers; to issue all necessary processes, and to exercise all the powers belonging to a Committee of the House of Representatives."

Pursuant to this one House resolution, Mr. Walter H. Gaither, holding the office of Private Secretary to the Governor, a subordinate in the Executive Department of the Commonwealth, has been served with a subpoena, commanding him to appear before said committee.

I have directed Mr. Gaither to refuse to obey the command of the said subpoena for the following reasons:

Having in view the powers and duties of the three co-ordinate branches of the State goernment, a proper regard for the Executive Department and the prerogatives, powers and duties vested in that department by the people, under the Constitution of the Commonwealth, impeals me respectifully to express my dissent from the proposition that it lies within the power of either branch of the General Assembly to compel the Governor, or the head of any department included by the Constitution within the Executive Department, and their subordinate, subject to the supreme executive power vested in the Governor by that Constitution, by its subpoena, to appear and testify concerning, or produce books, papers and documents relating to, the administration of the Executive Department, before a legislative committee created by it, in any case where, in the judgment of the Governor of the Commonwealth, it would be incompatible with the public interest, to obey such summons.

The Constitution provides that:

"The supreme executive power shall be vested in the Governor, who shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

and that

"He may require information in writing from the officers of the executive department, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices."

and that

"He shall, from time to time, give to the General Assembly information of the State of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge expedient."

The same fudamental principle in our organic law, which exempts the Governor and his subordinate, while engaged in performing the duties pertaining to their respective offices, from the subpoena of the judicial department of the State government, likewise exempts the Governor and his subordinates from the compelling power of a subpoena of an investigating committee created by a resolution adopted by but one branch of the General Assembly.

I have never declined, nor shall I decline, to communicate to the General Assembly, all the information which, under the Constitution, or the law, of this Commonwealth, it is my duty to give or which my judgment as the Governor of the State may suggest to me, or a request from the legislature may indicate to me, will be useful in the discharge of the appropriate duties and functions committed to the law-making branch of the government

I do not find, however, in the Constitution of the Commonwealth, the authority given to the House of Representative to require the Governor, or his subordinates, constituting an independent co-ordinate branch of the State government, created by that instrument, to submit to the compelling power of such a subpoena, as is purported to be authorized by the resolution referred to.

If the information attempted to be compelled, without limitation, as to propriety or relevancy, by this resolution, and required by means of the unrestricted subpoenas of the House Committee thereby created, and now served upon my Secretary and other subordinates of the various Executive Departments of the government, be sought instead through a proper request or inquiry of the legislature, addressed to the Governor, concerning the subject matter of the resolution, in a way which does not strike at the above fundamental principles of our frame of govenment, or violate any other provision of the organic or statutory law of the Commonwealth, I shall unhesitatingly see to it, that all such information shall be promptly furnished. Meanwhile and until such request is preferred to the Governor, I have directed the heads of the several Executive Departments and their subordinates to decline to respond to the subpoena.

(Signed) JOHN K. TENER.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, on behalf of not only myself but on behalf of every member of this House, I desire to state that the Constitution in Article II, section eleven, says, "Each House shall have power to enforce obedience to its process". Since the Governor of the State has in a formal message refused obedience to the process of the House, not directed to him but to a mere subordinate in his office, I feel that a very serious question of the Constitutional privilege of the House has been raised. Therefore, Mr. Speaker,

I move that this message of his Excellency, the Governor, be referred to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of advising the House on what steps it ought to pursue.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HUMES and Mr. ALLEN, were as follows:

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

The SPEAKER. When the House adjourned yesterday it had under consideration on second reading Bill No. 118, file folio 1409, the question being on the adoption of the amendment offered to the third section by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Neely, and the question of the adoption of that amendment was under discussion. The Clerk will read the amendment so as to refresh the memory of the members of the House as to the contents thereof.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend section 3, line 5, by striking out the word "Saturday" and inserting the word "Tuesday."

Mr. NEELY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to offer additional amendments to the same section.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Neely offers three other amendments to the same section each of the amendments being for the same purpose—to strike out the word "Tuesday" and insert the word "Saturday." These several amendments can be acted upon together since they are all of the same nature.

The amendments were read as follows:

Amend section 3 line 6 by striking out the word "Saturday" and inserting the word "Tuesday."

Amend section 3 line 7 by striking out the word "Saturday" and inserting the word "Tuesday."

Amend section 3 line 8 by striking out the word "Saturday" and inserting the word "Tuesday."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, just a moment. I want to clearly explain the position of the committee on this bill. It was given careful consideration and there is no question but what a change to Tuesday would be a convenience to some people, but the thought of the committee was this, that Saturday is the day that is most convenient to the greatest number of people, most convenient to the farmer, most convenient to the laboring man, for the reason that the tendency of all labor legislation is toward a Saturday half holiday; and also for the traveling man. There are good reasons for the gentleman from Allegheny to support this change, but my contention is, and the contention of the committee is, that Saturday is the most convenient for the great majority of the voters, and I therefore ask the members to vote "no" on these proposed amendments.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, at the time of the motion for adjournment made on yesterday, I had the floor and was arguing in favor of the proposed amendment. In answer to all that has been said and briefly summing up what I had said on yesterday, to sum up the purpose of these proposed amendments and their effect, I still maintain that, inasmuch as the primaries held on Saturday oftentimes require the counting of various extensive tickets and requires election judges and clerks to serve the entire night Saturday and oftentimes and in many sections—in large cities—part of the whole day on Sunday, that the matter of the change should be made and Tuesday ought to be inserted instead of Saturday, thereby obviating those features which are very distasteful to many people. The suggestion has been made oftentimes in this House, in relation to election judges and clerks, that you could not get certain people to serve for various purposes, indicating that one of the strongest purposes and strongest obstacles that has stood in the way of having this very respectable element act as election judges and clerks has been due to the fact that much of their work had to be done on the Sabbath day, to which they were averse. Further than that, as was suggested, there are various religious sects and nationalities that will not participate in elections held on Saturday, and it will meet their purposes to have the election held on Tuesday; and for that and various other reasons that could be mentioned at this time, I feel that the amendments should be sustained and have the time changed from Saturday until Tuesday.

Mr. W. F. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I hate to take issue at this time with my friend from Allegheny, Mr. Neely, and my big friend at my right, Mr. Allen, but it is a remarkable fact that to take the rural districts as a whole, to change the time of holding the primaries from Saturday until Tuesday would be a great disadvantage. You take the traveling men, the thousands of traveling men in this State, and start them out on Monday and get them back on Tuesday, if you please; it is almost impossible to do it. You take the working man who goes out to the small towns in the rural districts on Monday and bring him back on Tuesday to vote and then get him back on Wednesday to his labor, and if you can do that, you can do better than ever I could. It is almost impossible to do it. We know that it costs a lot of money to do this and I am opposed to this bill from the very ground up. There are only a few classes of people that are favored in the proposed law, but it does have a little merit in that the merchants can thereby divide the business between Saturdays and Tuesdays. But take the people as a whole, there is nothing to it. You take the farmers,—to get them to go out in the first part of the week and on the second day, get them to attend an election is almost an impossibility to get them out anywhere as a whole. You cannot do it in the rural districts, and to pass a law like this or to pass this amendment would be very dangerous to the farmers and the traveling men and the working men that go out of town over Monday. Try and get them back; you could not do that, I don't think at all; and therefore, gentlemen—I am not in the habit of howling on the floor of this House,—but I earnestly ask you to vote this amendment down.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, I do not agree with what the gentlemen said who just had the floor. There are many industries throughout the Commonwealth that regards Saturday afternoon as a holiday, the farmers especially. I come from the city of Altoona, where there are 13,000 shop men who take Saturday afternoon as a holiday. To them this amendment would be very disadvantageous. I will say that I protest in behalf of them against this amendment.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, if all these arguments against changing the time from Saturday to Tuesday are so valid, I do not see why we do not change the general election from Tuesday to Saturday.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALLEN. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GRAMLEY. It has been said there are people in our State who would refuse to attend the primaries on Saturday because of their religious faiths. I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny to say to me whether or not the same people refrain from other work the same day because of that religious belief.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, I would say that they do.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this amendment for the reason that a great many of the working or laboring people go to their work on Monday and do not return until Saturday evening. Now, if this bill should be changed so that the election would be on Tuesday, instead of going to work on Monday, they would possibly lose the whole week. In all sections of the State, Saturday is almost always regarded as a holiday, there being no work on Saturday afternoon, and in that way our people can cast their ballots and lose no time whatever. If the change is made, at least two days will be lost, and we have also a considerable army who are engaged in farming and it suits them much better to attend the primary election on Saturday afternoon than it does on Tuesday afternoon. For this reason I am opposed to this change and ask the Gentlemen of the House to vote it down.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, for the reason that some of the wards whose politics are very corrupt in Luzerne county, the corrupt politicians would have all day Sunday to arrange the ballots to suit themselves, and Tuesday is the day set aside for the general election, and in my opinion it serves as a better day for the primaries than Saturday.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, just a word in answer to a portion of the argument that has offered in favor of the amendment. I am informed, and I think the information is correct, that several of the religious societies or religious faiths that observe Saturday as their Sabbath, observe that Sabbath from six o'clock Friday evening until six o'clock Saturday evening. Now, the primaries under this act will close at eight o'clock, so that members of those faiths will have the two hours from six to eight o'clock on Saturday evening to exercise their franchise. There is absolutely no question but that to at least seventy-five per cent. of the voters of this State Saturday will be decidedly preferable, and much more convenient to hold the primary election than Tuesday, and I trust this amendment will be voted down.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, it seems to me to be a mistake to change the time. If the gentleman from Luzerne county suggests that there are corrupt politicians in Luzerne county and that they have to take all day Sunday, they will still have Wednesday to fix up the ballots if it is changed. It seems to me to be a mistake to change the day for the reasons that have already been set forth. Especially the traveling men, those who live in commercial centers, it seems to me they would have better opportunities to get home. There are few enough people who participate in elections now, and it would not be a good change, it would result in less voting than is done now. The gentlemen from Blair suggested that he thought it was inconvenient for the shopman. I can hardly agree with him. I come from an industrial city, and I believe that the laboring men in my city would favor Saturday. It gives more people an opportunity to participate, and I therefore hope that it will not be changed. It takes a man only two or three minutes to cast a ballot, and therefore it would not take much time away from the day.

Mr. KENNEDY. I come from a district where we employ a great number of men and I believe that I speak the feelings of our employes when I say that they all would prefer that the election day be changed from Saturday to Tuesday. When they get through with their work and go home and get washed up it is almost impossible to get them back again, to get them out of the house. We make arrangements with our men to let them off earlier on election day and the gentlemen coming out on the other turn come out a little bit earlier and let the men on the day turn off so that they can attend the election; and I am sure it would be a move in the right direction; and it is an impossibility to get anybody to serve on the Board at the present time for the simple reason that they are kept there for such a long period; and I think that the amendment ought to be carried. We have about 7,000 men and I do not think there is one of those men but what would be in favor of having this amendment adopted.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following members:

Messrs. Berntheisel, Hess, Ramsey, Heyburn, Humes, Metzenbacher, J. H. Wilson, Charles A. Shaffer, Matt, Snavely, Be'och, Kuhns, Donnelly, Musser, Bergey, Bittles, Wettach, Robinson, Newton, Carson, Latshaw, Brownlee, Adam C. Shaeffer, Mather, Stone, Walsh, Bass and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question the question is Shall the previous question now be put?

A division was called for, 43 voting in the affirmative and 108 in the negative.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HERMAN: Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment to this section.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section thirteen page 13 by adding to this section the following: "provided, further, that when any person or persons are arrested for any violation of the provisions of any section of this act, the party or parties making such arrest shall immediately forthwith take or cause to be taken the parties so arrested to the nearest justice of the peace magistrate or alderman for a hearing upon the charge said person or persons were arrested."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HERMAN: Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I do not think the gentlemen of this House know what this amendment means. I wish to explain this before it is voted on. I do not know what has been the custom of the game wardens in your county, but I do know what has been the custom in our county. And it is this: that the game wardens in our county have been in the habit of arresting people back here ten or twelve miles right back in the country and then taking them down to the county seat or some other place past three or four justices of the peace and taking them before a certain magistrate for action. Now I contend that the parties in the premises have some rights and that they have a right to be heard without being lugged out of the community and away from their homes. If it will suit the gentlemen who are objecting to this amendment I will agree to take the word immediately out of there.

Mr. DAVIS. That same thing applies to the gentleman from the city who goes hunting and is arrested in the country and has no chance to get home. I think this is a bad amendment.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I want to be fair in this matter, but it seems to me that with the passage of this amendment you would place in the hands of a rural justice of the peace the governing of the hunting of game in that particular district, because he could so regulate his action that it would destroy the intent of this law.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think that probably this amendment would be injurious and would destroy the intent of this measure. Certain magistrates are made game wardens by this bill. I understand that the bill itself does that.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, it strikes me that there ought to be some amendment to this section. You will find as to the jurisdiction in the county where the offense is committed that there may be some merit in the contention of the gentleman that the jurisdiction should not be confined to the nearest Justice of the Peace. But why should a man in the northwestern part of the State who hunts there illegally be held in the County of Philadelphia or in Pittsburgh or in some other County? Under this act you are extending the jurisdiction to other justices in the State of Pennsylvania and not confining it to the County where the offense is committed. I think the point of the gentleman from Wyoming is very well taken. Possibly this amendment should be enlarged so as not to confine it but to keep it within the County where the offense is committed.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. Are there any other amendments to be offered to the thirteneth section?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment to the thirteenth section.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend section thirteen, line five, by striking out "defendant" and insert the word "dependent."

On the question

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fourteenth section was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 14 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

The title was read as follows:

An Act for the better protection of wild birds and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania requiring citizens of the United States residing within this State to procure a license before using guns for the purpose of hunting for any wild birds or animals protected by the laws of this Commonwealth and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions and the manner of proceeding to enforce compliance therewith and providing for the disposition of the license fees fines and penalties received

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment to the title.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend the title by striking out after the word "an act" "for the better protection of wild birds and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.'

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the attempt by this amendment is to strike out after the words "an act" "for the better protection of wild birds and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania." That is the title and the subject matter set forth within this act; if the title does not conform to this act, the act is killed. It certainly ought to stay in as the title unless you want to kill the act. If you want to kill the act at this time, adopt the amendment. If you want it to live vote down the amendment.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as I read the act I don't see anything in it that protects game in this Commonwealth. It strikes me that it is simply an act to compel a hunter to pay one dollar a year to take out a license for hunting and that is all. If these words are stricken out it does not destroy the effect of the bill.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, has stated just my view in this matter. I cannot find anywhere in this bill anything to show me why it is gotten up for the purpose of protecting game. It must be the object of this bill to tax the sportsmen of this Commonwealth who are willing to pay it. It is a tax of one dollar on the person that wants to go out in the woods and kill game. I don't object to that but I do object to passing a bill as one thing and embodying within the bill another thing. Let the bill read just as it reads. It is a hunter's license bill. We have other laws that tells us how to protect game. This bill does not tell us that but it tells us that we can take out a license to hunt for game.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I simply wish to say this: That it is clearly the intent and purpose of this bill to protect game for the reason that they are the only things under the provisions of this bill to be adjusted when certain conditions have been complied with. As I take it, and I haven't gone carefully into the penalizing part of this bill,—but as I take it the penalties which will be imposed will not be from the fact that a man goes out or that he hunts game, as it is if he destroys animals and game. Under the provisions of this act, the penalty is for the destruction of game—birds and animals that the penalties will be imposed. I say further, in relation to that, as I understand it, the department which has prepared this bill, has had the very best counsel they could secure in drafting the bill. It seems to me as the body of the bill and title that it is only a hunter's license bill, yet inasmuch as these words are written in the title, it can be clearly shown that such is the secondary purpose of the bill, at least. That if the title be added these words would not be defective, but if left out, might vitally effect the purpose of the bill and its standing in court. I think the title, as it is written into the bill, should remain.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I think that there is no great danger done if we amend this bill, even if it does kill the bill. Is it not a fact, strictly speaking, that it is a just revenue producing bill. Is there any one in the real estate business in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who objects to any city brother if he goes out like a gentleman to traverse his field during the hunting season? I, as a real estate owner, just a small owner, just a few acres, don't object to any one, as long as they are gentlemen, but I do object to have somebody else grant them a license to traverse my acres at any time they see fit during the season. Adopt the amendment and if you kill the bill, so much the better.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I don't object to a gentleman coming out and hunting on our land but what we do object to is to paying a license for the shooting of birds and game which we actually raise and feed. York county is largely agricultural; her people are thorough and just and as a representative of the agricultural district of York county, we ask you not to authorize anything which we don't want.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the amendment to the title. On the subject of the merits of the bill, debate on that will come properly and is in order when the question is before the House on agreeing to the bill on second reading.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment to the title?

Whereupon,

A division was called for, sixty-six gentlemen voted in the affirmative and seventy in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. RUNK. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Runk.

Mr. RUNK. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House. There is no State in the Union which presents a greater variety of surface than Pennsylvania. Its mountains spread over about one fourth of the State in parallell ridges, in a direction generally northwest and southwest. These mountains do not rise to a great height. They are separated by valleys, now contracted within narrow limits, and now spreading out to a width of from fifteen to thirty miles. In these fertile valleys and wooded mountain ranges are to be found ideal preserves for wild game which was the meat of our forefathers, without money and without price.

The climate of Pennsylvania is variable enough for the propagation of game birds and game animals, liable however to extremes, having some times the heat of the Carolinas, and at others the cold of Canada, but in periods of only three days, intermingled in summer with sharp winds from the northwest, and mitigated in winter by breezes from the southwest. Periods of warm weather sometimes occur in January and February.

This State, therefore as I have said, is an ideal one for the habitation of game. From the time William Penn came to Pennsylvania, there has never been an obstruction placed upon the freedom of those who would seek wild game in the mountains and valleys during these 231 which have elapsed since civilization began to drive the redman to the far off west. The only restriction has been an open and closed season and a daily and season limit of the amount of game that shall be taken.

Penn's treatment of the indians was noble and Christian-like, and the savage, who were the rightful owners of the wild game gradually left for the west leaving multitudes of all species of game and game animals to multiply in the ages to come. In this age when men are anxious to study the moral sublimity in the lives and character of the pioneers of these Pennsylvania hills and valleys, it seems to me that that to compel the poor man who has yet in his viens some of the redman's love for wild game, to pay a license to have the privilege to pursue and kill game for his use, is the very acma of folly and unfairness.

This dollar tax is the beginning of the end of the poor man's hunting pleasure, his liberty to secure cheap meat for his almost starving family. We might be able to scrape up one dollar for the first license, but when the fee goes up as it will for the benefit of the rich man of the cities and towns, who can pay dollars where the poor man, the shop man, the clerk and the farmer can pay pennies, away goes the liberty of our forefathers with a crime akin to theft. The poor man will then be down and out as surely as the man went down and out when John L. Sullivan in his palmy days landed squarely on the jaw. The farmer and the poor man who have fed and protected the game must lay down their guns forever, if such a law as this bill provides is placed upon our statute books.

Isn't it grand, noble, patriotic, liberal in a rich man to offer to pay one dollar to become one of the few who shall have a privilege to hunt in special game preserves? The tendency of Game Commissions all over the country is to correl the game in a number of preserves, where only those who are favorites with the management, by reason of their official position, wealth and social qualities, can have the sport all to themselves while the poor man must be content with merely the goose bone. Only the rich can afford the expense of railroad fare, board, and a guide to take them exactly where the game can be found. The shopman, the poor man, the clerk, all hard-working men must remain at home, only to remember the pleasure of happier days which they have spent in recreation from their daily toils.

In the valleys of Pennsylvania, squirrel, rabbits, quail, woodcock and other game multiply, and are cared for by the farmer and the poor hunter, while the rich man who is now so anxious to contribute one dollar for the exclusive privilege to hunt and kill, remains in his office, gathering in the daddy dollars. He appears only once on the scene of slaughter; he spends not one cent to help protect and propagate game.

Pass this dollar tax, compelling the farmer to take out a license to hunt the birds which he has raised on his farm, fed with his own grain, and which have flown onto the farm of his neighbor, after he has fired one shot at them, his neighbor having refused him the right to hunt on his farm, then this farmer will close his land from all hunters, keeping the game on his farm for his own use. Pass a law that requires a man to own as much as ten acres, must live thereon, cannot live in town and hunt on his own farm without a license? Would that be giving the poor man a square deal? Would it be a square deal to the owner? Oh they say this bill will permit a man who owns as much as ten acres to hunt on his farm and his neighbor's farm by permission from the owner without a license. Well now would it be fanciful to conclude that the farmers would form a kind of endless chain, each agreeing that his neighbor who joins lands with him may hunt on his farm, none of them take out license, tell me ye, who are spoiling to contribute one dollar for personal privilege, if any but the farmer will hunt over the farms of our beautiful valleys?

Men with plenty of money can lease farms to have the exclusive right to hunt on said lands, just as is the case in other states where a hunters' license is in force. Several years ago I made yearly trips to a southern state to hunt quail. I had little trouble to hunt on farms when I offered the owners $2.00 per day for that privilege. Three years ago I wanted to go into this same locality that I might enjoy the hospitality of those good southern people, who had sheltered and fed me in the past, but was informed that 50,000 acres of that prolific quail country had been leased by a club of wealthy men of New York City, and that none but they or their friends could hunt thereon. That is just what will happen in this great State if this Hunters' License is made a law to begin the downfall of the poor man's hunting freedom. Do you want it? Do your constituents want this?

Just now I remember that a beautiful stream not far from Harrisburg, in Cumberland county, has been leased by several rich men of the State Capital, and no one can fish in that stream but them and their friends, not even the farmers whose lands touch these waters. Many more of the streams in Pennsylvania are leased by clubs and some of the men who are enjoying the exclusive right to fish, are strong advocates of this Hunter's License Bill, which means exclusive right to hunt in the near future. Why not tax them $1.00 for the privilege to fish as well as hunt?

Let one farmer take out a license to hunt on any land where he can obtain the consent of the owner and what will happen? If his neighbor who dislikes the license law, gives his neighbor, who has a license the right to hunt on his premises, he is indeed a very unselfish man. But suppose the neighbor refuses to let the man with a license hunt on his land, what then? There are days when the neighbor who does not hunt does not want his birds killed, is absent from home. Is it casting an undeserved reflection to say that the farmer with a license may slip in and shoot much of his neighbor's birds while he has gone to mill? Or would it be possible for the town man, who owns an automobile and trained dogs, observing that the neighbor is in town, is away from home, he jumps into his auto with dog and gun, and is soon after the farmer's birds? In an hour or two he has cleaned up a whole covey of quail, and is back at his desk. The next morning this good-hearted farmer listens in vain for the familiar whistle of his pets at the break of day and wonders what has happened, unmindful of the fact that some one is feasting at that moment on quail and toast. He makes a trip over the feeding grounds and the scattered feathers tell in mournful tones, the sad fate of his little darlings which he has fed so long. A great wrong has been done him. Finally he accuses his neighbor, who has a license of having killed his birds. A quarrel takes place, may be a fight or shooting match, for the provocation is almost justifiable.

Gentlemen you must have received letters from people living in your district, requesting you to vote for this license. These letters are of recent date. Consider that requests went out from interested parties in Harrisburg for such inducements to be hurled at you. A letter from a Justice of the Peace to a member, says he was requested from Harrisburg to write to him, and while it had been held out to him that his income would be increased if this license was passed, because there would be many more arrests, yet he was not in favor of this imposition on the poor man, and advised the member from his county to vote against the measure if he would represent his constituents. It is but natural that Departments desiring appropriations, expect a larger sum if the Game Commission is supplied by a license fund, hence their interest. Remember gentlemen with a vengeance a letter which you have received from Pittsburg from a man who calls the farmers "dog hunters." His compliments of a certain Game Warden, whose character is known to the Dauphin County courts, puts the brand on this man, who has suddenly taken himself out of the 3 per cent. class, and is willing to contribute a paltry dollar for special privileges.

On my desk are petitions containing 52,000 names of poor men, shop men, farmers, ministers, lawyers, physicians, men in every walk of life. These petitions were not circulated in the heat of this Hunters' License Contest, but during the campaign when candidates made promises. If an active canvass were to be made like that now on by those deeply interested and who will be most benefitted by such a license, one million of names could be secured against this oppressive measure. These petitions on my desk came from 53 counties in Pennsylvania, ranging from a few hundred to 9,000. These counties are: Allegheny, Armstrong, Adams, Butler, Berks, Bedford, Bradford, Blair, Columbia, Crawford, Cumberland, Chester, Clarion, Cambria, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Dauphin, Elk, Erie, Fulton, Huntingdon, Franklin, Indiana, Juniatta, Jefferson, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lehigh, Lycoming, Lebanon, McKean, Miffilin, Mercer, Montour, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Potter, Pike, Philadelphia, Perry, Sullivan, Schuylkill, Snyder, Tioga, Union, Wayne, Warren, Westmoreland and York. I believe members have petitions from the other 13 counties. They have all been secured since May 1912. If you have been thinking over the letters or petitions you have recently received, which came in answer to urgent requests sent out from Harrisburg by those who will be benefitted, you owe it to your constituents to examine these petitions from you respective before you vote. I did not secure any of these petitions, my name is not on any one, but the gentlemen who placed these petitions on my desk will be glad to submit to you the one most interesting to you. If these men were good enough to vote for you, they are good enough to have your consideration.

The advocates of this license argue that only 3 per cent. of the people hunt, and that half of the license money will go to pay bounties on noxious animals, hawks, owls, etc., which destroy game and the farmers' poultry and eggs. If the mink, weasel, wild cat, fox, hawks and owls are lessened by the vigilance of the boys, men and mountaineers, who go after them, believing that they will get a bounty on each scalp, is it any thing but fair that all who are benefited shall pay this bounty? Certainly it is unfair to require it all from the 3 per cent. who hunt and go for recreation, when the farmer and owner of poultry are the most benefitted, in fact the entire 100 per cent. are benefitted alike.

I do not now, in my declining years, like to see this grand old State where freedom was born, go in record against the poor man's pleasure and cheap meat, after an unobstructed privilege of 231 years to the people who have lived and gone to their last resting places. Such a law as this is un-American, unfair and not in the spirit of the Constitution for it is class legislation pure and simple. I repeat if the poor man is good enough for us to accept his vote, he is good enough to command our protection in one of his most sacred rights which has come down to him from generation to generation. We should treat him fairly, manly, not oppressively. Have you thought how the million boys under sixteen years, who will be prevented from hunting if this monster License Bill is made a law, will strike back when they vote a few years hence? Most of these boys at the age of thirteen are capable of handling guns, they as well as most of the farmers do not shoot $1.00 worth of ammunition during the hunting season, while the expert gunner will use 1000 shells, and if given special privileges, he will use 2000 shells in one season. Just think of the game he will kill. The farmers are glad to see their boys go hunting, rather than to town to fall in with bad influences. Deprive the farmer's boy of the right to hunt the game he has protected during the summer, and his father will become all the more determined to close his farm aganist all hunters.

The Committee of Game heard read to it from a Harrisburg newspaper a few days ago, how some innocent foreigners, who are not permitted to have fire arms, were arrested and fined each $25.00 for carrying fire arms to the homes of the owners, after they had used the guns in a drill at a play that had been given by these foreigners for some charitable purpose. The Game warden of Harrisburg was on the job all night when the play was produced, and the next morning he brought several of these poor fellows before an Alderman and secured his share of the several hundred dollar's fine.

A member of this House has told me this one. A hotel keeper of Lebaonon was approached during the hunting season by a Game Warden with seven Pheasants, which he said had been killed in Virginia. He offered to sell them to this Hotel man, who knowing that he could buy game which had been killed in Virginia, bought these birds and gave his guests a royal dinner. A few days later this same Game Warden of Dauphin County went to Lebanon and arrested this hotel man, declaring that the Pheasants he purchased were killed in Pennsylvania and he demanded $25.00 for each bird, a total of $175.00. The Hotel man stood trial before a Justice who set him free, on the firm belief as produced in evidence that it was a set up job on his good neighbor to secure fines.

The Game Commission proposes if this License Tax is made a law to employ thirty more such Game Wardens as the one who made the two arrests mentioned. Are you going to help along such a scheme? Is there a member of this House who would serve as a Game Warden, even if he did get a large salary and half of the fines when he secured convictions. Have any of you recollections of the kind of Game and Fish Wardens who have been sent into your locality?

You ask me how I would enforce the Game and Fish Laws? I would place at the disposal of some one, may be the Game and Fish Commissioners, two State Police, three if need be to each county, and there would be little if any violations, no reports of leading men and boys into committing crimes and then arrest them for doing so to secure part of the fines imposed, charges like these having frequently been made against irresponsible Game and Fish Wardens. People always respect soldier looking men, and these State Police go at their duties without fear or favor.

It would be a tremendous saving if the Game and Fish Departments were consolidated. Liberal appropriations could be made and by using the State Police only to guard these interests for the good of all the people, Pennsylvania will become one of the finest game and fish preserves in the Union.

I would protect the farmer from reckless gunners, who tear down fences, kill poultry, cripple animals, and some times pepper the farmer with shot while he is husking his corn, by requiring every person who would hunt or fish on a farm to secure from the owner or the tenant who controlled the farm. This is the successful plan used in Indiana and other western States where small game is plentiful. If the privilege of hunting and fishing on a man's farm is not worth asking for it is not worth having. Printed cards are furnished in the Western States so that all the farmer or tenant has to do is to write the name on the card of the person who desires privilege, and then sign his name.

I was one of the organizers of the Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's Association. This Association is formed for the preservation of our forests, the protection and propagation of our song and insectiverous birds, game birds, game mammals, and game fish; for aiding in the enforcement of laws of this Commonwealth governing the same; for the promotion of kindly intercourse and generous emulation among sportsmen; to unite the efforts and influence of all law-abiding citizens within the State in securing such legislation for the future preservation of our game mammals and game fish, as will be best suited to the interests of all the people of our Commonwealth at large."

For ten years I was Secretary of this Association which grew in my time to over 100 separate organizations, with a total membership of many thousand, including ex-Governors, Governor, United States Senators and many other influential men. I well remember the struggles made by the Game and Fish Commissions to secure appropriations to use in these respective Departments. While the Game Commission got pennies the Fish Commission got dollars, owing to certain influences which I need not mention.

Let me tell you I can select from the trap shooters of Pennsylvania more men who can qualify as sharp shooters than the whole army of the Potomac had during the Civil War. Would it be a fair contest to pit these men who could shoot the eyes out of a gnat in the top of a tree, against the poor man, the farmer, the shop man, as such a License as this would impose?

Let us make a condition of peace and plenty for the poor man, your friend and my friend, not one of luxury for the rich or the trap shooters to have all the game and fish because they have the money to lease for exclusive rights, have all the pleasure for themselves and their friends, while the poor man sits with his face bowed between his honest hands which he washes with his tears when he thinks of those happy days in the field and mountains, along the clear waters, now closed to him forever by a nefarious Hunters' License Law.

Pass this measure and

The poor man turns in sadness and in gloom,
The world he left behind, is of his hope the tomb;
Though heaviness is in his heart, hope kindles not his eye;
Behind is a world of change, before an changeless sky.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House. I just wish to make a statement. There has been enough time already consumed on this subject. I wish to state that I presented this bill on behalf of the United Sportsmen of Pennsylvania, a lot of men whom I consider equal to us all, and I wish to further make a statement and to correct an impression that seems to exist that this bill will affect the trespass act. There is nothing in this bill which affects the trespass act. I wish it understood, and the correction is made on account of the gentleman on my left that it would not allow people to go on his land. There is nothing in the act which dwells on the trespass act.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, just one word. I want to call your attention to one fact: Is it not true that our city brothers have been appealing to us during the session on public bills, relative to not licensing their clubs in the cities. We men from the country don't ask the city clubs to pay any license and we men from the country dont' want you people to pay any license to come out to hunt. I ask you men to give us a loud "no" on the second reading of this bill.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I do not desire to tire you by an extended discussion on this measure. I want to say to you that as a member of the Game Committee, I can assure you that all those interested in this measure, for and against, had an ample hearing before that committee, at which time a number of amendments were offered. The spirit of the committee has been one of fairness towards all those interested. At all times we have been open to suggestion, and upon the suggestions of a great many of those who are opposing this bill on the floor of the House to-day we made amendments to this measure to meet their objections. We come to you this afternoon representing something like 200,000 true sportsmen of this great Commonwealth, who believe in the propagation of our wild animal life and who not only believe in it but are willing to contribute the necessary finances to propagate that game. This measure would bring in something like $200,000. We have agreed that half of this fund should be spent for the purpose of propagating game and the other half to be used for the purpose of paying bounties on varmints. We believe it is a fair measure. It is a measure that sportsmen throughout the entire State are heartily in favor of. At the present time our Game Commission is handicapped, due to the fact that we have refused to appropriate to them for their use and for the purposes for which they were appointed a sufficient sum of money to handle it. With the amount of money received from this tax, it will be possible for our Game Commission to stock our wild mountain land with wild animals. At the present time they have brought into this State, with the small fund in their possession, a great many deer and, as you know, have established preserves throughout the State. We have brought in the elk from the West and this House has already passed a measure protecting that elk until the year 1921, and following that time we believe it will be possible for any man who enjoys the sport of hunting to bring home with him an elk, deer and a wild turkey. We believe that we men who are interested in this bill are not selfish. We will accord to the farmers in the rural districts all the courtesies that we would desire to be extended to us. We have been fair in the treatment of the farmer, in our cities and towns. We have made concessions to him all along the line. He is allowed to come into our cities and towns, to use our paved streets, enjoy police protection, et cetera, without any special tax, and, gentlemen, we have protected him by placing a tax on the professional huckster, and in many other ways we have accorded the farmer special privileges. We do not ask any special privileges; we do not ask to tear down the barrier of the trespass law. We do not ask to go over a man's farm and destroy the products of that farm. All we ask is that we be allowed to contribute a sufficient fund to our Game Commission to insure to us the pleasure of a day's hunting when we can find the time to enjoy that pleasure, and in the name of the 200,000 sportsmen of this great Commonwealth, I ask you to place this law upon the statute books, in order that the wild life may be preserved and that the hunters and true sportsmen may have the pleasure of a day's hunting. Now, in connection with the stack of petitions which you see presented to you by my friend, Mr. Runk, we had these petitions before the committee, at which time I asked when these petitions had been secured, and I was informed that most of them had been secured prior to the preparation of this act which is under consideration. Now, gentlemen, is it a fair proposition? In looking over these petitions you will observe that they deal with from six to eight subjects. Many of these subjects appeal to all sportsmen, they appeal to me, but they have embodied in with those subjects that appeal to the sportsmen a hunter's license tax which is unfair. We have made concessions with the men who were opposed to the measure, we have listened to them and accepted their amendments. We thought that they would no longer oppose this measure, but just as soon as we adopted their suggestions and embodied them in this act, then they came along with other amendments. And from this I say to you that we should as men consider these matters wisely and well and vote for this measure at this time.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following members: Messrs. Matt. Caldwell, Newbaker, Savacool, W. F. Blair, Mannion, Donnally, Donahoe, Mellott, Ulerich, Neel, Whittaker, Martin, Berntheizel, Hess, Wiltbank, Connor, Letzkus, W. A. Blair, Moses, Snyder, Kennedy and others.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman asks unanimous consent to call up at this time.

Is there any objection?

The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 399, entitled:

An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employee in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and regulating procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder

The first, second and third sections of article I were read and argeed to as follows:

ARTICLE I

Damages by Action at Law

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in any action brought to recover damages for personal injury to an employee in the course of his employment or for death resulting from such injury it shall not be a defense

(a) That the injury was caused in whole or in part by the negligence of a fellow employee or

(b) That the employee had assumed the risk of the injury or

(c) That the injury was caused in any degree by the negligence of such employee unless it be established that the injury was caused by such employee's intoxication or by his reckless indifference to danger The burden of proving such intoxication or reckless indifference to danger shall be upon the defendant and the question shall be one of fact to be determined by the jury

Section 2 The employer shall be liable for the negligence of all employees while acting within the scope of their employment including engineers chauffeurs miners mine-foremen fire-bosses mine superintendents plumbers officers of vessels and all other employees licensed by the State or other governmental authority if the employer be allowed by law the right of free selection of such employees from the class of persons thus licensed

Section 3 An employer who permits the entry upon premises occupied by him or under his control of a laborer or of an assistant hired by an employee or contractor for the performance upon such premises of a part of the employer's regular business entrusted to such employee or contractor shall be liable to such laborer or assistant in the same manner and to the same extent as to his own employee

The fourth section of article 4 was read as follows:

Section 4 No agreement composition or release of damages made before the happening of any accident except the agreement defined in Article two of this act shall be valid or shall bar a claim for damages for the injury resulting therefrom and any such agreement other than that defined in Article two herein is declared to be against the public policy of this Commonwealth The receipt of benefits from any association society or fund to which the employee shall have been a contributor shall not bar the recovery of damages by action at law nor the recovery of compensation under article two hereof and any release executed in consideration of such benefits shall be void

On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?
Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER: The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend article one section four page three and add after the word "Void" in line twelve "Provided however that where an employer maintains or where an employer and employees jointly maintain relief organizations whose compensatory benefits fully equal or exceed the compensation provided for in article two then the agreement or releases that have been made between such employers and employees shall constitute a basis of compensation in lieu of the compensation provided for in article two

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I only introduced this amendment to article 1 after giving the matter careful thought. It appears that in some establishments the employers and employees maintain a beneficial association where in case of sickness from natural causes, benefits are paid in excess or in greater amounts than are fixed by this compensation act. So I provide in this amendment that where the benefits from the fund established and maintained by the employer and employees are equal the compensatory damages allowed under this act, then the relationship which exists between the employer and employees with reference to the beneficial fund shall be undisturbed by the compensation fixed in Article 2. I think it means that if a man is injured or is sick and belongs to an association which is maintained by an employer and his employees—if it means more money to him, he should be permitted to maintain and keep that higher rate in case he meets with any misfortune.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, the Gentleman from Philadelphia's amendment is absolutely contrary to the provisions of this act. As is well known by the members of this House, two years ago a commission was appointed to investigate these very facts. The Commission held many hearings all over this State, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Harrisburg and Philadelphia. They heard from every known employer of labor and employees. The Judiciary General Committee held a meeting and there appeared before that committee the proponents for this legislation and the opponents, and I may safely say to this House that the labor representatives of 850,000 people asked that this bill go from the committee to this House and from this House to the Senate without amendment. These beneficial associations that my friend desires to maintain in his amendment, if it is deemed advisable by the employer and the employees, have absolutely nothing to do so far as compensation is concerned. They are independent entirely of this compensation act and there can be no objection by employers or employees if they maintain beneficial associations among themselves. But this act is positive and it is practically compulsory so far as the Constitution of Pennsylvania permits, and therefore, surpasses the defences of the common law. As I said a few moments ago, there is absolutely no objection to an employer and employees or a number of employees maintaining a beneficial association, as far as health and illness is concerned, but this is something that has been desired and required in Pennsylvania for some time. Other states of the Union have adopted it and adopted it with great success, notably New Jersey, Illinois, Massachusetts and a great many of the western states. I sincerely hope that this amendment will be voted down. I do this because this committee has given careful consideration to this bill.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I move that we postpone further action on this bill until to-morrow.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I request that we continue this action as far as this amendment is concerned. I am perfectly willing then to postpone further action until this evening, under Mr. Kitt's motion.

The SPEAKER. Perhaps the House is about ready to vote on this amendment.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, the sponsor of this bill seems to misunderstand the purport of my amendment. He knows full well that no agreement with reference to compensation is permitted between employers and employees that disturbs the mandatory compensation features of this act, so the only way we can permit an employee to get more money in case of accident, in case of injury, in view of the mandatory provisions of this act, whatever agreement shall exist, is by this amendment. I offer this amendment because I think it means more money to employees in case of accident. And it makes provision in Section 4, of Article one, so that this agreement might be recognized as a valid substitute for what otherwise would be a mandatory proposition against such agreement. I ask the House to support that amendment because it provides that this agreement shall only be in force and effect where the compensatory benefits from the beneficial fund shall equal ar exceed the compensatory amounts fixed by this act. And I think, gentlemen, it is a very fair amendment.

Mr. McALLISTER. Mr. Speaker, if the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, should prevail, it would take out the principal feature of this act. If a man pays dues of any kind into a beneficial association and he should become injured or sick, and gets compensation from that beneficial association, he is simply getting back what he has paid for and that is not the intention of this act, and even though the employer is a contributor to that beneficial fund, I do not think that we should take out the principal feature of this act by permitting such an amendment to prevail. Now, I am an employer of labor and I don't think there would be any hardship at all in the passage of this act as it stands. I don't think there should be anything to prevent its going through exactly as it is written.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to be continually talking on this matter, but I don't like my position on this measure to be misunderstood. This amendment provides that where the employer maintains or where the employer does not maintain a beneficial fund, and it so happens in Philadelphia that there are a number of firms who put into a beneficial fund a dollar for each dollar contributed by the employees and there are others there where the employers have in the beginning or the inception of a beneficial fund, laid aside thousands of dollars in order that the fund might be put on a sound financial basis. I do not intend that where the employes themselves maintain the fund that this joker should go in. I only say that where the employer and employees maintain a beneficial fund that this amendment should apply. I am not asking that what he pays in himself shall be a substitute for the mandatory compensation features of this act, but only when the employer and the employees jointly maintain such a beneficial fund for the payment of benefits. Then, if it means more money to the employee, he shall have the election, and I offer this amendment in order that that may be possible.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, as has been said by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McAleer, if this amendment were to prevail, it would practically defeat the intent and purpose of this bill. There can be no objection, gentlemen, if the employer and the employee have their own beneficial fund, but if I understand the intent of the gentlemen from Philadelphia's amendment, then if it were a separate fund it would defeat absolutely the intent and purpose of this act.

Now, as far as the employer and the employees are concerned, they can make an agreement in writing and record the same with the Bureau of Industrial Statistics, but if they do the employes takes his chances of going to common law, and there he is absolutely deprived of the defense which he has to-day.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, can you conceive of any employer of labor contributing a dollar to a beneficial fund and continuing to pay a dollar into the fund if he is also compelled to obey the provisions of this act?

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, the amendment offered by Mr. Roney was thoroughly discussed by me with the gentleman who was responsible for the amendment arrangement on Monday. Now, I contend that if this amendment is adopted, that the employee will be forced to carry his own compensation and that the large employers and manufacturers would force their employees to join a so-called relief association which is now enforced by a great many corporations, and the cost of this relief association is borne by the product that is manufactured, but the employee has no chance whatever to raise his compensation in that relief fund. I therefore object to this amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

RECESS.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House take a recess until 8 o'clock this evening.

The motion was agreed to and (at 1.40 P. M.) the House took a recess until 8 o'clock.

At any time after the entry of the award a sum equal to all future installments of compensation may (where death or the nature of the injury renders the cmount of future payyments certain) by leave of court be paid by the employer to any savings bank trust company or life insurance company in good standing and authorized to do business in this State and having an office in the county in which the award was entered and such sum together with all interest thereon shall thereafter be held in trust for the employee or the dependents of the employee who shall have no further recourse against the employer The payments of such sum by the employer evidenced by the receipt of the trustee noted upon the prothonotary's docket shall operate as a satisfaction of said award as to the employer Payments from said fund shall be made by the trustee in the same amounts and at the same periods as are herein required of the employer until said fund and interest shall be exhausted in the appointment of the trustee preference shall be given in the discretion of the court to the choice of the employee or the dependents of the deceased employee

The seventeenth section was then read as follows:

Section 17 The right of compensation granted by this article of this act shall have the same preference (without limit of amount) against the assets of the employer as is now or may hereafter be allowed by law for a claim for unpaid wages for labor Claims or payments due under this article of this act shall not be assignable and (except as provided in section two of article III hereof) shall be exempt from all claims of creditors and from levy execution or attachment which exemption may not be waived

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Article II by striking out section 17 and renumbering the remaining section of Article II.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House,

Several of the members have consulted me before this bill was called up for second reading as to whether or not the first lien of mortgage would be impaired by a judicial sale of the property belonging to the employer under this act.

My answer to that is that by the Act of May 12, 1891, P. L. 54, Section one, it is provided that an unpaid claim for wages to be a lien on real estate must be entered in the Prothonotary's office like a judgment or mechanic's lien. By the Act of April 9, 1872, P. L. 47, Section four, it is provided that no lien of a mortgage or judgment entered before the labor is performed shall be affected by the lien of wages. Therefore any mortgage or any judgment that is entered before a claim for wages or labor could not possible be impaired by judicial sale under this act in case the employer cannot pay the employee what is due him.

Mr. WATSON. I offered this amendment, not that I am opposed to the bill, but to let it be understood whether or not it would effect the mortgages on property or judgments that had been entered. I had inquiry from some of our bankers as to the matter and if that is the interpretation of the bill as stated by my friend from Philadelphia, why I have no objection to the section and I withdraw my amendment with that understanding.

Sections eighteen, nineteen, twenty and twenty-one were then read and agreed to as follows:

Section 18 Where the employer and the employee or the dependents of the employee shall after any accident agree upon the compensation payable hereunder for such accident a memorandum of such agreement signed by the parties may be filed with the prothonotary of said Court of Common Pleas The costs of the prothontary for such service shall be allowed taxed and collected as heretofore upon a confession of judgment When thus filed such agreement shall have the same effect as if it were an award of the court as provided in section fifteen hereof but shall be subject to review by the court for fraud mistake or other cause shown provided however that nothing in this Section shall be construed to permit a commutation of payments except as provided in sections eight and sixteen hereof and provided further that no agreement relating to compensation shall be valid if made within fourteen days of the accident nor shall any such agreement be valid of it vary the percentage of wages payable as compensation or the period during which compensation is to be paid as stated in sections five and six hereof

Section 19 If default shall be made by the employer for thirty days after demand in the payment of any amount due under any of the provisions of this article then upon petition of any person interested and after ten days notice thereof to the employer served in the same manner in which a summons may be served the court or any judge thereof shall if the default still exists enter judgment thereon for the amount or amounts due together with interest thereon and costs Upon such judgment no stay of execution shall be allowed except in the discretion of the court

Section 20 It shall be the duty of the prothonotary of each Court of Common Pleas to make report monthly to the Bureau of Industrial Statistics of all proceedings begun in such court under this article of this act classifying such report in such manner as to show whether the proceedings are brought for the settlement of a dispute as to liability for compensation for a modification thereof for a commutation of payments for a judgment in default of payment or for fixing of counsel fees and such report shall state the number and term of each proceeding but neither names nor further detail need be given unless required by the Bureau of Industrial Statistics

Section 21 Where a third person is liable to the employee or the dependents for the injury or death the employer shall be subrogated to the right of the employee or the dependents against such third person but only to the extent of the compensation payable under this article by the employer Any recovery against such third person in excess of the compensation theretofore paid by the employer shall be paid forthwith to the employee or to the dependents and shall be treated as an advance payment by the employer on account of any future installments of compensation

Article three. Section one and two were read and agreed to as follows:

The third section was read as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment to this section.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Article III by inserting after Section 3, the following:

Section 4. Nothing in this act shall affect any agricultural employer or any agricultural employe, but claims for personal injuries to an agricultural employe shall be claimed and asserted under the laws of this Commonwealth as they exist immediately before the approval of this act.

Amend Article III House bill 399 by renumbering the remaining sections of said article accordingly.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, that reminds me of the Session of 1906, when the Civil Service Act applying to Philadelphia was under discussion, and there was inserted into that act provision exempting soldiers and the sons of veterans, and of course the Supreme Court declared that unconstitutional. It is not necessary to explain to the House that this would be class exemption and all the members in this House that are lawyers and members of the Bar, know that is class legislation. This would be exempting a special class of individuals and our Constitution does permit that. All men stand equally before the law, and the farmers must stand upon the same footing as other men.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogated the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHERN. I will.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I desire to ask the gentleman if he has carefully read section 1 in Article 3. Then I would like to know whether or not section one of article three of this bill does not exempt domestic employees.

Mr. SHERN. It does not.

Mr. ROCKWELL. It does not exempt them?

Mr. SHERN. No, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. The line I refer to in section 1 begins with line 10 and reads in this way: "employee is synonymous with servant and includes all persons who perform service for another for a valuable consideration exclusive of casual employees and exclusive of persons not employed in the course of the regular service or domestic affairs." If the gentleman's contention is that you cannot exempt any class of servants, does not that make the bill unconstitutional?

Mr. SHERN. No, sir. This only exempts a person who is a casual employee and not a permanent one, a person who simply comes in to work for an hour or two in a day and who is not a permanent employee and of course is not a permanent employee within the meaning of this act. This act is for a specific purpose and a permanent employee within the meaning of this act means one who is employed for a definite space of time, and of course an employee that is not employed for a definite space of time would not be considered a permanent employee within the provisions of this act. When this matter was before the Committee of which the gentleman from Tioga is the Chairman, that subject was thoroughly gone into and explained.

Mr. ROCKWELL. There is another question that I would like to ask the gentleman. If a domestic servant employed by the gentleman from Philadelphia was injured, would he so construe it that this section would exempt him from liability to that servant or not.

Mr. SHERN. I would not, I would consider myself liable to that servant.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Would you consider that the same servant is a casual employee.

Mr. SHERN. I would not.

Mr. ROCKWELL. What do you construe the expression "casual employee" to mean?

Mr. SHERN. A man engaged by the week, or month or year would not be considered a casual employee. It means somebody that simply comes in to shovel snow from the street or sweep the steps or sweep a room, and in that way to be casually employed and not permanently. It would also have reference to a washerwoman.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, as I read this bill it is only for an exclusion of casual employees and the exclusion of persons not employed in the course of regular business or domestic affairs. And that makes it a distinction without a difference. My friend from Philadelphia may not be familiar with the employees on a farm. They work by the day, they work by the half day, and by the week and by the month. And I say, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House, that this is a very important feature of this bill. At the same time I will say that I am emphatically in favor of this bill. I am in favor of protecting all character of labor and I think it is our duty as representatives of this Commonwealth to look after the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow. And, gentlemen, if we do not do that we will have a day of reckoning and we see the cloud on the horizon now of the discontent of labor. I will go as far as my friend from Philadelphia or any other man in the protection of labor but we must not lose sight of the character of labor we want to protect. Now, take it, for instance, take your farmer who may have his farm; possibly he has toiled for sixteen hours a day for that home, because the eight hour law does not apply to the farmers. He has built his house and has his home and family there and he has a hired hand working for him, maybe by the day and maybe by the half day, and some accident happens to him, and his earnings probably of years are swept away to pay the damages that might be incurred by his casually employed farm-hand. I want to say, in addition to that, Mr Speaker, that the toiler of the soil from the days of the Creation and of the Earth and the Garden of Eden to the present time is the line of demorcation between civilization and barbarism. The farmers who till the soil are the foundation of every industry of the State of Pennsylvania and the United States of America. Without the farmer, where would we land? In the poor house, with nothing in the poor house to eat? Yet, I say to the members of this House, while I want this bill to pass, that the farmer can be exempted here just as well as the casually employed domestic servant. I want this bill to pass, and I am anxious that it should, but I want this House to think seriously of it. I want them to say that we are all dependent for our sustenance upon the man who tills the soil and works sixteen hours a day, and I want you to think of this. If this bill exempts the farmer, I have nothing more to say. The man who is raised on the farm goes out at the dawn to work and works as long as he can see, for what? A bare existence, yet one of the happiest existences on the face of the earth. The farm is where the boys grow up in touch with nature, and the girls grow up in touch with nature and they are nearer nature's god than the people born in the city. That is the field and place from which the cities draw their new life. The farmer boy goes into the city and takes his place in some business house. The son of his employer when he reaches the zenith of his life is left a fortune. He starts down hill and the farmer boy takes his father's place. Hence I say that this is one class that has asked for very little protection, and it should not be mulcted in damage money of the homes that are the result of years of toil, and I hope that the members of this House will consider this matter very carefully. I do not see why if you can exempt the house servant, why the farm employee, who is a casual employee, cannot be exempted. This amendment can be adopted so that the farm hand can be exempted and the farmer given some protection. This is a serious matter that you have before you tonight. The farmer earns his money by hard work, and many times the boys and the girls and sometimes the wife in the family work in the field and yet if the farmer is not given this protection, and an accident might happen to one of the hired hands through a mere matter of carelessness his home may be swept away from him, and he and his family may be turned out into the world.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I think we are all in sympathy with the farmer. We all realize of what import he is to the citizenship of this State of Pennsylvania, but yet we must not forget the eight hundred and fifty thousand employees of this State. One of the members of the Labor Institution appeared before this committee, and other members of the Federation of Labor, who told us that there were over eight hundred and fifty thousand laboring men in the State of Pennsylvania who would be affected by this act. One of the representatives of the Grange was in communication with me yesterday, and I was in consultation with other members of this order, and they unanimously came to the conclusion that if a section were inserted in this act in accordance with the one offered by the gentleman from Indiana that it would make the act unconstitutional. We have provided for a mutual employers liability company, and the farmers intend to take advantage of the act to be called up after this one, and have it adopted for the purpose of giving them power to form a mutual farmers' liability company, and they will then be in a position to incorporate themselves into that company, as they are now incorporated into the Mutual Farmers' Fire Association, and the farmer will be able to take care of himself by taking a portion of his profits and applying them to insurance premiums as he now applies them to his bonds and stables and horses. I am in sympathy with the farmer, but the thousands of laboring men in this State of Pennsylvania ought to be protected, and I, therefore, ask you for the sake of the bill and for the sake of the eight hundred and fifty thousand working men in the State of Pennsylvania who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow by that labor which brings to them and to us happiness and content, and I ask you to give them this protection.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, as this act is drawn, I am opposed to it. I believe that any person that understands the provisions of this act is opposed to it absolutely. When you speak of the high cost of living, if this act becomes a law, the high cost of living, as I understand it now, will be a pink tea in comparison to what it will be two years after this law is enforced. It is almost impossible, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, for farmers and those engaged in agricultural pursuits to obtain the necessary help to carry on their industries to-day. If such a law as we have now before us is enacted, it will certainly be a great disadvantage to the farmers. No farmer to-day, to my knowledge, would undertake to employ labor under this drastics measure that is provided for in this bill or undertake to produce crops for a livelihood. It would simply put them out of business and no intelligent farmer would take the risk of following that kind of a business.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I have so far refrained from saying a word in favor of the men of Philadelphia who are manufacturers but since farmers want to be exempt, I just want to give you a few words on the side of the manufacturers and their plea. When I talked to some of them about the proposed measures that are before this House now along this line they said "For Heaven's sake, whatever you do, don't put any more burdens on the manufacturers." If you are going to exempt farmers you should also exempt manufacturers; exempt everybody that is affected. We all want to be exempted from provisions that might entail a little hardship upon ourselves and that may be proposed for the benefit of somebody. When a farmer loses his farm, what becomes of the manufacturer, who, if he has not provided for something of this kind, what is to become of him? Let us protect labor from top to bottom and not one class or the other. Let everybody have protection and not one and have the other go scott free.

Mr. STONE. Mr. Speaker, the sponsor of this bill says that if this amendment is carried that it will be an unconstitutional bill. If that proposition is true, then I am opposed to the whole bill; then I will say to the gentlemen that it should be defeated. Let me say to you that it is a square deal that this House should give to the people. I am not counsel for any manufacturing interests and yet I do say that the manufacturers interest should be looked to as well as the laborers and the farmers interest. I don't care if there is eight hundred and forty thousand laborers looking to us for their interests in this Legislature—make it ten hundred thousand if you please. We must look at both sides of this question. I want to say to you I have one instance that came to my mind that should be considered by the members of this House when they vote. I defended a case for a manufacturer whereby the act of one of the employes (They were manufacturing rollers) and one single roller dropped on the floor; a company employe came along and stepped on the roller and fell against a saw and it was a woman and she lost her hand. There is not a member of this House that will say that that manufacturing company was liable for that accident.

It is simply what should be recognized that it was fully the act of an employe. I am in favor of this amendment whether it applies to a farmer or not. I own a farm myself. I have a number of employes on that farm. Simply because some of the employes there have been guilty of negligence and carelessness, you don't think that I should be obliged to mortgage my farm to support a man who is injured there during my life-time. I say it is a shame. I am in favor of the amendment and I think every gentleman of this House should make this a square deal and as for this amendment I don't care; if it does make the bill unconstitutional, then if we are going to vote for the bill, vote it down.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, during the last preseidential campaign, ex-President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, went from one end of this country to the other and he held up in his speeches the judicial bearing of the United States Judges. He mentioned one particular case, that he constantly harped on and appealed to the passions of those whom he addressed. It was the case of a poor brakeman on a railroad in Missouri who went before a jury and recovered a verdict of fifteen thousand dollars. The lower courts sustained the verdict and it was sent to the Supreme Court of the State and they reversed. A new trial was granted and he recovered twenty thousand dollars. Again the lower court sustained the verdict and it went from that to a higher court and they reversed the third time and that poor brakeman received no aid or compensation for the leg that was taken from him. That was the case that was held up to the passions of the people of the United States until they felt that the judges of this country were absolutely corrupt. If you pass this bill no more arguments of this character can appeal to the people of this great country. The great difficulty with the people to-day is that they felt that they were oppressed by the forces and power of great corporations and the employers and that they were deprived of their just deserts, when they went before a court and could not get justice before a jury. That is why laboring people of this State and other states are demanding the passage of such a measure as this, so that they might preserve the good name of the judiciary as it was before these numerous accidents happened on the railroads and in the employment shops. I realize, my friends and members of the House, that this effects the farmer to a certain extent but the farmer can apply a portion of his earnings with advantage by going into these Farmers Liability Companies and he can be protected as he can take out insurance upon his farm, or his implements or his horses. My friend from Jefferson, Mr. North, says, "The high cost of living will go forth." Of course there may be a little extra price upon potatoes, or upon asparagus or cabbage or celery, but let the people pay for that and protect themselves so that we may grow in these United States and give the great majority of the laboring men an opportunity such as they deserve.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I endorse all the gentleman has said in regard to taking care of the employes of this country. I will do anything to protect them in every particular, in every way that it is possible to do but gentlemen, the only question between the Gentleman from Philadelphia and myself is this; I say this amendment can be adopted here and this bill will be just as strong as it is today. What does it say? It says "casual employes" instead of making it exclusive. There are no more "casual employes" upon the farm than there are any where else. He may do a day's work on the farm. If he work to noon and it is wet, the man will say to him, "Well here is a half a day; you can go home." He comes back in the morning. That is a casual employe, all the time. It may be a month, sometimes it may be a week. My contention is this, that the farmer can be excluded here and this bill is constitutional with or without that amendment. With the amendment it would be constitutional, if it is constitutional now. That is the point, Mr. Speaker, and I favor every particle of this bill and I sincerely hope that it can be amended and passed, but, Mr. Speaker, if they are going to take the home of the farmers, there are, I think, at least two hundred and fifty thousand of them in the Commonwealth. He does what? The farmer feeds you and he feeds the members of this House and they will feed every employe in the State and it is the first source of industry and the first source of citizenship and I say that this is a serious proposition and I say again, that this bill will be just as constitutional with that amendment as it is without it, with this exception of the exclusion of casual employes.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this bill is the expression of a great public policy. We have now come to a point when we believe that it is not right that the risks which always are inherent to industry should fall upon a particular man who happens to be injured. There are risks in the occupation of farming just as there are risks in the machine shop and the farm employee has just as much right to be protected under this public policy as any other kind of employee, and the farmer has just as much duty to respond to his share of the public risks as any other employer. There ought to be no exceptions in this bill. It ought to bear alike on all and it ought to protect all alike. Therefore, I think it would be a great mistake to amend the bill in the way which has been proposed.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHERN. Yes, sir.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to have the gentleman from Philadelphia tell us what he means when he says "the farmer."

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I mean the farm hand who is employed by the owner of the farm.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, but when you say "the farmer"—who is the farmer?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman will have to interrogate Mr. North and Mr. Watson who know more about farms and farmers than I do. I don't live on a farm; I live in the city and I don't know anything about the farm, from actual experience, because I have never been, practically, on a farm.

Mr. E. M. G. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, we must not forget when we use the words "the farmer" today that there is quite some difference, that we have got to settle upon in passing this bill, in deciding finally who the farmer is. When we want to talk of the constitutionality of this bill, we want to know one way or the other and we will have to know what we have got in this respect and be mighty, mighty careful. When you say "the farmer" who is he? Ninety per cent of the men on farms in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—are they employers or are they employes? I say they are employes, and I feel sure that I am not mistaken when I tell you gentlemen of the House that there are quite a few men on the floor of this House who own farms but are they farmers or are they employing somebody on that farm who is going to bear the burden of this bill, the way it stands, so that only the employee is paying some other employee which you will find in many cases will be one of the impositibilities because many of our tenants are not worth five pennies. The majority of our farmers who work the farm are backed up by the owner of the farm himself and he simply has the title of farmer or some other fellow backs him up and has put him there. Now, the question is, which is constitutional in this bill? If we put the amendment in as it is presented, or if we leave it out? Satisfy yourselves.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WATSON and Mr. WILLIAMS.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. speaker, I desire to file reasons for my vote.

I am heartily in favor of an employer's liability and workingman's compensation act and if I were certain that this amendment made the act unconstitutional I would have voted no but as there appears to be a difference of opinion among the lawyers of the House on this point I believe it would be well for the amendment to go in so that the amended act can be considered more carefully and if it should be then considered to be unconstitutional the amendment can be receded from.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The fourth section of Article three was read as follows:

Section 4 Nothing in this act shall affect or impair any right of action which shall have accrued before this act shall take effect

Mr. PRICE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read.

The amendment was read as follows:

Article III, section 4, line 3, add the following:
"Nothing in this act shall affect any employer of labor in and about a hotel or restaurant, or any employe in and about any hotel or restaurant, but claims for personal injuries to any employee in and about any hotel or restaurant shall be claimed and asserted under the laws of this Commonwealth as they exist immediately before the approval of this act."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The fifth section of the bill was then read and agreed to as follows:

Section 5 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

The sixth section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 6 This act shall take effect on the first day of July next succeeding its passage and approval and shall be known as the "Workmen's Compensation Law of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Grange, I protest against that amendment. If that bill is going to be drawn on constitutional lines, let every faction, every interest, bear their proportional share of the burden.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say in answer to the gentleman from Jefferson, that this is for the purpose of permitting the incorporation of mutual liability companies and he wi l get the benefit of them. It is referable to employers' mutual companies.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, the reason I made the remark I did about the reference to the Grange I want to say to the Gentlemen of the House that this title of the Grange is being used in this House as a footba l or something similar, to attract attention and I want right here to say as a member of the Grange, we recognize no politics.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, just one word of explanation in regard to this amendment. Before the prior amendment was offered, section one read as follows:

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That any twenty or more employers who have in the aggregate not less than five thousand employes in the State of Pennsylvania and who have accepted the provisions of article two of the workmen's compensation law of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen may form an incorporated employers' mutual liability insurance association for the purpose of insuring themselves and such other employers as may become subscribers to the association against liability for the compensation payable under the terms of article two of such act"

Now the amendment that I offered lowers that to five hundred and two hundred, respectively, and agricultural interests can form a mutual liability company. To meet that requirement I have offered this amendment to the tenth section.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend Section 1, line 35, by striking out the word "twenty-one" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "eighteen."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is to, if possible, tide over the age at which women go into the business of prostitution. It is introduced by me at the special request of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Social Diseases. I admit that there are indifferences of opinion as to what the age should be. My belief is that the age ought to be twenty-one years and I hope that the House will concur with me in that view, because I am advised by those who know that after the age of twenty-one very few women ever enter that life, and if it can be made a crime before that age, it may be possible to save much of the disease and disaster which is now inflicted on society.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House. The law at the present time is sixteen years. This amendment makes it eighteen. Now, I think it should be eighteen and not twenty-one. Three years of grace do not make much difference and therefore I ask you to support this amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SCOTT and Mr McALEER and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The title of the bill was read and agreed to as follows:

An act to amend the ninety-first section of an act entitled 'An Act to consolidate revise and amend the penal laws of this Commonwealth" approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty as supplemented by the first section of an act approved the nineteenth day of May Anno Domini eighteen hundred and eighty-seven entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act to consolidate revise and amend the penal laws of this Commonwealth' approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty amending the ninety-first section thereof defining rape and carnal knowledge of female children and prescribing the penalty therefor" by increasing the age of consent to twenty-one years and changing the penalty

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. KITTS. This bill, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, was quite thoroughly gone over in the Judiciary General Committee. It is a delicate question for anybody to rise up and speak on for fear he might be misunderstood or misinterpreted. I feel, after careful consideration of this bill,—what little experience I have had as an attorney,—that it should not pass. The age of consent constituting statutory rape has been set at sixteen. At that period the female, it appears to my mind, has enough development and common sense to guard her person against any unlawful inducement of the opposite sex. If the penalty was so fixed, Gentlemen of the House and Mr. Speaker, that the gravity of the offense or the penalty would be equally incumbent upon both sexes I could see my way clear to support this bill. For instance, the argument advanced by some of those favoring the bill was that it would raise the standard of morals and, as some said who argued in the Judiciary General Committee, would prevent the spreading and infection of venereal diseases. If that were done, Gentlemen of the House, by raising the penalty for fornication or making the gravity of the offense fall equally upon the male and female, there might be some merit in it; but when you take a bill of this kind and allow a set of standards of this order to come into effect that where the girl of less than 21 years would consent willingly and probably be more of seducer than the boy of 16 or 17 years of age and then turn around and prosecute the boy and put him in prison for one of the highest known crimes, except murder, that has ever been written on the statute books. I say it is a bill that ought to be considered carefully before it is taken up. It might, on the other hand, place in the hand of a designing female of 18, 19, or 20 years of age a serious matrimonial handle. I think that is a point that ought to be considered. It is different, Gentlemen of the House. Don't confuse the idea of ordinary forcible rape with statutory rape they are two distinct matters. They are distinct offenses, so to speak, and in the consideration of this bill they are entirely separate. No matter what age women may have, or what age a boy may have after a certain age, fourteen or sixteen years, if it is a forcible intercourse it is rape, opso facto. But this bill provides even if the intercourse be solicted on the part of the female that it shall be rape on the part of the male. I think the bill ought to be voted down. I cannot see how it will raise the morals I cannot see how legislation will prevent a thing of this kind or see how we will legislate venereal disease out of the race if we place the whole burden of the offense on the male and allow the girl to go with impunity.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I quite agree with all that has been said by the gentleman from Erie and in addition to that the bill, fixing the different ages as it does at 16 on the part of men, and 21 on the part of women, is a serious reflection upon the mental development of woman kind, as I think men of experience, men of observation in any walk of life, will admit that a woman at 16 years of age is as fully devoloped mentally as the ordinary boy of that age and to endow that boy by statute with a statutory development mentally that would influence her to do that which her moral training and her moral nature shows her is repulsive and not only repulsive, but wrong, is absolutely absurd. I think now is the time to kill this bill on second reading.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Just so my vote may not be misunderstood, I will state that I do not think that the age should be raised over 18 years for the statutory offense. It is that in many states. I don't know of any state where they have raised the age to 21 years. When the bill was under discussion in committee, there was a great lack of any good reason why the bill should be passed as it now is. The men who argued for it, seemed to avoid the subject. They talked about the breeding of mules and stock. This is an important bill and I believe we should give thorough consideration to the age.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, it does seem to me that at least two of the gentlemen who have spoken on this matter have not read the history of human nature aright. I believe this is a serious matter. Now we are men legislating here for the Commonwealth and we ought to use brains and common sense of men and not act hastily, but cautiously. It is not the sisters of the Commonwealth of this nature that seduces mankind; we know that as men and it seems to me that if the motherhood, the girlhood of the Commonwealth it to be propertly protected, and we know that in most states, especially where the age of consent is low, that there is a condition that ought not to be. Medical experience and the testimony from physicians is to the effect that there is a condition that if known to the mankind of Pennsylvania and of the Nation, that they will rise as one man and use some cautious means to stem the tide of illicit intercourse in the Commonwealth. We are here men, as men to legislate. We must remember that we have sisters at home and who here, what one man will say that his sister will be likely, by her seductive art to lead astray some man of the same age. I say that men of 16 and 17 years of age are more capable and are of stronger will power than girls ordinarily of 20 to 21, and you must consider these things and the effect of these influences brought by the men in this Commonwealth upon the female sex when you consider this question. I am going to support this bill and I hope and believe that the manhood in this legislative chamber will heartily give their voice to it.

Mr. ALWORTH. It seems to me, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, that this is a very important subject for this House to consider very carefully. I am reminded, in the course of this discussion, of a case that arose in our county, involving a young man who had a reputation previous to indictment on a charge of rape, a good reputation,—and notwithstanding that, he was convicted of statutory rape and he was sentenced by the Court to 12 years in the penitentiary; and the case was appealed and reversed by the Supreme Court, tried again, and the young man was convicted and again he was sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary. The case was again appealed to the Supreme Court and again reversed and I think he was tried the third time and convicted and sentenced the third time to twelve years in the penitentiary. They finally got a change of venue and the case was tried in an adjoining county and the young man was acquitted. This simply shows the possiblity of a very dangerous complication in matters of this kind, not only for the young man who happens to get into trouble, but for the parents and all people concerned and I believe, with the gentleman who has proceeded me, that the statutory period at 16 is placed plenty high enough.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, there is one element that has not been brought out. That is, that statutory rape only refers to cases where the woman is of good reputation. That is to say, the crime is committed when the woman is of good reputation and it is an offense and that is the law now. There is no such thing as statutory rape where the woman is of bad reputation; and therefore all the suggestion that men might be enticed, and so forth is entirely off the subject, because if a woman does that she is not of good reputation and therefore does not come under the protection of the act.

Now there is one other point I want to bring out: At the age of 21 years, it is comparatively easy to tell the woman is of adult age. Between the ages of 15 and 17 years it is very difficult to tell that and therefore the persons who may come under this act have not the notice and not the same opportunity to protect themselves as they would have if the act places the age at 21 years. At twenty-one years he has notice and if he transgresses the law it is his own fault and he ought to be amenable to the provisions of this act.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to be heard so often upon this subject, but I want to call the attention of the Gentlemen of the House to this fact, that in the trial of a case of this nature which is one of the delicate and serious cases, gentlemen, can you concieve in your mind's eye of twelve men sitting in court on a case of this kind and saying by their verdict that a woman is of bad repute and so brand the girl and acquit the defendant. They would convict an innocent man rather than by their verdict stamp upon the brow of that women that she was a woman of bad reputation, and men are convicted in court on that idea because the jurymen, although sworn to their duty, although the defendant is not guilty would convict him rather than brand the girl as one of bad character. I remember a case that was tried not long ago. The case was tried, and tried well. I had assistance in the case, and as I remember it, the jury was out all night. I felt cheap after my argument to the jury when I was compelled in the defense of that young man to try to prove that this girl was a woman of bad repute. I was told afterwards by one of the jurymen who said that they battled nearly the whole night on that one particular question, that they did not think the young man was guilty of the crime, but that they could not see their way clear to stamp upon the brow of that woman the fact that she was of ill repute, and they found the defendant guilty although they believed him to be innocent. I will not agree to any bill in which the age is to be raised any higher. It has worked out all right where the age has been sixteen, and there have not been so many cases where a girl has been proven to be of bad repute. From sixteen to twenty-one is an age where you will find cases of ill repute among the women more numerous.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD: Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of this bill as it is an attempt to raise the moral standard of men and women. We have before us the picture of William Penn shaking hands with his red brother. It is represented that the red brother is perfectly able to take care of his family and women. Let us follow the example of William Penn and say we will take care of our families. I am in favor of this bill because it is a step in the right direction, and it is an attempt to meet the red men.

The quesion recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

THURSDAY, March 13th, 1913.

The House met at 10:00 A. M.
The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O, God, we are coming toward the close of another legislative week, a week in which earnest and faithful work has been wrought; great questions have been submitted to us; stirring interests have demanded our attention and our thought. We have sincerely and honestly tried to solve the problems presented to us. We have used the faculties with which Thou hast gifted us, our reason, our judgment and our will. We have called upon our conscience to serve us, and have tried to descriminate between the true and false, between the right and the wrong. If we have made mistakes, dear Lord, or committed indiscretions, through inadvertance we have wandered from the path and have said or have done the thing which was wrong, wilt Thou graciously forgive us, remembering the infirmities to which we are subject. Hold us not too strictly to account for we are fallible men, liable to mistake, prone to err. Let us know that forbearing and generous love which our Lord so beautifully illustrated when here on earth, let none of us at any time deliberately go wrong. Keep back Thy servants from the presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over us. We ask all this in the name and for the sake of Jesus Christ, our Saviour and Lord, Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceeding when on motion of Mr. JAMES A. DUNN, the further reading of the Journal was dispenesed with and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE THE SERVICE AND EFFICIENCY OF OFFICERS AND EMPLOYES OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows

Whereas, This House by its action on the concurrent resolution introduced in the Senate and presented here for concurrence on January 21," expressed its desire that an investigation be had as to the number and compensation of officers and employes of the House and Senate, and

Whereas, That resolution required a report of the Committee to be appointed for the purpose of making the investigation on the twelfth day of March, and

Whereas, That date having passed without consideration having been given the resolution by the conference committee of the two Houses,

Therefore, Be it resolved,

That a commission consisting of five members of the House of Representatives be appointed to investigate as to the necessity for efficiency, number and salaries of the officers and employes of the Senate and House of Representatives, and to report to the House not later than April first; such commission shall have full power to administer oaths and to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books and papers, to issue all necessary processes and to exercise all of the powers belonging to a committee of the House.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I move the suspension of rule 66, for the purpose of the consideration of this resolution at this time.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The Chair declared itself in doubt,

Whereupon, a rising vote was taken, sixty-six gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and forty-seven in the negative, the question was decided in the affirmative and the motion adopted.

Mr. SPEAKER. Rule 66 will be suspended for the purpose of permitting the consideration of the resolution offered by the gentleman from Crawford.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, both houses of this Assembly have declared a necessity for such an investigation as is called for by this resolution. The necessity was expressed in the adoption of the concurrent resolution which carried with it an investigation of all of the other departments of the State Government and requiring a report from the Commission on the 12th day of March. That resolution is now in the hands of a Conference Committee of the two Houses by reason of the difference of opinion between the Houses as to whether or not the investigation should include all the departments of the State Government or be confined to the officers and employes of House and Senate. It was apparent to all of us that investigation could not be had of all the departments of the State Government and a report made during the present session of the General Assembly. Consequently, it was a watste of effort to pass that resolution in its original form, as viewed, at least, by this House and refused to concur in the Senate contention that the investigation should extent to other departments than the House and Senate.

That resolution died yesterday by reason of the fact that the Conference Committee failed to make a report on it so that it could be acted upon and a commission appointed to report by the 12th day of March. The date of the report of that Commission was not a subject of difference between the two Houses and consequently that conference committee had no control over it in order to change that date. I think we have expressed ourselves heretofore as being in favor of just the investigation that this resolution calls for and that it is incumbent upon us to adopt this resolution in order that we may intelligently investigate and legislate upon the House and Senate employes before the end of this Session. It is no new action on the part of this House to adopt this resolution. It is in keeping with the action already taken. I trust that every member of the House will support this resolution.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I came in a little late and I did not catch the full force of this resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the resolution for information.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

It was unanimously agreed to.

The SPEAKER. Under the resolution, the appointment will be made by the Chair at this time. The Chair appoints on this Committee: the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes; the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Ulerich; the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Forster; the gentleman from Allekheny, Mr. Kennedy; and the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Donnally.

Granting use of Hall of the House to Committee on Labor and Industry.

Mr. BIGGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following resolution.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Labor and Industry be given the use of the hall of the House of Representatives for the purpose of holding a public hearing on the "Minimum Wage Bill" on Wednesday, March 19, at 2:30 P. M.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen will bear in mind that the House itself is going to have a good deal of use of the hall of the House after this week. If hearings could be held in the House Caucus room, it might be better, unless they are too large.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. MALIE. Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that we change that to the House Caucus room, provided that the Appropriation Committee will let us have it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest, for the information of the members, that it is not necessary for a resolution to be presented for the use of the hall of the House At a time that the House is not in session, the Speaker has authority to permit a committee to hold a session in this hall without a resolution. If the House is not in session at that time, there will be no difficulty about the Committee holding a session here.

Mr. MALIE. Well, that will be satisfactory.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, just a word of explanation as to the character of this bill. Under the general sheriffs' fee bill of 1901, there arose a great agitation throughout the smaller counties as to the high cost of the sheriff's fees, and after considerable agitation the General Assembly of 1911 passed a sheriff's fee bill applying to counties of 130,000 and under. Some of the courts held that we could not classify counties in that relation, less than 150,000 population. Thus we had some of the counties going under the act of 1911 and some of them not, making a discrepancy in the different counties. This bill was introduced, word for word, as the Act of 1911, and simply changes the classification from 130,000 up to 150,000 population, making it constitutional.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, on account of a mistake of the printer in copying the amendments I presented I would like to have the unanimous consent of the House to present further amendments to make the proper correction, and therefore I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section one line ten, by inserting after the word "on" the word "County."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instruction of the House.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 503, as follows:

An Act prescribing the conditions under which agreements and contracts for the sale and exchange of lands tenements and hereditaments may be recorded in the offices of the recorders of deeds in various counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all agreements and contracts in writing for the barter and sale or exchange of lands tenements or hereditaments situate in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in and for the county where the subject of the agreement is situate provided such agreements or contracts have been duly executed and acknowledged in accordance with existing laws as to the acknowledgments of deeds by the owner or owners of the said lands tenements or hereditaments in person or by an attorney duly constituted and empowered by letter or attorney duly executed and acknowledged in accordance with existing statutes and recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds for the said county And provided further That where any such agreement or contract shall contain a stipulation that the said agreement or contract shall not be placed of record the same shall not be entitled to be admitted to record under the provisions hereof or any other act of Assembly of this Commonwealth

Section 2 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, there have been several members asking a few questions about this bill, and I think maybe it would be well to explain its real purpose. This is a bill regulatiing the method under which agreements for the sale of real estate may be recorded in the various counties of this Commonwealth. The law at this time permits an agreement of sale to be proven by a subscribing witness merely upon the affidavit that the vendor "cannot be had," thereby permitting an agreement of sale to be recorded and placing a cloud upon the title of the owner without any intention on the part of the vendor, and in consequence the owner is compelled to go into further equity to remove the cloud on the title. This bill provides that an agreement of sale for the purchase and sale of real estate shall be ackowledged only by the vendor or by an attorney in fact duly constituted by power of attorney.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 501, as follows:

An Act providing for the restricting of the lien of judgments to one or more parcels of real estate and relieving the balance of the real estate of defendant from the lien thereof and repealing an act entitled "Relating to the entry of bail upon an appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court from an order judgment or decree directing the payment of money and the release of the appellant's real estate from the lien of said judgment order or decree pending the appeal and re-entry of judgment if judgment be affirmed" approved the twenty-second day of April one thousand nine hundred and nine

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever a judgment shall have been entered of record against any person firm or corporation and such person firm or corporation shall be seized in fee of two or more parcels of real estate it shall and may be lawful for the defendant or defendants therein to file in the same proceedings his her or their petition verified by affidavit setting forth that the judgment had been obtained that they were seized of more than one parcel of real estate of a value considerably in excess of the amount of the judgment and praying that the judgment be restricted to certain parcels thereof with an accurate description showing the location by metes and bounds with the actual value the assessed value thereof and encumbrances against the same The court if satisfied that prima facia the defendant's interest in the property offered as security is at least double the amount of the judgment entered it shall grant a rule on the plaintiff to show cause why the judgment described in the petition of the defendant should not have its lien restricted to the real estate therein specifically described which rule shall be made returnable to the first day thereafter which the rules of that court provide for the hearing of arguments or motions and made absolute if the allegations of the petition are sustained Any question of law or fact raised by the petition and answer should one be filed shall be heard by the court before whom the proceedings are instituted in accordance with the equity rules of practice and procedure If the rule is made absolute by the court it shall enter a decree restricting the judgment mentioned to the real estate described in the petition and decreeing that all the remaining real estate of the defendant or defendants shall be relieved from the lien of said judgment

Section 2 That an act entitled "Relating to the entry of bail upon an appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court from an order judgment or decree directing the payment of money and the release of the appellant's real estate from the lien of said judgment order or decree pending the appeal and re-entry of judgment if judgment be affirmed" approved the twenty-second day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and three) be and the same is hereby repealed

Section 3 Any and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call your attention to the purpose of this bill. The purpose, as I look at it, is to change the entire practice and effect of a judgment lien and it is a bill that ought to interest every man in the legal profession, every man loaning money, and I think it ought to be pretty carefully examined. It seems to me that it is going in the wrong direction. The law is now that if I borrow money from any of you gentlemen and give you a judgment note, it is a lien against all my real estate in the county where that judgment is entered. If this bill becomes a law I can go into court and make a showing under the provisions of this bill and restrict your lien to certain pieces of land. Thus, if a little corruption takes place between myself and the witnesses and the judge, possibly I can defeat you from collecting the amount of money that you loaned me. It seems it is departing from a proper procedure of liens on land.

Mr. BLELOCH. The law is today that where a verdict or judgment is recovered and the defendant takes an appeal to the Superior or Supreme Court of this State and enters real estate security as he may in the lower court for the payment of the debt, interest and costs, that the prothonotary is directed to mark on the docket of that case "appeal perfected, lien discharged." Now what is the effect. After years of waiting to arrive at trial and the delays incident thereto the plaintiff, many times in need of the verdict and the money that would accompany it, is further confronted with the delay while the case is being heard in the Supreme or Superior Court and then if he succeeds in maintaining the verdict of the lower court and goes to recover his verdict against the defendant or the security on the bail-piece, he finds that both the defendant and the security have parted with all their real estate and his verdict is not worth the paper it is written on. This bill provides that in such cases where a verdict is recovered for a judgment and the defendant is the owner of more than one parcel of real estate, by petition to the court in which the proceedings were instituted, showing a sufficient amount of real estate for the payment of debt, interest and cost, in double the amount, I think it is, he may have the lien restricted to that particular piece of real estate to that value and the remaining amount of his real estate shall be released from the lien of the verdict. That absolutely keeps a sufficient real estate equity to pay his judgment while the case is being heard in the proper court.

I ask every man of common sense to support this bill.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BLELOCH. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WILTBANK. At the present time does not the real estate security which these gentlemen have given for the appeal, is not that security enough? On the appeal they have to give security for double the amount, that is real estate security. While it may reduce it at the present time, if this is to be thrown back it does not increase the present security.

Mr. BLELOCH. I think I understand the gentleman's question, although I did not hear it. I think that the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. Wiltbank) is under the impression that all these bonds are entered as liens on the real estate, that is bonds entered on an appeal; but there is no provision on the statute which requires those bonds to be entered as liens on the real estate offered as security. Does that answer your question?

Mr. WILTBANK. Yes, that answers it.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. Bleloch).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BLELOCH. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I desire to ask the gentleman if the bill does not cover two subjects? In the first section of the bill the subject relating to the restriction of liens, and in the second section of the bill a subject repealing an act entirely upon a different subject?

Mr. BLELOCH. No, it is all on the same subject. That act that is repealed regulated the question of liens of a verdict.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I raise this point of order as to the constitutionality of this bill, that the bill is unconstitutional and would be if enacted into law, for the reason that it covers more than one subject, which is prohibited by the constitution; the first section being an act relating to the restricting of liens of judgment to one or more pieces of real estate, and the second section of the act being the repealing of an act relating to an entirely different subject as follows:

"That an act entitled an act relating to the entry of bail upon an appeal to the Supreme or Superior Courts from an order judgment or fee directing the payment of money and the release of the appellant's real estate from the lien of said judgment order or decree, suspending the appeal and re-entry of judgment, if judgment be affirmed"

I cannot construe it but what there are two entirely different subjects to this proposed act and the constitution especially prohibits any bills being passed containing or pertaining to more than one subject.

The SPEAKER. In the opinion of the Chair, the point of order is not well taken, because both sections of the bill relate to the security to be afforded to the judgment creditor pending any further proceedings for the recovery of the judgment and it is the opinion of the Chair that both these sections relate to the same general purposes and therefore do not violate the provision of the constitution. The point of order is not sustained.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Is it not a fact that this applies to judgments taken on confession as well as those taken on verdict?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, this bill refers to all judgments, and if a man offered real estate security in the shape of a confessed judgment note, if he had a whole lot of property, ten or twelve parcels, or more than one parcel, he is not going to give a note as security and tie up the rest of the property unless he specifies in that judgment note the real estate by which that judgment is secured, by that particular parcel, and I do not see where a man holding a judgment security under those circumstances is going to be interfered with.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, most ordinarily a man gives a judgment note as he does not give a reference of his real estate to the creditor. The creditor looks to that himself without any regard to a statement in the note. As I understand it, they do not generally designate their real estate security in the note. That is not the practice as I am acquainted with it. We do not require a man to mention anything about the security in the note, and if a man gives a note for a confessed judgment it has always been the practice that all his property shall be subject to the lien or the judgment.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a great deal of misapprehension in respect to this bill, and I would, therefore, move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. FREY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

It was not agreed to.

The question recurring,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker, on February 26th, the afternoon session of the House beginning at five o'clock, I offered a resolution or motion giving leave to the Committee on Judiciary Local to sit during that afternoon session. There are many members on that committee who attended and failed to be present in the House during its session to respond to some of the roll calls on some very important bills upon which they would like to have been recorded. They had leave granted and met with the committee where they remained while these roll calls were being taken. There is no record in the Journal on our desks, therefore I rise to this question in order that the members of that committee may have the benefit of the excuse at that time given to them to sit with the committee while the House was in session.

The SPEAKER. The explanation is very proper and will be noted upon the Legislative Journal. It is of the utmost importance that leaves of absence obtained during the sessions of the House should appear in the Journal. The official stenographers will take notice.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 810, entitled:

An Act for the better preservation of the records contained in the offices of the recorder of deeds of counties of this Commonwealth containing over one million and a half population providing for the replacement and certification of worn or dilapidated records and the payment of the cost thereof out of county funds

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I fear that there is a mistake in the title of this bill. The bill ought to be entitled: "An act to create a perpetual series of jobs in the office of the Recorder of Deeds in the City of Philadelphia." And I make a brief appeal to my fellow legislators to extend some protection to the Treasurer of the City of Philadelphia. I only want to call your attention to one or two words contained in this bill.

In line 4, you will note it becomes the duty of the Recorder of Deeds to do certain things. Now, that means that the expense of doing such work becomes a subject of mandamus, so that the Recorder of Deeds can order this work done and the Councils of the City of Philadelphia must appropriate money for doing it, or otherwise they will be mandamused. It becomes a fact that if this bill is passed the appropriating of money for this purpose is taken away from the Councils of the City. In the second place, in line 7 you will notice that the copying of records is to be done whenever in the opinion of the Recorder of Deeds it shall become necessary. Now, you take both of these provisions into consideration at the same time and you will see that the Recorder of Deeds has an absolutely open door to the treasury of the City of Philadelphia. There is no need, whatsoever, for this legislation. At present, all the Recorder of Deeds needs to do when he desires to have some of his records copied is to make application to the court, and if the court, upon examination of the records, determines that the copying is necessary, the proper permission is given and the copying is done.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INFORMATION.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, Rule 12 of the House reads as follows:

"When a member is about to speak in debate or to communicate any matter to the House, he shall rise and respectfully address himself to 'Mr. Speaker", confiing his remarks to the subject before the House and avoiding personal reflections."

For a number of session, and particularly in this session, I have heard members address themselves to "Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House." It always seems to me that this is thoroughly unparliamentary, and therefore I rise to ask the Speaker whether my meaning and interpretation of this is not correct.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's interpretation of the rule is entirely correct. The expression, "Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House," originated in this House, to the best recollection of the Chair, during the session of 1911 by one or two members, and it has gradually spread over a great part of the House. It is contrary to the most elemantary rules of parliamentary procedure and probably could not be found in use in any other parliamentary body, large or small, outside of this House.

Mr. CHARLES. A. SCHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask unanimous consent to call up, for the purpose of amendment House Bill No. 465, which passed second reading yesterday.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent for the consideration of the bill at this time?

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask if the gentleman from Columbia has Mr. North's permission.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I consulted Mr. North and he agreed to it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 465, entitled:

An Act requiring a license for conducting certain kinds of business regulating such licensing and fixing a penalty for violation of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be readby the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, line 20, after the word borough insert "Incorporated town."

Section 2, line 5, after the word cities insert "Incorporated towns."

Also end of line 5 after the word city insert "Incorporated town."

In line 6, after the word cities insert "Incorporated towns."

Also in line 13 after the word borough insert "Incorporated town."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as made?

Is there any objection?

The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instruction of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and (at 12.35 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until Monday, March 17, 1913, at eight o'clock P. M.

ERRATUM.

At the top of page 493, second column, immediately after the reconvening of the House the following should appear:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MARCH 17, 1913. No. 32.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, March 17, 1913.

The House met at 8.30 o'clock P. M.
The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer

O, God, as we gather again in our wonted places to take up the work of this week, we commend ourselves anew to Thee, asking for Thy presence and blessing and gracious help, according to our needs. Thou art the strength of our lives, the inspiration of our hearts, the energy of our wills. Thou art a great, immeasurable fountain of blessing and we constantly draw upon that fountain and receive of Thy fulness. We rejoice that this is so, for great questions shall confront us during the week, great problems shall perplex us, provoking thought, stimulating inquiry and demanding decision. If left to ourselves we will assuredly slip or stumble, or wander out of the way. Walk with us all along the way, during the week, reaching out Thy hand to help us. Bless Thy servant especially, upon whom the guidance and government of the affairs of this House comes. Give to him energy and strength and courage and resolution, and wisdom and altertness—everything that he needs. And may the men whose duty it is to devise the measures and frame the laws for the welfare of the people, look to Thee and receive Thy blessing; and may all who contribute in any way to the work which is here wrought be under Thy guidance and government.

We ask it in His name whose we are and whom we are trying to serve. Amen.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Thursday's, March 13th, 1913, proceedings, when on motion of Mr. Moses the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1030, entitled:

An Act providing for the licensing of railway dining cars club cars and cafe cars upon which liquors are sold regulating the sale of liquors on such cars and providing for the punishment of corporations or individuals violating this act be placed upon the Calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the Law and Order Committee.

Mr. GANS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what this bill is before being required to vote on it.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, this is a bill to license the dining cars of the railroads to sell liquor. Now, Mr. Speaker, this is about the only kind of a liquor bill that I would have anything to do with. The supposition is that a man should have the privilege of ordering or using liquor if he feels like it in his own private residence. The same right is granted to him in first class hotels. According to my thought, a train which carries a dining car is nothing more or less than a first class traveling hotel. I do not think that any objection has ever been raised particularly to the selling of liquor on dining cars, because it is a public place. There is no abuse of it, and I think it no more than right to have liquor on dining cars so that the man traveling from place to place who likes a bottle of beer for dinner, or a cocktail before breakfast, may have the chance to get it. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has discontinued the use of liquor on the dining cars for the reason that they were doing it without any warrant of law. They are now desirous of having licenses granted for these cars, for which they propose to pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each car. The licenses are not transferable, and no liquor will be sold on Sunday, or in any terminal station. It is merely for the benefit of the public going from Chicago and Cincinnati in the West through our State to New York and Boston and other places in the East. I think it is perfectly proper bill, and I ask the gentlemen to support this motion to have the bill placed upon the calendar.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. McALEER and Mr. GANS and were as follows:

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, this is a Senate Bill and there has been some inquiry made in relation to the bill and its purposes. The old members of the House will remember, at the last session we authorized a county court for Allegheny County, limiting the jurisdiction of that court to six hundred dollars. After two years of experience we find that it has worked admirably and the lawyers and people of Allegheny County feel that the jurisdiction should be extended to fifteen hundred dollars. That is one of the provisions of this bill, one of the amendments that is made to the old law of 1911. The other matter set forth in this bill is only a matter of procedure in the various actions which are brought in that court, and meet with the approval of the lawyers and the bar association and affects nobody but Allegheny County. The bill should pass without an opposing vote.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 638, as follows:

Section 2 Where the coal rock earth or other mineral or materials beneath any property except unseated lands and lands the surface of which is unsettled unoccupied and unimproved within this Commonwealth has been removed to such an extent and in such a manner as to thereby remove the necessary adequate support of the surface of said property against subsidence without having placed built erected and constructed sufficient adequate and permanent artificial support in place and stead thereof thereby endangering the health security and safety of persons and the preservation of the property which would be occasioned by reason of the subsidence of the surface of said property it shall be the duty of the person lessee firm association or corporation operating the mine from which such coal rock earth or other minerals or materials were removed to erect and construct within six months from and after the approval of this act sufficient adequate and permanent artificial support of said property to protect the surface of said property against subsidence Provided however that where the person lessee firm association or corporation which caused the coal to be removed has died gone into liquidation or is for any other cause no longer engaged in the business of mining then in such case the proper municipal authorities may take such measures as may be necessary to prevent a subsidence of the surface

Section 3 Any person lessee owner general manager superintendent or person in charge of the work of any corporation firm or association violating any of the provisions of this act or failing to comply with its provisions shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof before any alderman magistrate or justice of the peace within the proper municipality shall be sentenced to pay a fine of one thousand dollars or undergo imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding ninety days or both for each offense such fine shall be paid into the treasury of the respective municipal corporation in which said offense was committed All actions for violations hereof or failure to comply therewith shall be instituted by the Bureau of Mine Inspection and Surface Support where such bureau is created or where such bureau is not in existence by the legally constituted municipal authorities of such municipality in the name of the Commonwealth to the use of the proper municipal corporation wherein such offense occurred

The limitation of actions both in law and equity shall not begin to run against any suit or actions for recovery until such subsidence and injury has actually occurred

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, in compliance with a joint resolution approved the twenty-fourth day of March 1911, a commission was appointed by the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth to ascertain from investigation the legal rights of the owners of the surface, and the coal beneath the surface, in the anthracite region of this State, and also to ascertain what precaution in the mining of said coal was necessary to properly support the surface. This commission was further authorized to prepare a bill or bills for presentation to this General Assembly recommending a method or methods to protect the welfare of both the owners of coal and surface.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, this commission has presented its report but not in accordance with the provisions of the resolution creating this commission. In the report of the commission the coal companies agree to pay one-half the amount of damage done to buildings having a valuation of less than $5,000. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen, the million or more people of the anthracite region are not asking for charity, but rather for legislation that will protect life, limb and property. The bills on the calendar for your consideration do nothing more than to extend the police powers of the State. We want nothing more than the assurance that our homes, our schools, our hospitals are protected from the greatest menace ever known to the people of the northwestern part of the Commonwealth. The Republican and Democratic parties at their conventions adopted a plank agreeing to give us this relief for which we are now asking the members of this House. I appeal to you in behalf of the people of our section to vote for these bills now up to you for consideration. Unless legislation is speedily passed, Mr. Speaker, to protect the surface from disturbance, wreck and ruin from mine caves, the tax problem in our county will become a serious question.

Already there is evidence of the need of protection, in the march of property owners to the office of the county commissioners demanding a decrease in property valuation because of damage done by mine caves. The surface in well built up sections of our counties have been disturbed by mine caves. Homes have been wrecked and the ground on which they stand ruined because of the greed for coal and the desire to get out every pound by robbing pillars. All these property owners have suffered a loss in valuation through circumstances over which they have no control. During the time that the commission has been hearing appeals more than 4,000 property owners have come to the court houses of our counties, demanding a reduction in their assessment because of damages done by mine caves. As the mine cave danger is constantly growing, it is apparent that unless there is legislation to protect the surface the counties where anthracite coal is mined will suffer greatly from decreased taxes, and in the course of two years, or by the time the next legislature convenes, the valuation of property held by individuals will be decreased at least one-half.

Gentlemen, vote for the bill.

On the question.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 290, as follows:

An Act authorizing Robert Stewart a citizen of Dauphin county Pennsylvania to bring suit in the court of common pleas of Dauphin county against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That Robert Stewart a citizen of Dauphin county Pennsylvania is hereby authorized to bring suit in the court of common pleas of Dauphin County against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for any sum or sums of money that may be legally or justly due the said Robert Stewart by the said Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for work done and performed and material furnished in and about the improvement of Capitol Park heretofore done performed and furnished at the request of the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think that a bill of this nature ought to have an explanation before the House votes on it.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, Robert Stewart is a landscape gardener in a small way. Years ago he was instructed by the then Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings to perform certain services on the Capitol Grounds and deliver certain materials. He claims that he has only been partly compensated for the work so performed and the materials so delivered. He has made several ineffectual attempts to secure such legislation as is asked for here to-night but, being a poor colored man, had not had sufficient influence to have this accomplished. He simply asks, gentlemen, that you give him the right to present his claim to a proper tribunal for adjustment and I hope that every gentleman here will see his way clear to support this measure.

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—7.

Campbell, C.M.,	Kuhn, H. P.,	Redfield,	Ulerich,
Cheeseman,	Newbaker,	Swartz,	Ulman,

More than the majority rejuired by the rule having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the bill placed on the Calendar.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

(On Bill No. 78).

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, in voting "Nay" on this motion, I do so not for the reason that I oppose an elective board in School Districts of the first class, for I am strongly in favor of an elective one, but I believe it is not expedient at this time to change the School Code in any of its important parts.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. MALIE asked and received the unanimous consent of the House to present a motion at this time, which read as follows:

Moved that the vote by which House Bill No. 620, file folio 2411 entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-ninth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act to prohibit the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine butterine and other similar products when colored in imitation of yellow butter to provide for license fees to be paid by manufacturers wholesale and retail dealers and by proprietors of hotels restaurants dining-rooms and boarding-houses for the manufacture or sale of oleomargarine butterine or other similar products not colored in imitation of yellow butter and to regulate the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine butterine or other similar products not colored in imitation of yellow butter and to prevent and punish fraud and deception in such manufacture and sale as an imitation butter and to prescribe penalties and punishments for violations of this act and the means and the method of procedure for its enforcement and regulate certain matters of evidence in such procedure" was recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture, be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. RICHARDS. House Bill No. 620 was presented to this House by himself and is known as the Oleomargarine Bill. During my absence to-night, or rather before I got here, the gentlemen in the rear of the House moved that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture. Mr. Speaker, I believe that the members of the House being busy, did not really realize what they were voting for, and voted to have the bill recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture. I presented this bill to this House some six weeks ago. It was referred by you, Mr. Speaker, to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation. We have had two public hearings, one in the interest of those who favored this measure, and the other in the interest of those who oppose this measure. After the last public hearing, the Committee still held the bill in the Committee for two weeks, listening for any further objections that might be presented to the bill. Last week the Committee unanimously voted to refer to bill back to the House as committed. Mr. Speaker, in my absence the gentlemen in the rear of the hall asked to have the bill recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture, and if I am in order, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Butler, Mr.

Grabe, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman his reasons for wanting this bill recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, my reason for doing this was simply because I thought that was where the bill belonged. That is all the reason I had in mind.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if the gentleman from Butler knows that the public hearings have been held on the advice of the Secretary of the Grange of the State of Pennsylvania, and that the day and the hour of the day was set to please him and not the Committee.

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, I did not hear the interrogation of the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. RICHARDS. Do you know, or do you not know, that the Secretary of the State Grange set the day and the hour of the day for the hearing on this bill?

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, I do not know that he set it, but I know that a hearing was held.

Mr. RICHARDS. Do you know that the Committee was in session until ten minutes to twelve?

Mr. GRABE. I know that it was a pretty late hour.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, after the Committee meetings, the Secretary of the State Grange came to the Chairman of the Committee and thanked him for his kind and courteous treatment of the Grange. The Chairman of the Committee said to him, "Have you any further questions to ask, or any further remarks to make on this measure?" and he said, "No, Mr. Chairman, we are very well satisfied with this hearing."

Now, Mr. Speaker, I don't think it is fair to begin with, I don't think it is in accordance with the action of this Legislature to take such an undue advantage of the sponsor of a bill and especially on first reading. I did not know that such action would be taken or I perhaps would have made a greater effort to have been here and advocated the measure the best I could. If it is the desire of the gentleman to defeat this bill, then let him do it fair as on any other bill or as any other bill should be defeated, and that is on the floor of the House and not have it committed to the Committee that is in my opinion absolutely opposed to the measure and perhaps may keep it there until such time is passed to let the bill pass this House, and the Senate, if he is opposed to it. If he does not want to be unfair, then I think he should vote himself to have this vote reconsidered and let it remain on the calendar of the House and at the proper time he can oppose it, and I will assure him that I will take no snap judgment on him. Let him, at the proper time, then defeat the bill if he can, but at this time, I ask the Gentlemen of this House to sustain the motion and reconsider the vote by which this bill was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have always considered it unfair to take action on a bill in the absence of the sponsor. I don't think any member who knew what he was doing or had experience in this House would take advantage of any member to defeat his bill and I hope that the House will place this bill back on the calendar. I am unalterably opposed to it and I don't believe this House will pass it, but I think the gentleman who had the bill recommitted didn't, perhaps through lack of experience, realize that it was the custom of the House to give every member a fair chance to present his own side on any measure when the action is taken to get it back on the calendar. I hope the Gentlemen of the House will vote to support the proposition suggested by Mr. Richards and place the bill again on the calendar.

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, I don't care to take any unfair means against any one here. I felt with my friends and with the advice of others that that was the proper Committee for that bill to go before and as it came up this evening without any further consideration, I made that motion. If I have not been going in accordance to the rules of practice that are provided for here, it is because I was unaware of them and because I didn't exactly understand the rules, and it was all without any intention of taking advantage of the sponsor. I didn't know that he was not in the House.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Committee I think it is a reflection on it. I am not interested in this bill but I don't know of any man who asked more questions on the bill and on its various sides and I ask you gentlemen to let it remain where it is.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill was recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 31, entitled:

An act to repeal an act approved the second day of May one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine entitled "An act to provide revenue by imposing a mercantile license tax on venders of or dealers in goods wares and merchandise and providing for the collection of said tax" together with the amendments thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MARTIN. As sponsor for this bill, I earnestly and sincerely hope and trust that my motives for introducing the same shall not be misconstrued or in any way misunderstood.

I desire to frankly say to this House, that I have no selfish motive or motives whatsoever in asking for the repeal of our present Mercantile Tax Law, as it now appears on our statute books.

I am interested, however, from the standpoint of a representative of a people, whose wishes and welfare for future prosperity I am duly bound to respect.

For the past five or six years this Mercantile Tax law has been a source of continuous agitation, and has caused much dissatisfaction not only among the merchants of my own county of Dauphin, which I have the honor of representing but it has caused dissatisfaction in other counties as well. Since at least three or four similar bills had been presented at this present session of the Legislature, it is self-evident fact, that other counties have been similarly affected.

If this Mercantile Tax law is just, uniform, and has been impartially enforced, and above all if it is absolutely necessary to FINE men who engage in business then it remains for this House to allow the law to remain on our statute books. But, if, on the other hand, this law, has been found to be unjust, unfair, unpopular, and to have been only partially enforced, because of political, favoritisms, and above all, if it is an unnecessary burden thrust upon our merchants then I say, the Mercantile Tax law should be repealed.

Through recent investigation and otherwise, it has come to me, that the vast majority of merchants are dissatisfied, throughout Dauphin County, and I have received protests from other counties also for various well founded reasons.

I have discovered the fact, to my astonishment, that in at least a number of the sixty-seven counties that comprises this great Commonwealth, this Mercantile Tax has become largely a menace to the various business interests that are being directly affected either by its enforcement or non-enforcement, and is it any wonder?

I have been told by those who ought to know, that there has been no uniformity some merchants were sworn, some were not sworn to their statements, some were partially exempt from the tax, because of political favoritism, others were not, some paid on all outstanding accounts and others did not.

Such conditions, gentlemen, should not exist, and there must be something radically wrong when they do exist, and are allowed to be continued to exist.

This tax, it appears to me, is unwise, unfair, and in my mind, is an imposition, thrust unnecessarily and unscrupulously upon our merchants, who are attempting to do business fairly and honestly and for these reasons the Mercantile Tax law has to a great extent become so unpopular.

Shall we, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House, any longer continue to discourage busiess in our great state by inflicting upon our merchants a tax, or in other words, a fine, if you please, for engaging in that particular vocation? Would it not be far more encouraging to business interests, and commendable as well as commensurate with progressive ideas, to lift from the shoulders of our merchants, this seemingly unnecessary burden?

Would it not be better to encourage them than to discourage?

In fact, this tax is inflicted upon our merchants, it seems to me, as a class, and is nothing more than class legislation, directed against a certain class of business men large or small in our State.

The manufacturer, the architect, the engineer and general contractor, the lawyer, the doctor and many others, are not taxed for the business they do in our State, and rightly so. Why then shall we continue to tax the merchant unjustly?

Why has Pennsylvania become the greatest manufacturing State in our Union? Is it not largely due to the fact that our manufacturers are not taxed for the business they do in our State? Do any of our large and important neighboring States have a mercantile tax? Not one. It is not, therefore, reasonable that with this knowledge, dissatisfaction has originated or has been created in the minds of our merchants? There are but seven States in our Union that have such a tax. Only one small eastern State, Delaware, one central State, Kentucky, and only five of the smaller western States. Out of forty-eight States comprising this Union no really important state except Pennsylvania has such a law on its statute books.

Under this existing law, in our State, the gross receipts of a business are taxed, regardless of profits which surely must have a tendency to make this tax very unfair, as some do a big business on a very small margin of profit, much to the benefit of a community.

The merchant is not only taxed for the gross amount of business transacted, but all outstanding accounts are included regardless as to whether his outstanding accounts can be collected or not.

Here the merchant is again imposed upon, and is absolutely unprotected and helpless, since there is no law now on our statute books that will enable him to collect many of his outstanding accounts.

This tax, Mr. Speaker, I again reiterate, what I have formerly said, is unjust because it is levied on an intangible base the information for which must be furnished by the taxpayer himself. Such information is subject to all the varying forms and shades of judgment.

Just a few days ago, one man told me personally that he was exempt from paying a large portion of his tax, a certain year, because some little ward heeler (who probably calls himself a politician) had told him that he would see to it, and claimed the credit for same. If one, there are doubtless many others. This, gentlemen, is not only partial and non-uniform, but it is unjust and unfair, and I want to say right here on the floor of this House, that no man should be allowed to manipulate, or possess the power to override the law for purely selfish motives, at the expense of a number of merchants who pay their tax fairly and honestly.

Is it any wonder our merchants are displeased or that they should claim the tax to be unfair, unjust and unpopular? Take our present system for example. The merchants' tax is first of all based upon last year's business. He then pays his mercantile tax, as previously stated, on oustanding accounts, as well as on moneys collected. If he uses a team outside of the borough or city limits, he is liable for a peddler's license. If he delivers in a neighboring borough, he is again taxed by that borough for the privilege of delivering his goods in that borough, so you see, gentlemen, he is getting his continually.

These conditions actually exist in our State, and I ask you gentlemen in all sincerity and fairness does not the ultimate of this system of taxation tend to destroy or drive business out of our State, rather than encourage it? A man should certainly be protected and not fined when he engages in business. Then too, a very large percentage of this tax is collected from the small business man or dealer who has a hard time making ends meet, and who proportionately pays more than does the big dealer. He pays the same minimum tax of $2.00, as does the big dealer, and the extent of his business is far more readily obtainable and correctly judged than that of his more fortunate brother merchant. Here it becomes an imposition, and a gross injustice.

This mercantile tax, too, is inequitable.

First. Because the retail merchant pays double the tax that is paid by the wholesaler; in fact, it is estimated that the retail merchant pays three-fourths of the whole amount of taxes collected.

Second. Because it falls most heavy upon the merchant whose business is the smallest.

Third. Because the self-assessment system or feature is acknowledged to be radically wrong, so far as a system of taxation is concerned.

Fourth. Because it is a tax that apparently places a premium upon dishonesty and invites perjury among the less conscientious merchants.

Fifth. Because it exempts manufacturing plants and machinery from taxation, while the merchant is taxed.

Sixth. If a merchant wishes or seeks the privilege of incorporting his business, he is doubly taxed.

Seventh. Because it has been ascertained that favoritism is practiced, or at least has been heretofore.

Eighth. Mail orded houses from other states do an extensive business in our State, without paying one cent of tax. The merchant is everybody's servant, and this tax through the merchant affects every member of a community, more or less, and finally becomes a tax upon the consumer also.

There seems to be to much extravagance associated and connected with the collection of this mercantile tax. Exorbitant amounts are paid for printing or advertising, for collecting, for postage, and for other items, to such an extent that I do not beleive that any one would attempt to deny that the sum of $100,000 could not easily be saved,—either for the merchant, or for the State, every year, providing economy was strictly enforced, even made our present regime.

These useless evils including the maintenance of the mercantile appraiser's office, has become such common knowledge as to create a strong feeling throughout entire portions of our State against the paying of this tax.

In Dauphin County, for instance, the collector in fees and mileage receives annually from thirteen to fifteen hundred dollars for from two to three months' work. That would mean an average annual salary, if continued for a year, of not less than, from six to nine thousand dollars.

Then the County Treasurer gets twenty-five cents for each person, or at least from six to seven hundred dollars.

The printing of the lists which seems entirely useless,—in 1911, cost our county, the County of Dauphin, $2,095.02 while it cost the entire State the sum of $73,108.00.

Postage in 1911 in Dauphin County cost $177.10, while it cost the entire State $7,090.05—mileage for Dauphin County, for appraiser cost, $72.00.

The Same item cost the State $6,723.99.

Attorney's fees throughout State $8,030.

Clerk Hire cost the State	$20,783.00
Other expenses including fees of mercantile appraisers cost Pennsylvania	34,571.35
Cost in suits against delinquents (where State is loser)—cost us	5,269.83
The gross amount of mercantile tax and other licenses assessed in Pennsylvania, in 1911 was	$1,604,426.78
Uncollectible licenses and exonerations amounted to	$56,062.69
The total amount collected 1911 was	$1,547,464.09
Total cost of collection	172,784.61
Net Amount	$1,374,679.48

My opponents will doubtless say we cannot afford to repeal this law. I want to say that I believe this State can afford to repeal the mercantile law; and if not, we should surely use economy in the administering of public affairs as well as in private business.

In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask for nothing more than for a fair and impartial consideration of this bill, its merits and demerits, or in other words, I trust for a square deal, for the merchant's of our State. The repeal of the Mercantile Tax law would not as one might erroneously be led to believe, keep over one million dollars out of our State treasury annually, because much of this amount collected is not wholesale or retail mercantile.

The repeal of this law, would not exempt the other licenses such as billiards, pool, theatres, etc. It would simply destroy the present machinery or system of collection, and necessitate a new method to be introduced or inaugurated, which could easily be done.

This tax furthermore is unnecessary. Pennsylvania is without debt, and the abolition of this tax, which has been a bone of contention for years among our merchants, because of irregularities, impositions, and injustices practiced upon them, should be removed, in this the only really important State in our great Union where it still exists.

Pennsylvania is the richest and most solvent state in the Union; she had in her State Treasury at the end of the fiscal year, Nov. 20, 1911, over ten millions of dollars. Shall we then, as a rich, progressive, prosperous state, continue to inflict this unjust discriminate tax upon our merchants or shall we repeal this law? I trust gentlemen of the House that you will vote to encourage business in our State, by supporting this bill to repeal the Mercantile law.

Remember the eyes of 500,000 merchants are upon us, who expect us to give them justice.

Mr. WASSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise here at the request of the business men in my community to endorse every word that the gentlemen from Dauphin has said. I am not going to detain this House to-night with a long speech but I do want to call your attention to one or two features of this tax. To start with, it is a direct and personal tax levied upon the citizens and the consumers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by one law board or by two or three individuals without their consent. Who pays it? When my friend from Delaware (Mr. R. J. Baldwin) was making his earnest and eloquent speech the other night, I asked him, "who pays the mercantile tax in your business in Delaware County?" He said, "Eventually, it comes off the consumer." Now, how is the great State of Pennsylvania, this dignified Commonwealth, going to repay the tax that is paid by whom? Not by the merchants, not by the business men, but it starts with the bootblack; with the newsboy; with the washerwoman; and with every individual that purchases and consumes goods of any kind and every kind that is sold in this Commonwealth. I say we cannot afford to do that, to put a direct tax on the consumers and I defy any man in this House to refute that eventually that tax is paid by nobody except the consumer. I say it is a direct tax and I tell you that it is a direct tax on the consumer.

It does not tax the people who have burdens to carry but it puts a burden on the very class of people here whom we are talking about and not protecting and caring for, in the interest of whom we have long lists of bills introduced in order to legislate in every conceivable way and now to allow a mercantile tax to be paid by them is putting a tax where it should not be placed. Now, if you wish to place this tax upon the consumer, vote in favor of this bill. I think we ought to protect those people and that we are acting demagogic to some extent, let us protect them in an honest and straightforward and just way.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, This Legislature could do no one thing that would popularize itself with the property owners of the State as much as to relieve them from all tax obligations. But with the machinery of our State and local governments to be kept in motion, and being without mints for coining money as it is needed, and the great and wonderfully valuable natural resources once owned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania having been disposed of without making provisions for future revenue from them for the State, we must continue to derive our revenue with which to meet the expenses of our governments from the various forms of taxation.

The tendency of the times is to add to rather than to take from the list of taxable property that the burdens of taxation may be equalized, and to that end the bill introduced by the gentleman from McKean has been offered.

To pass this bill means a reduction of practically $1,200,000 or 4 per cent. of our annual revenues. With the demands that are being made for new and increased appropriations for the common schools and other educational institutions; for hospitals and other charitable institutions; for good roads and the health of the people; for pensions for the soldier and other purposes, together with a possible reduction in the revenues of $1,000,000 as a result of increasing the amount of the personal property tax to be turned over to the counties from 75 per cent. to 95 per cent., can we under such conditions with safety pass this bill? I think not, unless the members who are asking for liberal and in many instances increased appropriations for their districts are willing to have them reduced to a figure that will bring their total within the reduced revenues of the State suggested by this bill.

We hear more or less of the injustice of the mercantile tax. To my mind it is as just a tax as are many others that are levied against property in Pennsylvania. The farmer pays an average cash tax of from $20 to $25 on each $1,000 of his assessed valuation and the owner of city and village property pays as high a rate on his real estate holdings, a much higher rate than the merchant pays on his stock of goods under the present mercantile tax law which in many cases is the only property tax paid by the merchant.

It is true the cost of collecting the mercantile tax is unreasonably high, but this expense can easily be eliminated without the loss of this tax as a revenue to the State. Pass the bill introduced by my colleague from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, to do away with the advertising expense and further amend the law under which this tax is levied to do away with the appraiser and place the duty of making the appraisement on the local assessor, his return to be on file in the office of the County Commissioners the same as is his assessment of other property. In this way you will overcome the objectionable feature of the mercantile tax as at present, the cost of collection, without removing it from the list of revenue producers.

At the time this bill was placed on the calendar the gentleman from Indiana remarked, and has just repeated, that the mercantile tax was paid by the consumer in the purchase of goods and consequently was a burden to him. If his position in this respect is correct then we must admit that the farmer and manufacturer must add to the price of what they produce; the coal operator to the coal he mines and the railroad company to its carrying charges because of the taxes they pay, and if you vote for this measure with the thought of lowering the cost of living to the consumer, then to be consistent should not a bill be introduced and passed to remove the different forms of liquor licenses that the price of the goods dealt in by the liquor dealer may be reduced to the consumer?

No Mr. Speaker, we should not begin reducing our revenues until we have before us a balance sheet prepared by the Auditor General showing the probable income under existing laws for the next two years, for until we are in possession of such information we are not in a position to act intelligently on matters looking to a reduction of our revenues a million and a quarter dollars in a single bill. If it is your verdict that this reduction be made then as I previously said the appropriations must be cut accordingly, unless our revenues are increased from other sources. In what direction can we turn for a new source of revenue? I would suggest to the members favoring the repeal of the mercantile tax law that a tax on manufacturing corporations and an increase in the amount of the liquor licenses under the Brooks law would be revenue producers worthy of their consideration.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker may I interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Williams, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, with pleasure.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, how does the farmer in any way recover the share of the mercantile tax that he indirectly pays in the purchase of commodities and merchandise?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I don't understand the gentleman's question. It is too indefinite.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, allow me to illustrate a little. How would he resort in any way to get back his share of that personal tax?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I repeat in reply to the gentleman from Indiana, that if his suggestion to the effect that the consumer pays the mercantile tax is correct, then he must admit that the farmer the manufacturer and the mine-owner must add to their products and the railroad company must add to its transportation charges to the taxes they pay.

Mr. NEELY. Mr. Speaker, these merchants and manufacturers are for the repeal of the law. I have here resolutions passed by fifty-two different Boards of Trades and Trade organizations; representatives of the hardware trade, of the produce merchants, drug merchants, shoe merchants, builders supplies, drug stores and many others. I also say that the merchants are against this tax because it is levied only on certain classes of merchants. Take the druggist; he does not pay anything on his soda water or on his prescriptions or anything of that sort but only pays on what proprietary medicines he sells and on toilet articles and newspapers and small things which he does not manufacture on his premises.

Milliners pay no tax under this law. They manufacture the hats and bonnets and therefore don't come within the scope of this law. There are many other reasons against this law which I desire to refer to and I have here in the form of a brief some matter which I desire to submit:

The mercantile license tax is the most unjust, inequitable and unpopular tax now laid in Pennsylvania.

First—It is unjust for the following reasons:

(a) This tax is inflicted upon the merchants as a class, and thus becomes class legislation directed against a certain class of business men, large or small, in the State; the manufacturer, the architect, the engineer, the general contractor, the sub-contractor, the doctor, the layer, etc, are not taxed for the business they do in this State.

(b) Under the law, the gross receipts of a business are taxed, regardless of the profits, which makes this tax very unfair, as some do a large business on a very small margin of profit, much to the benefit of the community.

(c) The merchant is taxed for the gross business transacted, including outstanding accounts, regardless of whether his outstanding accounts are paid or not.

(d) This tax is unjust because it is levied on an intangible base, the information for which must be furnished by the taxpayer. This information is subject to all the varying shades of judgment, and moral rectitude as to what should be included and the amount to be named. Such taxes are invariably unpopular, unsatisfactory and subject to infinite difficulties of collection.

(e) The ultimate tendency of this system of taxation is to drive business out of the State. A man should not be fined, as he is under this tax, for engaging in business.

(f) A very large percentage of this tax is collected from the small dealers, whose business provides a scant substinence for the storekeeper and his family.

(g) All merchants pay taxes, either as owners of the property they occupy or in the form of rent, and the mercantile tax is an additional burden, which is fixed upon them exclusively as a class.

Second—This tax is inequitable because:

(a) The retail merchant pays double the tax that is paid by the wholesaler, and it is estimated that the retail merchant pay three-fourths of the whole amount of taxes collected

(b) It falls heaviest upon the merchant whose business is smallest because his income is the least, and the minimum charge is often a great hardship upon the poor merchants.

(c) The self-assessment feature is acknowledged to be a wrong system of taxation.

(d) It is a tax upon honesty, since the man most honorable bears the heaviest burden, and the system produces perjury and dishonesty among the less conscientious merchants, thereby placing the honest merchant at a disadvantage.

(e) The exemption of manufacturing plants and machinery from taxation has been a potent factor in making Pennsylvania the greatest manufacturing State in the Union, and the fact that the opposite policy is adopted in regard to the business men shows the inconsistency of the laying of this tax. In the collection of the tax it is often impossible to discriminate between manufactured articles, such as prescriptions, millinery, dresses, etc., and what is called merchandise.

(f) If the merchant seeks the privilege of incorporating his business, he is thus doubly taxed.

Third—It is a most unpopular tax because:

(a) The merchant is everybody's servant, and this tax, through the merchant, affects every member of the community and is finally a tax upon the consumer.

(b) The high expense of collection, including the maintenance of the mercantile apraiser's office and the useless advertising of the lists, has become such common knowledge as to create a strong feeling throughtout the entire community against the paying of this tax.

(c) None of our neighboring States has the mercantile tax, and this knowledge creates dissatisfaction in the minds of our merchants. Only seven States in the Union have this tax—one eastern State, Delaware; one central State, Kentucky, and five of the smaller western States: and no important State except Pennsylvania has a law of this kind on its statute books.

In conclusion, this tax is unnecessary. Pennsylvania it without debt, and the abolition of this tax will not in any way interfere with the business of the State, nor cripple the State treasury to any extent. There was in the State treasury at the end of the fiscal year, November 30th, 1911, a surprise of about $10,000,000, and Pennsylvania, as the richest and most solvent State in the Union, should not inflict this unjust discriminative tax upon its merchants.

Mr. DOWN. I do not want to make a speech in favor of repealing any revenue producing law, but when the backers of this bill almost unanimously ask for consideration, I think it is only fair that their appeal should be listened to. I do not think the best interests of the State of Pennsylvania are so strenuously objecting to this tax as they do object to it because it is an unfair, an unjust, or rather a discriminating tax. It is discriminating in that it practically is an income tax on the merchant. The merchant is not only asked to pay a tax or amount of money on that stock of goods on his shelves, but he is asked to pay a tax on his industry and energy in turning over that stock four or five times a year. He is asked to pay this tax on the amount of business he does in a year, which as I take it is practically paying a tax on his income. There are a good many other businesses and professions which have practically as much invested in their equipment, such as a physician in his medicines and instruments, and the lawyer in his law library, et cetera, on which they do not pay one cent of tax. It is true that he pays an occupation tax, but so does the merchant. The merchant is assessed on the basis of $250, the same as the doctor, the lawyer or any other professional men. Besides that, he pays a tax on the amount of business that he does. I do not think that the merchants of this Commonwealth would object to pay the tax if it were levied on the amount that he had invested, if there were a tax also levied on other professions and other businesses in the State.

Another thing is that the merchant has to come into competition with a great many of the catalogue houses. These catalogue houses do not pay one cent into our State Treasury, and, according to a statement made by one of the gentlemen here, in many of the states they have no mercantile tax. They might pay but a small amount, but yet that is not the question. In my mind it is a question of the justice of this tax, and I think there are better means by which we can raise revenue. I realize that revenue is necessary, but I do not advocate a law along that line. I would suggest that we tax the natural resources of this state, such as coal, oil, gas and lumber interests. They are the ones that are deriving a revenue from the natural resources of the State, and I, in preference would rather put the tax on them than on the merchant. I am not opposed to a tax on the amount of money that the merchant has invested in his business, I am opposed to a tax on the amount of business that he does.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, the mercantile tax that we are talking about is a sham, a farce and a humbug. It is unjust and discriminatory. It is a tax upon industry and effort. It is a tax upon ignorance and honesty. It lowers the moral tone of business life. It rests upon the principle of self-assessment, which is fundamentally wrong. It puts the tax on the shoulders of the persons less able to bear it—the consumer. To get rid of it, gentlemen, vote "aye" on this bill and you won't be bothered with it.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, just a word with reference to this proposed bill. We take away from the State revenues, if it be enacted into law, at one step, $1,600,000. This is a very considerable amount of money. This tax has been enforced upon the theory that it is a very equitable kind of taxation. The Joint Tax Commission appointed by this General Assembly reported that real estate had about reached its limit for taxation, and I think that is agreed upon by all parties. The declaration by the State Grange made before the Ways and Means Committee just the other day was to the effect that the average real estate tax in this state is about sixteen and three-quarter mills. Now, a man is taxed on his land, whether or not it is productive. A man owning a farm worth $3,000 would have to pay a tax on that $3,000. A man only pays a mercantile tax upon the amount of business done. The talk about considerable costs only results where a person who has had adequate time for the payment of the mercantile tax refuses to pay it. Of course it then becomes a burden on the poor woman who has been assessed one dollar on the one thousand dollars worth business done in a year. Then the constable goes into her store and makes an assessment and in addition to the one dollar she must then pay three dollars and fifty cents, but if she would have gone to the Mercantile Tax Collector's Office when she received notice, she would have had to pay but one dollar under this tax regulation. Now, I think that before you should take off this tax which results in this State's giving up $1,600,000 a year and which if properly handled would bring in between four and five million dollars, you should hestitate. You should consider on the one hand the taxation of sixteen and three-quarter mills that is put on real estate and the one mill tax that is only put on productive business. I say, gentlemen, in view of those facts, the conclusion must be irresistible that we cannot abrogate this measure.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I had thought that I would not say anything more about this bill, but I think the best argument for defeating this bill has been made by the sponsors of it. They have told you that this tax falls upon the consumer. My friend from Indiana says that that was what he understood me to say some few days ago when we discussed the question. The gentleman was misinformed. I do not think that I said that. I did say that the question of where the tax falls cannot be fixed to any certainty. You cannot reduce it to a science. I understand that perhaps some of this tax may come off the consumer. I don't believe it does myself. I am frank to say that I do not know. I think the merchant pays it, because I do not see how any merchant in figuring out the profits of his business will take into consideration one-tenth of one cent. I do not think that a practical business man takes into consideration, when he is marking the price on his product, after it arrives in his store, bought from some producer or from some wholesale house, the question of one-tenth of one per cent. Now, if he does not, then the merchant pays the tax. He pays the tax, I think, because if we consider the tax laws of this State, he is one of the most lightly taxed citizens that we have. And, if that be true and I am correct, then certainly we will not vote to repeal the bill. Strange to say, those who come here and ask for the repeal of this tax do not give any actual data upon which to form an opinion. They come here with declarations and statements not backed up by facts, but expect you, when they themselves have not examined the subject, to vote the way they advise. They advise you without a knowledge of what they are talking about. I will venture to say that there is not one of them that can rise and answer this question, and I make this interrogatory to all those who spoke in favor of this bill. "Approximately what amount of property is there involved in this taxation question?" Now, any member that is opposed to this bill ought certainly to answer that question or else they ought not to discuss the question. I will answer it for you, from a personal experience. I know from experience that a country store carrying an average stock of six thousand dollars, and that means that I have six thousand dollars worth of property, and that six thousand dollars is invested in goods, wares and merchandise. My farmer neighbor has his six thousand dollars invested in horses and cattle. We all pay alike on our real estate, understand. Now, there is not a farmer in this State, I don't believe, that pays less than ten mills on six thousand dollars. Now, I know from experience that on six thousand dollars he ought to do twenty thousand dollars worth of business and this means that a man pays twenty dollars tax and that means three mills on six thousand dollars invested, and I am frank to say that so far as I have investigated the question—and I have asked a great many merchants the amount of stock they carry and the amount of mercantile tax they pay—they have never in a single instance shown me that they pay more than four mills on their property. I have not talked to a single merchant in my county that when I explained to him this taxation proposition that he has not frankly admitted that he was entirely willing to pay the tax and that it was a proper one and that instead of being taxed more than his share, he was rather under-taxed as compared to other people in various other businesses. Now, it is an uncontrovertible fact, and if it is a fact, why should you repeal that tax? To my mind it is almost silly to listen to the man who says, "I am in favor of this proposition to relieve the people of taxation because they want me to." Now, it is certainly silly to an intelligent man. There is no citizen in this great Commonwealth who pays tax on his vocation, his profession or his calling, that would not like to escape taxation, and yet there is not one intelligent man but knows that we cannot have organized government if we do not have taxation, and there is no intelligent, fair-minded man that asks to be relieved from his just share of the burden of government when he understands the proposition. And if the proposition is as I stated, and I don't believe it can be controverted successfully by any of those who take an opposite position, if I am correct, then this proposition to repeal taxation is absolutely a mistake. They rather should come here with a little increase. Now, I will admit that we do not tax merchants exactly in the same manner that we tax the farmer, nor do we tax the real estate man the same as we tax the farmer; nor do we tax either the carrying or transmission corporations in this State the same as we tax the farmer; nor do we tax any of them even alike. We do not tax a banking concern, nor do we tax a trust company alike. In the wisdom of those men who have stated this proposition, though I beleive they have always honestly tried to tax them justly, I think each should bear his own just share of the burden of government. This has not always been accomplished. Certain inequalities exist, and certain unfair conditions exist in all of our taxation problems, notwithstanding the fact that all the governments of the world have been struggling since the formation of government to make them equal.

You all know very well, perhaps, and better than I that we tax railroad corporations of this state four mills on their bonded indebtedness. We tax them five mills on their capital stock valuation, and we tax them eight mills on their gross receipts. I will not go deeply into this question of taxation, but I know and I feel certain that in the ten years experience that I have had on the Ways and Means Committee, hearing all of these various tax propositions, that I have naturally gotten a great deal of information, and I am thoroughly convinced in my mind. It is against my personal interests to oppose the repealing of this tax. As I told you, all of my sons and sons-in-law are engaged in the mercantile business. I was in it thirty years myself. I know just exactly what it means. I had an idea that because I was taxed in a different manner from my neighbor, the farmer, that I was suffering an unjust taxation, but when I found that it was simply believed in the wisdom of the Legislature that this was the best way to lay the tax, I was entirely satisfied; and I have always believed that I did not pay my just share in proportion to my neighbor, and those engaged in various other businesses. Now, if my friends who want this repeal feel that the method is wrong, why didn't they come here with a sister bill and show us a better method, if they think it necessary to ask this House—this House is not going to relieve those enormously wealthy wholesale and retail business concerns where they have their millions piled away on their shelves entirely free from taxation. Repeal this bill and you do it. This House will not do that. You have more wisdom than that. I think you ought to answer back to those who ask you to repeal this bill that if they will bring a proposition that looks to us fairer and more equitable, then we will repeal this bill, and pass the other. But they don't come here.

They only talk about the other bill. Let them produce it, then we will consider the proposition, but at the present time, considering the demands made upon the State from every source, do not take the tax off of these people who are amply able to pay. When they understand it they will not complain. The bill should not pass.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. With pleasure, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, he says here something about these men being in the mercantile business all these years. I do not want to inquire into his business, but I presume that he buys from the wholesale houses in the City of Philadelphia or elsewhere. Now if he can tell me the amount of mercantile tax that the wholesale houses in the City of Philadelphia or elsewhere pays, I will be very much obliged to him?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the tax that the gentleman proposes to repeal, strange to say, he knows nothing about; but I don't object to informing him that the tax on the wholesale merchant is one-half mill on the dollar.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I understand that, but how much does Young, Smithfield & Co. pay on their entire stock of goods. What is the sum total of money that they pay? Do you catch that?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I suppose when I answer that question, then he will keep on asking questions until I will be able to answer this House the individual business tax paid by the entire business houses of the State of Pennsylvania. If I understand the question it is, "Can I tell what mercantne tax Young, Smithfield & Company pay? Of course, I cannot answer that question. Why no, I did not examine Young, Smithfield & Company's records. I wouldn't pry into their private business.

Mr. WATSON. I would like him to inform me if he can.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have no idea the amount of stock they carry or business they do.

Mr. WATSON. Do you know that of any of the wholesale houses you deal with?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I have never inquired into their private business.

Mr. WATSON. Do you know whether they charge that tax off on their books toward the country merchant, or do they add that as a part of the first cost or cost of their goods?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am thoroughly satisfied that any answer I may make to that question would be of no avail. If the gentleman wanted the information he could apply to Young, Smithfield & Company and give the House the benefit of the absolute facts.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman paid part of it, did your customers pay part of it back to you?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I am not dealing with Young, Smithfield & Company.

Mr. WATSON. The gentleman is a great evader.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I merely want to answer the question. He asked me what I did with Young, Smithfield & Company. I didn't deal with them.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to tell how much the City of Philadelphia pays in mercantile taxes, if he can?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. No. Does the gentleman from Indiana know how much Philadelphia pays?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know then in the end if they charge it to the goods sold to the consumers?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will answer the gentleman this question, since he wants to go into it. By way of illustration: Two farmers living each ten miles from the City and one comes in over a toll road and the other over a dirt road. They stand side by side in the market and sell equally good butter for the same price, who pays the toll? I will let the gentleman answer the question.

Mr. WATSON. The man that eats the butter.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the years and nays were taken.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered. That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 519, entitled:

An Act authorizing the establishment and maintenance of teachers' training schools in certain school districts and extending certain privileges to the certain graduates therefrom

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, we passed a similar bill just a few minutes ago. I do not have any objection to training schools. I like to see all the schools we can possibly have in the State of Pennsylvania, but I think these bills are unfair to the training that teachers get in our State normal schools and unfair to the country boys and girls that do not have these same schools. I do not object in the least that the certificate issued under the bill should apply to teachers in the very districts or in the cities in which they have the training schools. But to give them the general privilege to teach all over the State in competition with the normal graduates and the country boys and country girls who have to pass under the eye of the superintendent to get a provisional certificate, I think these bills are unfair under those circumstances, and therefore that is the reason that I am opposed to them. I have seen the letters of various county superintendents and they seem to be very diffident. All these school men seem to be very backward and modest to express their opinion on paper, but I have seen several in which they are strongly opposed to these bills. They say in the examinations they have had for provisional certificates that some of these scholars that are trained in these cities in the schools are not fit to teach in the public schools, because they have had no training in pedagogics and so on and are untrained in that branch. I have no objection to training schools in the cities and if they want teachers that they train themselves I think they ought to have them, but I do not think they ought to have the general privilege of teaching all over the State in competition with the graduates of the State normal schools and the country boys and girls.

Mr. McNICHOLS. Mr. President, in explanation of Senate Bill No. 519, that bill is drawn to correct an evil that we have in Scranton existing under the code. Under the code Scranton is prevented from the training of training schools. Prior to the code we trained our own city teachers and we believe that we should have the right to train them now, in fact we can train teachers for the use of the city schools of Scranton much better than the normal schools can. The bills as drawn limit the privilege to a population of twenty thousand school children, to districts of a school population of twenty thousand or over. It was drawn specially for the needs of the City of Scranton and I presume the City of Pittsburgh, but under the charter Pittsburgh has the right to maintain its city training school and Scranton, being in the second class, is prohibited. We are trying to correct that error.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I may be under a misapprehension myself. Will the Senator from Lackawanna allow himself to be interrogated?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Leckawanna, Mr. McNichols, allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOLS. Mr. President, Certainly.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, does it only mean that teachers may teach in the district of Scranton or would it give them a general privilege to teach all over the State?

Mr. McNICHOLS. Mr. President, not at all, it gives them the right, as it did before the code, that they are examined under the conditions prescribed by the State Board of Education and are given diplomas to teach in any part of Pennsylvania.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, that is the only feature that I object to. I would like to see Scranton have the chance to get its own teachers.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House bill No. 504, as follows:

An Act fixing the duties and liabilities of employers of aliens with respect to the assessment and collection of taxes against such aliens and providing penalties for the violation thereof

Whereas Aliens residing within the State are liable to taxation equally with citizens and

Whereas The act of June seven one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven prescribes a method of collecting taxes from aliens and the act of March thirty one thousand nine hundred and eleven makes an unnaturalized foreign born resident subject to taxation in the same manner as citizens of this Comonwealth and

Whereas Said act of June seven one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven requiring employers of aliens to deduct from their wages when notified by the tax collector the taxes assessed against such alien employes is not practically effective for the reason that the collector is required to furnish the names of such taxables and often neither the collector nor the assessor is able to thus designate such alien or aliens therefor

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act all corporations associations companies firms or individuals employing persons who are not citizens of the United States shall immediately upon the employment of such person obtain the name age and place of residence or intended residence of each of them and on or before the first day of October of each year furnish under oath to the assessor or assessors of the districts in which said aliens reside a full and complete list of the same

Section 2 The proper authorities of any county borough township or school district or other authority for the levying of any tax may upon the levy of any tax serve written notice upon any such employer of aliens such notice containing the names of such aliens and the tax assessed against each and such employer is hereby authorized to deduct such taxes from the wages of such employes In all cases where such notice shall be duly served the employer shall be liable to such tax levying authority for the taxes assessed against each and every one of the employes mentioned in said notice who shall at the time of the service of said notice and for fifteen (15) days thereafter be in the employ of such employer

Section 3 All such employers of aliens upon notice and certificate from the county treasurer or any collector of county State borough or township taxes are hereby required to deduct from the wages or earnings of each alien named in such notice the taxes thus certified and pay the same to such treasurer or collector within thirty (30) days after the service of such notice and certificate Provided however that at the time of the levy of such tax the tax-levying authority shall have mailed to each of said taxables a notice setting forth the fact of the levy of such tax the amount of same where payable and that the same is liable to be deducted from his wages

Section 4 Any corporation association company firm or individual failing to furnish the list of names or to deduct any pay over taxes as required by this act shall forfeit and pay double the amount of the tax for each and every taxable whose name is not returned as above required or whose taxes are not withheld and paid over as herein directed to be recovered by action of assumpsit as debts of like amount recoverable at the suit of the county borough township school district or other tax-levying authority to which such taxes are payable

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read as follows:

Amend section one, line seven, strike out the word "person" and insert in lieu thereof the word "persons"

Also amend section four, line three, by striking out the word "any" and inserting in lieu thereof "and";

Also amend by striking out the word "taxes" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "any tax"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimons consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hear none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to call up House Bill No. 3,

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 3, entitled:

An Act providing for the return to the various counties of the State of a part of personal property tax levied and collected by existing laws

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker., I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend title, last line after "laws" insert "and abolishing certain claims."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 221, entitled:

An Act fixing the salary of registers of wills in counties within which are or may be located any cities of the first class and providing for the payment of fees or commissions earned by said officers into the county treasury

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that a salary of $10,000 shall be paid to the Register of Wills in counties containing cities of the first class. The purpose of this bill is in the directon of economy. Under our present law the Register of Wills receives from the county $5,000; he also receives out of the amount of collateral inheritance tax collected a certain commission that averages about $30,000. I have a list of the receipts by the Register of Wills since 1908, and the highest year he received $33,000, the lowest year he received $22,000, the average being very close to $30,000. That makes the office of the Register of Wills of Philadelphia County average about $35,000 a year. In addition to the commissions and salary received, the Register receives out of the gross amount of collateral inheritance tax paid a considerable sum for the expenses of his office, about seven or eight hundred dollars a month and about nine hundred to one thousand dollars a month for attorneys' fees.

I spoke to the present Register of Wills, myself, and asked him his opinion as to the reasonableness of the salary fixed in this bill and he told me very emphatically that he considered $10,000 a reasonable compensation for the services performed by the Register of Wills in Philadelphia County; and he said he hoped the House would pass this bill.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—1.

Kuhns, E.G.M.,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative. the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered. That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. The Speaker, I desire to call up from page 9, of to-day's Calendar, House Bill No. 679, File Folio 619, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 679, entitled:

An Act to provide for the appointment of registrars of electors to be deputy poll tax collectors in cities of the first class of this Commonwealth a method of collecting such taxes penalties for violation of its provisions and to repeal acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this is one of three bills pertaining to the registration of voters in cities of the first class. The particular bill that is now called up provdes that one of the registrars will have the right to act as deputy poll tax collector. The gentlemen from Philadelphia know, and many of you gentlemen of the House know, that in Philadelphia, we have a deputy tax collector appointed under the Act of Assembly in proportion to the number of common councilmen in each one of the wards; but, under a recent decision, Judge Sulzberger of No. 2 Court found that the tax receipts could not be procured for the voters, because they must be procured direct by the voters. The obtaining of tax receipts by proxy or power of attorney has been declared to make registration illegal. This provides that the registrar will have the power of seling the tax receipt at the same time that the voters present themsleves to be registered. This, together with the other bills which are on the postponed Calendar, 678 and 680, will provide that the assessor of the division be abolished; the registrar will act as deputy poll tax collector, he will act as assessor for the purpose of making out the list of taxables, and then the other bill that accompanies this bill will make that list of taxables the list from which the jurors will be drawn. That will save the City of Philadelphia some hudnred thousand dollars a year. Now, I understand that these three bills have been sanctioned by all the political leaders, for it is a matter that all parties seek to have remedied. I also understand that the cities of the second class want to come in under this proposed legislation. Now, if the gentlemen will vote for this bill, it will then go to the Senate, and if the gentlemen of the cities of the second class desire to have an amendment, that amendment can be entered in the Senate and then the bill will come back here for us to agree in the amendments.

Mr. S. J. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. S. B. PERRY. Mr. Speaker I would like to know under this act if that does not make the registrar a dual office holder?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker I take it that it does not make a dual office holder. It merely gives the office holder an extra duty. There is no additional compensation.

Mr. S. J. PERRY. Mr. Speaker, there is ten cents for the receipt there.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call up from page 8 of today's Calendar, Bills on Third Reading Postponed for the Present, House Bill No. 184, File Folio 101.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideraton of H. R. Bill No. 184, entitled:

An Act providing that the appraisers' lists of mercantile licenses shall not hereafter be published

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I want to say just a word as to this bill. One of the great faults found in the Mercantile Tax Law is that it costs so much for the collection. This bill, if enacted into a law, would do away with the advertising of the Mercantile Tax List, which is absolutely useless and would save in the cost of the collection from seventy-three to seventy-five thousand dollars annually, or about one-half of the cost of collecting the Mercantile tax.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WHITMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend section one, line five, by striking out the words "one million" and inserting "one hundred and fifty thousand."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objectian? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instruction of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 596, entitled:

An Act relative to contracts containing compulsory arbitration provisions entered into in advance of any controversy affecting the question of ultimate liability thereon and attempting to oust the jurisdiction of the courts

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this bill is a very doubtful measure. It is a very short bill and simply makes null and void any kind of contract that anybody may enter into for the purpose of arbitrating their disputes instead of going to court. There are a great many complicated contracts like building contracts where it is perfectly easy to realize in advance that any number of petty disputes will probably arise. When you read the long and technical specifications, this is apparent. I have seen specifications so long and not alone that but almost every word of those specifications was a word of technical and specific meaning—a meaning which is much better understood by the men in the trade than it would be possible to be understood by lawyers and a court and jury. It is the usual custom in these building contracts and technical contracts of a similar nature that in case a dispute arises as to the meaning of a term or the quality or nature or character of the dispute that such disputes shall be referred to a specially named arbitrator or arbitrators. If you name your arbitrator in advance you can get a dispute settled without going into court, but such an act would make that impossible. It would be an act to tie up forever a building contract and make the adjustment in this way of disputes impossible. As it is well known, it throws all the disputes and litigation into court and simply would help to clog and delay justice.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say a few words in behalf of this bill. For a long time. I was under a misunderstanding as to the nature of the bill, but after talking to the sponsor of it, Mr. Caldwell, I have received a better conception of its meaning. After trying to get a number of the members of the House to vote against the bill, I now feel inclined to believe that the bill should pass the House. My reasons, formerly, for trying to get the members of the Houes to vote against the bill was because I thought, with first sight, that it was going to be injurious to labor but after investigating and better understanding the bill I now ask the members of the House to vote in favor of this bill.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, at the request of Mr. Caldwell I have given this bill some consideration. It strikes me that it is a desirable piece of legislation. I don't propose to take any of the time of the House in going into the merits of the bill, but I want to call attention of the members to the fact that it does not provide against arbitration of disputes that have already arisen but it tries to prevent an arbitration agreement to arbitrate something that may come up after the contract is put into effect and does away with trial by jury. I think the members of the House can readily see that this is a piece of legislation that we ought to have. I don't think that people ought to sign their rights away as some of them do and later be denied the right of trial by jury. That is what this bill is trying to prevent. I think it ought to pass.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, this is the Uniform Primary Bill. This bill was prepared by the Republican Legislative Committee and Executive Committee in accordance with instructions of the Republican State Convention. It has been referred to this House and o the Committee on Elections and the bill as amended is in such form as is acceptable to the Committee and to all parties concerned and all political parties; by its provisions, taking care of such party rules as the different parties may provide so that the particular political machinery of those parties will be provided for in this act. I want to point out to you the main features of this bill in order that you may clearly understand what are really new, in the main points. It provides for what is in effect the direct election of United States Senators by providing for such candidates to become candidates at the primary; and furthermore candidates at the election; provides for the opportunity for all members of the Legislature to go upon record as to whether or not they will support the choice of the people of the State at the polls for the office of the United States Senator; to give the people of the State, the members of the different political parties, the opportunity to vote for the man whom they wish to have nominated by their political party for the office of President of the United States.

It therefore meets, so far as the United States Senatorship proposition is concerned, practically that which will be brought about by the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution for direction election of United States Senators. Of course, it follows, that if the specific required number of States ratify that proposed amendment, this requirement of the primary will not be needed; but until it is ratified this is an absolute necessity if you wish your direct election..

It includes within it the provisions of Bill No. 130, which passed this House, providing for voters assistance. These, in the main, are the provisions of this bill and I ask you as members of the House to give it your affirmative support.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that there has been a great deal of money spent and a great deal of labor placed upon our general election and primary election laws. I really think that the voice goes up throughout the length and breadth of this State, almost unanimously demanding a simple ballot. It is true there is a great deal of feeling over the question as to whether we should have a better method of expressing directly our wishes, or the people should have a better method or some method of expressing directly their wishes on the question of who shall be their candidate for President of the United States in the Presidential year and who shall be their choice for United States Senators at such times when they are candidates. Of course we differ as to whether the former method of giving our expression is better than the proposed new method, but over and above all of that, I think the burning question of the hour in the minds of the citizens of Pennsylvania and the great cry goes out, 'For gracious' sake give us a simple ballot, so that we may all know how we are voting!" It stands over and above the other proposition, however much you may believe in these other propositions. First give the people a simple method whereby they can express their opinions.

I had wanted to say—and confess that what I have to say may have but little weight on the passage of this bill—but I had earnestly hoped that the sponsor of this bill would give us more time to consider it. It is a voluminous bill, and I am sure that very few members of the House understand the provisions of the bill. I have spent, putting it together consecutively, from thirty-six to forty hours in the study of the bill, until I think I have a fair grasp of the subject matter. Many of the features in it are commendable, but the cumbersome condition that will result from this act will only aggravate instead of remedy the crying evil of the hour. But this is a cumbersome bill and gives us the most cumbersome ballot ever printed, and but a small per cent. of the voters will know how to vote, intelligently, and will be at the mercy of the politician. If you are going to give the people a more cumbersome ballot than what they have now and then restrict the assistance feature, are you not really going in the direction that the people don't want you to. If the people knew what you were doing here today, they would cry out against this bill. To my mind that is the first proposition that should be settled. Had I been a member of the Committee, I would have striven to have given the people a simple ballot first. Personally, I think we have gone the wrong way the last twenty years on the question of election laws. Instead of simplyfying them, we have made it more difficult for the people to understand the proposition and driven voters from the polls, thus making the so-called politician greater influence in party councils, and resulting in an awful waste of public money. The present primary law costs the State annually over $300,000. This bill will add another $100,000 annually. If the people only knew what you propose to do in this bill, they would cry out in just rage against such a cumbersome proposition and awful waste of public money. I must insist: Stop, look and listen! This is not progressivism and though I be the only member to oppose it, I know later on the people will know who threw them the husks.

Now, I will take up a few of the points I consider defects in it. I want to point them out to the House. I do not think the bill should pass in this form, for certain features in it, in my mind, do not clearly express what the intentions are and will not put the machinery in better shape, but are calculated to make it very uncertain.

For instance, we will begin with line 49 on page 6 of the bill, which reads thus:

"On or before the ninth Saturday preceding the fall primary the clerks or secretaries of the various cities, boroughs, townships and school districts shall respectively send to the county commissioners of their respective counties a written notice setting forth the names of all city, borough, township and school district offices for which candidates are to be nominated at the ensuing primary."

Now, there are no clerks in townships and there is no particular secretary. There is a secretary of the school board and a secretary of the township supervisors. Now, under that statute who is to furnish the information? There is no clerk in the township. It does not apply to him. There being two secretaries in the township, which does it apply to? The bill ought to be corrected in that feature. It is an important matter and we can take a little time to discuss it. I hate to take the time of the House, but there is no bill of more importance for your consideration if you agree in the main with the bill. I would have the bill amended, and I went to the sponsor and asked him this morning if he would not postpone the bill so that I could give it more study.

Now turn to page 1421 on line 57, the name of the officer who desires to be a candidate; he must say he is eligible for such office. A man may think he is eligible, but this act should provide, giving the age and how long a citizen of the State and then the question is answered.

Further on down, in line 60, the wording goes along—I mean lines 58 to 60:

"Any law regulating and limiting nominations and election expenses and prohibiting corrupt practices in connection therewith."

I would add to this: "And the name of the political party upon whose ticket he desires his name to be printed," which in my mind is very necessary.

Now, I will go to page 1427 and beginning at line 28 and reading on down to line 39—

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, as a suggestion to the gentleman from Delaware, I would ask that he give the House the information that he is reading from the original and not from the reprint of this bill. It is confusing to the members.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry that I cannot make the change at this time. When the amendment came in I did not get the reprint of the bill. I carried this bill home with me and gave it several hours study and have my data on it. I would like to appeal to the gentleman who is sponsor for this bill to postpone it one more day and let these amendments be prepared. It certainly is a bill which is of such importance that it should not be rushed through here. We certainly can afford to wait until tomorrow. I will agree to have it made a special order tomorrow or any other time. There are some features in this bill still in the reprint that I think should be changed. I am very sorry that I have to apologize to the House that I have not got the reprint, but I cannot change at this time to the reprint.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that the file number of the copy of the bill from which the gentleman is reading is 1409.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, in making this request for the postponement of this bill will the gentleman from Delaware state whether or not he opposes merely sections of this bill or whether he oposes the bill entirely, or whether he is merely using these arguments and specifying the various parts—whether he is merely using these various defects and claims as an indication of his opposition to the whole bill.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Why, Mr. Speaker, I do not think that I can answer whether I will support the bill until I see it finished, until I see what I am going to vote on. I do not think that I can be fairly asked for my expression of opinion until I see it in its final form. That question will come up when these changes are made, which I think are absolutely necessary. I think the sponsor of the bill will agree with me—and I do not think any member of the House will disagree with me—that these points are absolutely necessary to be explained and made clear. I do not know whether I will agree with the bill as a whole or not, and I do not think it is pertinent to ask that question at this time. If the features I have pointed out are corrected, they ought to stand on their own bottom.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, now the gentleman from Delaware is picking up little defects here and there, that are practically impossible to follow, as he is apparently reading from file folio 1409 and 1933.

Now, in the preparation of this bill careful thought was given to it by—

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman desires to make a speech, I object. I have the floor. I have not finished. If the gentleman desires to make some explanation in regard to the file folio, I would like to say to the House that for that purpose the Speaker has given notice that this bill is found on page 1409 of the Calendar, and according to what the gentleman from Philadelphia told me, the changes that I am speaking of exist in the present bill.

Now, if the members of the House or the member from Schuylkill desires to follow me, I wil begin over again, and he can turn to file folio 1409 and see whether I am correct and whether my suggestions are not worthy of consideration.

Mr. SPEAKER, for the benefit of the House I will call attention to the defects in the bill which I have in my hand, and those who desire to follow can turn to file folio 1409 and then turn to page 6 of this bill. You will find in line 50 the objections that I name.

It reads this way: "On or before the ninth Saturday preceding the Fall Primaries, the Clerks or Secretaries of the various cities, boroughs, townships and school-districts." There being no clerks in townships, and two different secretaries, I ask you gentlemen whether that should not be made so that there would be no misunderstanding. I do not believe there is a member of the House who will disagree with me in this, that this particular part ought to be amended. If you will turn to page 13, file folio 1421, in line 57, I put in an amendment after the word "office". Beginning in line 55 the bill reads, "the name of the office for which he desires to be a candidate, that he is eligible for such office." In all probability every man who is a candidate feels that he is eligible to the office for which he is a candidate. Now after all of the work is gone over, you discover that he is not eligible. In the first place, he may not have been in the State long enough, and may not have the qualifications of the office for which he is candidate. Every member of this House knows that there are certain qualifications necessary for the office of Senator, that he must be of a certain age. It is true that to be a candidate for a member of the House requires only the voting qualifications, to be of the age of twenty-one. Therefore, there should be inserted at that point the following; "giving the age and how long a citizen of the State." Is it not important that that change should come in there. Now coming on down and finishing up with line 60 beginning with line 58 it reads: "any law regulating and limiting nomination and election expenses and prohibiting corrupt practices in connection therewith." At that point I would add: "and the name of the political party upon whose ticket he desires his name to be printed." Isn't that essential? Shouldn't that be added? Going over to page 19, of the bill on file folio 1427, the language is this: "in case the petition to set aside a nomination petition is dismissed, the petitioner shall pay the whole of the costs of the proceedings, including all witness fees," and there it stops. I would add the following: "and no petition shall be considered until the petitioners have filed a bond of good and sufficient endorsement in the opinion of the Court for the payment of said costs." Isn't that a very important matter? There is no provision for these penalties at all and while I am not objecting to the penalties, this is incomplete and the bill should provide for them.

On page 22, beginning with line 22 you read this: "if a voter by reason of physical disability"———but perhaps there will be a dispute there and I will not take it up at this time. I have no doubt but in time some other features,—perhaps there my be none,—may apear that will be necessary to be considered and changed and corrected to carry out the idea of the bill and make the bill complete and effective in all details. I do think that the sponsor of this bill ought to give us time to amend these features. It will be for his own benefit if he is in favor of the bill and may remove objections that may appear in the bill because of the state that it is in.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, the remarks that have just been made by the gentleman from Delaware are not made with the frankness that remarks ought to be made by a person who on the floor of this House is representing the Republican administration. When he is interrogated as to his position on this bill, he gives to the members of this House no satisfactory reply. If the gentleman from Delaware is opposed to this legislation, he must appreciate his position here, and he ought to have the frankness to say that he opposes this legislation in its entirety. It is a mere subterfuge for him to point out various little defects which exist in every bit of legislation, and then use this as a means of attempting to defeat such important legislation as this or using it as a means of delay. The gentleman from Delaware is here representing the Republican Party as a party man. He has taken his position because of his seniority here in the House as a leader of the administration forces. For him to now attempt to voice against the bill which has been pledged to the people by the Republican Platform puts his party and himself and the administrations in a false light. This bill has been pledged to the people by the Republican Platform. Some of us forget that we are pledged in honor and some of us pledged in writing to the effect that we provide for the nomination by direct vote of all public officers and that we are pledged in honor and many of us pledged in writing to enable the people by direct vote to indicate their choice for United States Senator and make the result binding on the Members of the General Assembly That is all this bill does. This bill is the uniform Primary Act and in that act we give the people the right to bind this House in honor as to its selection of the United States Senator and we do away with the old convention system. For the gentleman who has been on the floor of this House for so many years to use these arguments for the purpose of defeating this bill without taking the manly stand of opposing it in its entirety, misleads us: Now, Mr. Speaker, I have been here this session and many other sessions and I have heard the gentleman from Delaware opposing legislation. I have heard him oppose legislation in the same manner. If he complains about this bill, or the sponsor of this bill or the committee who has prepared this bill then I ask him why he does not offer some better legislation. I have heard him stand on the floor of this House time and time again and complain about legislation, but I have yet in all my years of sessions to hear or see him advance any real legislation. If he has anything better, why doesn't he offer it to this House. If he complains because in boroughs or townships they have no clerks why didn't he go before the committee the same as the rest of us had to ,and voice his opinion or objections to the provision of the bill. I do not think that the gentleman from Delaware is overburdened with Committee work, nor do I think he is carrying around many chairmanships, nor do I see him working hard in the committee rooms when men are working at the midnight hour in our committees. Why could he not appear before the Election Committee and there bring to the attention of the sponsor of this bill the fact that there were no clerks in the township where he happens to be the political representative. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, do not let the arguments of the gentleman from Delaware deceiveyou. Do not let it deceive or mislead you in so important a piece of legislation. To vote down this bill means that we write ourselves out to the people as not keeping our pledges. If there are any defects in this legislation, we have the parlimentary means of correcting them. When the bill goes out of the House to the Senate the amendments can be offered there, and if the amendments are not satisfactory to the members of the House, we have still the third right under parlimentary proceedings of appointing a conference committee, with representatives from the House and representatives from the Senate, and we will then get there joint opinions of the amendments, which shall then be passed upon by the two Houses. This is probably the most important legislature within the years of our memories. Let us carry out our good work. Let us not be led away from the direct path. We are here entrusted with serving the people, and those of us who are Republicans are here entrusted to lead our party on to her place she so well deserves, to victory. We are pledged by the people to certain legislation. We are pledged in honor, and let us men of this House show to the people of the State of Pennsylvania, that we know how to keep the pledges of our party, and restore the party of Lincoln and the party of McKinley to power in this great nation.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, according to an ancient writer, it is always the goaded jade that winces. I have never seen it better exemplified than here today. Personally I thought we were discussing the Primary Election act? I have not changed my mind personally. There appears to be one member from the city of Philadelphia who has concluded that here today we are discussing one certain member from Delaware County. He may stoop just as low as he pleases and he may say what he pleases about the gentleman from Delaware County. He may interpret the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware and state them to this House as he pleases. There are some members in this House who can judge for themselves. They have been here for a number of years, and they are acquainted with both the member from Philadelphia and the member from Delaware. If I were to tell you new members of the House the story and history of this so-called party that he boasts of as being great,—I only know of two great parties, the Republican party and the Democratic party,—if I were to tell you the history and the names of all the men who tried to destroy the belief in this party in the minds of the people, I would not stay outside of the city of Philadelphia to name some of them. I would not lower myself, I would not lower myself to name individuals in this House, much less a member in it. Personally nearly all,—mark what I say, nearly all,—the members with whom I have come in contact in this House have my entire confidence, and I believe when they take the floor they express their honest sentiments. Now neither party introduced this bill, no party introduced that bill, and nobody signed an obligation, unless he be a foolish man, that he would support a piece of legislation unless he had seen that piece of legislation, and especially this identical bill. Why I am not afraid to admit to the House that I not only answered a letter sent out by the State Chairman stating my position that I stood for progressive legislation, but I want to inform the gentleman from Philadelphia that I always stood for Progressive Legislation, at least I thought I did. Why I do not believe any man is worthy to sit in the House, in this House, if he does not do that which he believes stands for progressiveism yet conservative progress, thoroughly understanding just where each step leads you. Our progressivism does not belong to the party that simply takes the name. It belongs to every political party that was ever formed in this country. At least they always professed to stand for it and believed they were so doing. Now if any member in this House thinks that because I have affiliated myself with some political party that that means that I am opposed to the wishes of the people, he is entitled to that opinion, but it is an extremely narrow one, it is worse than that, it is an extremely ignorant one, and worse than that, it is not true. He talks about taking a manly stand in this House.

There are some members of this House, and I don't refer to new members; but there are some I have served with in this House when many times I thought they were pulling off schemes instead of legislating for the State and I differed with them radically and whether I deserved it or not, it comes with very ill grace from that gentleman from Philadelphia, whose history is such as his, to question the gentleman from Delaware. I am asking for changes in that bill because I believe those changes are important. When it comes to the question of final passage, if the House disagrees with me whether they are necessary, then vote on the bill. At the present time, if you think they are very necessary, vote for it. Talk to me about trying to kill the bill by unfair methods—when the charge is made that I take my position for delay, you know that is not correct. I believe every member of this House will agree to making a special order of this bill and I want to say that in all really careful legislative bodies, important measures and the time for considering them, is named sometime prior to their going before the House so that all parties can be fully prepared and have time to investigate and be prepared for it and understand it. It is a wise thing to do. Whether it is a political thing to do, the gentleman from Philadelphia may differ with me but it is the wise thing to do. No man can deny that a vote on this bill with no more knowledge than this House has on it at this time, if they want it correct, they will agree with me that it ought to be put off at least until to-morrow and it is not unfair but it is the thing to do by every member of this House who desires that legislation shall go through in proper form as it effects litigation and misunderstanding that may follow and that is the reason why I ask to put it off until tomorrow. I am willing to make the test tomorrow on a square issue.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I didn't intend to make any reply to the gentleman who is opposing this bill, but his remarks were such that compell me to make some reply, part of which is germain to this bill. Mr. Speaker, when the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. R. J. Baldwin) uses vituperation and makes accussations against myself as the means of answering as the representative of his party and owing to his position I say that that vituperation is but a subterfuge.

He has been called upon to answer and hold here on the floor a position that justifies an answer whether he is for this legislation or whether he is opposed to it; whether he stands by the republican platform or whether he voices the republican platform. The position he holds on the floor of this House requires such answers.

His reply is music to the ears of many who have been my friends, in the past. His reply is but abuse of myself when he says that some of the gentlemen from Philadelphia, pointing insinuatingly towards myself, have led the Republican party to defeat—to the defeat that the party now occupies. He speaks the truth; it was the foolish, fool-hardy positions that many of us took, standing side by side with the gentleman from Delaware in the past sessions of this House, that helped to bring defeat to the Republican party—a defeat of 175,000 votes—and it is just the action of the gentleman from Delaware, in expressing his views today on the floor of this House, that will keep his party in defeat, and when he stands as he does, in his position of blindness and merely uses vituperation in answering what I consider an honest logical position upon legislation, he does not speake strongly for his party.

Gentlemen of the House, I don't purpose to answer him in kind. I have not attempted in voicing this legislation to speak of the gentleman from Delaware in an individual position. I addressed myself to the House referring to him not only in his capacity as a legislator but as one of the senior members of this House, being the leader of his party on the floor of this House, I say, Mr. Speaker, that he does not voice the sentiments of the Republican party when he dodges the real issue or when he attacks another member of the House and merely answers argument by mere vulgar vituperation.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will suggest to the gentleman that the term "vulgar vituperation" is scarcely a proper expression with reference to another member of the House.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think you are quite right, I, therefore, apologize to the House to the gentleman from Delaware and to the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is certain that the gentleman used the expression inadvertently.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Gentlemen, don't allow the position of the gentleman from Delaware or the position that I take change your view of the importance of the fact that this is part of the legislation that we of one party are pledged to pass in this House.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say a word in reply to the gentleman from Delaware. The members of the House will notice that there is inserted in section six to which he refers after the word Clerk the words "or secretary." The gentleman assumes to say that there is no such thing as a township clerk or secretary.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I say there are two secretaries in the township, therefore after the word Clerk either the "Secretary of the School Board" or "Secretary of the Commissioner" should be defined, and that is what I mean.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, the act of 1911 providing for the reorganization of Boards of Supervisors directs that they shall organize and elect a secretary and a treasurer. To verify this I refer you to page 943 of the Pamphlet Laws of 1911. The School Code also provides that the School Directors of every township shall organize by electing a secretary and it is not to be presumed that the secretary of the Board of Supervisors is in a better position to notify the Commissioners as to the vacancies in the School Board than the Secretary of the School Board. But this act expressly provides that the Secretary of both the township and the School Board shall render a report to the County Commissioners. I think that this is an imminently proper provision of this act. The gentleman from Delaware has also referred to the assistance feature of this bill. In the first place this question has been passed upon by this House and I believe that there is no reason why the House should reverse itself in the matter of the primary law, but I want to call the gentleman's attention to the fact that the assistance features of this primary law are not the underlying features of the primary law as it exists to-day with reference to assistance. You will remember that the features of the primary law, as it exists to-day, are much more drastic on the subject of assistance than the election law and we have what are known as amended election laws corresponding with the existing primary law and the provisions in this bill are only in keeping with the existing law.

Mr. SPEAKER. There are two purposes in this bill and outside of these two purposes, there is little of importance in the measure. The first is that this bill provides for a state-wide primary, and the second is that it provides as completely as possible, under our existing Constitution limitations, for a direct expression of public sentiment on the question of the election of United States Senators. Outside of that there is little new in this bill, and I want to say to the gentlemen of the other side of the House who have undertaken to represent that this bill is the product of the Republican legislative committee, that that legislative committee, if it were to study this bill to-day, would never recognize their child. The bill has been so amended in committee—it has been so altered from the product of that Legislative Committee that it would not be recognized by its original drafter. The bill as presented didn't provide any effective method for securing an expression of public sentiment on the question of the election of United States Senators but it provided a rule to support the candidate of its own party. While this bill provides that the candidate must either pledge himself or refuse to pledge himself if a candidate is elected by the people of the State at large and that is the great progressive feature of this bill; it embodies the Oregon Plan for the election of United States Senators. I want to say to you, Mr. Speaker, that this bill, as it comes to us today, is not the original bill that was presented by the Republican party of this State but it is the bill that was contended for by the Democratic Legislative Committee of this State and is the bill for which the Democratic party pledged itself in its last State platform, when it pledged itself for state-wide primaries and the Oregon system for the election of United States Senators. We welcome you to the support of these provisions of the Democratic State platform and we welcome the support of the gentlemen on the other side of the House. I hope that every member of this House that has fought for progressive election and primary laws and in favor of state-wide primaries and that all parties who stand committed to and who are in favor of the Oregon system of electing United States Senators, for which the Democratic party has contended for years, will join in an effort to secure and place this law upon our statute books.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened with a great deal of interest to the controversy between the two gentlemen on the other side of the House. It seems to me that it has developed into one of personalities only. Let us consider for a moment the matter before us. We have in this bill an act which commends itself to my support for two reasons, namely: Principles which have been laid down in the Democratic State platform—the election of the United States Senators and the nomination of State officers at the primaries. Unfortunately, this matter was placed in the hands of a committee which is partisan and which I must say, to my mind, did not represent the true wishes of the Democratic party in this instance. Do not misunderstand me; I propose to support this bill as it stands, provided we are offered nothing better to carry out its two main features, but I want the gentleman from Philadelphia to understand that the people will know that this is only another attempt to throw sand in their eyes, that this is simply representing a fight between factions of the Republican party and means to an ultimate end. I would ask him to tell this House what provision they have made against party rating under this act. We all know that it has been a crying shame and abuse, the way the Republicans of this State have rated the Democratic party in districts where that party was weak. What has been done to cure that defect in the present primary system? Nothing. What has been done to fix the qualifications of an elector to vote this primary ballot? What has been done to prevent a Republican from walking into a primary and asking for a Democratic ballot? Let me ask him that. I say that this is a fake piece of legislation. this bill being simply to force it down our throats, and I hope that no one will claim that the Democratic party is responsible for this bill.

MOTION TO POSTPONE.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present and that we fix 11 o'clock to-morrow morning as a special order for the bill.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I don't wish to prolong the discussion of this bill on this motion, but I ask the House to vote this motion down.

A division was called for, 50 voting in the affirmative and 101 in the negative, and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to be misunderstood by seconding the motion of the gentleman from Delaware. I am a Republican and I am heartily in favor of this measure. During the debate I have not heard one word expressed as to the merits of the point the gentleman from Delaware had raised. The discourse has been entirely on the bill, but not on the question that the gentleman had raised as to the corrections that should be made. The bill is of great importance to the State of Pennsylvania, and I believe and agree with the gentleman from Delaware that it should be perfected in every particular. The gentlman from Delaware has not said that he opposes this bill, he has simply asked to have the matter postponed until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning, for the purpose of correcting certain errors that have developed, and I believe that the gentleman is perfectly right, and I believe that every fair-minded man in this House should agree to the postponement until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker as this is the only opportunity that I shall have to express my sentiments in relation to this bill I desire to say that, while I shall vote for the bill, I do feel that this method of jamming legislation through the House is absolutely wrong, because I quite agree with the gentleman from Delaware that there are many features in this bill that are bad. The other day I was compelled, in relation to another measure which was an amendment to the statute by the same election committee, or committee on drafting legislation, to record my vote against it, and in order to save the House time filed my reasons for voting against this bill. This bill is defective in many particulars, and it is to my mnd an absolute reflection upon the intelligence of this House to put legislation in the form that this bill stands, and yet, in order to keep party pledges, and not only to keep party pledges but pledges which I stand under to my people and which I announced as my platform prior to the primaries of last spring, I shall vote for this bill, as bad as the bill is.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

The SPEAKER. For the sake of accuracy, this roll will be verified.

The roll was verified and was as follows, viz:

BILLS POSTPONED.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to postpone for the present, House Bill No. 401, file folio 1209, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section twenty-one of article three of the Constitution of Pennnsylvania

Also House Bill No. 404, file folio 1213, entitled:

An Act requiring employers to make report to the Bureau of Industrial Statistics of accidents to employees and prescribing a penalty for non-compliance therewith

Also House Bill 402, file folio 1215, entitled:

An Act regulating policies of insurance against liability arising under article two of the Workmen's Compensation Law of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen

Also House Bill 403, file folio 2209, entitled:

An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of Employers' Mutual Liability Insurance Association

Also House Bill 399, file folio 2571, entitled:

An Act refining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employee in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and regulating procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder on page 3 of to-day's Calendar, known as the "Compensation Act" and the accompanying acts.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the postponement of these bills.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, the reason for asking for this is because the next bill in order is the Hunter's License bill which will probably provoke considerable discussion and take the balance of the day.

There are amendments to the bills as named to be discussed by members of the Industrial Commission and others in regard to protecting the rights of first mortgagees and these bills may not be called up until next week.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, these are important bills and I suggest the gentleman fix a special order for the bills so that every member of the House will have notice and will be here to vote when they are called up.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I shall do so after the amendments have been made.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and the request of the gentleman from Philadelphia is granted and the bills will be placed on the postponed Calendar.

SENATE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid upon the table.

Section 25 This law shall take effect ninety (90) days after its final passage

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the bill which is now before the House for consideration is known as the cold storage bill. It is the result of the combined efforts of the members of the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation. There were before the Committee some four or five bills dealing with this subject matter. The present bill now up for consideration contains all of the better provisions of those bills. It is a regulating measure and not a prohibitory measure. It is one which the Committee has deemed to be fair to those engaged in the cold storage business and at the same time affords a protection to the public. It contains provisions which provide that cold storage plants shall be licensed and kept in a sanitary condition and also regulates the time in which food stuffs can remain in cold storage. The time limit as expressed in section 16 of this Act is the lowest possible limit that can be put upon the storage of foods so as not to work a hardship upon those engaged in the business and at the same time render it next to impossible for manipulators in the necessities of life to so control those food stuffs and manipulate the market and sell them at outrageous prices to the public It also provides a guarantee that these cold storage goods sold to the public shall be wholesome and the public shall have knowledge of the exact length of time which they remained in cold storage.

The Committee considered this Bill one of the most important bills which has come before this House for its consideration. Those of us in this Commonwealth who can afford to pay fancy prices in all seasons of the year for all food stuffs which we desire are not affected by this bill, but this bill does materially affect the poor man and the wage earner in this Commonwealth. This guarantees to him that he is getting what he is paying for and that he is getting it at a reasonable price; and will prevent in so far as it is possible to prevent in legislation of this kind, manipulation of the market by gamblers in the necessities of life, so that fair prices can be had in favor of those engaged in the business and a reasonable price demanded by the consumers of this Commonwealth for these necessities of life. I would ask every gentleman in this House to support this measure.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

May we never forget that the cause which we serve is Thy cause for the people are Thy care, and in working for the people we are working for Thee. May we do nothing this day to displease Thee and dishonor ourselves or to injure our fellows; and wherein we fail or come short through ignorance or weakness, may Thy Fatherly love bring us again into the right attitude before Thee, and Thine infinite mercy forgive us, and Thy divine love amend our fault and overrule it, to Thy glory. COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

Executive Chamber, March 19th, 1913.

To the House of Representatives,
Hon. George Alter,
Speaker:

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to my attitude in the Dual Office Resolution inquiry. This moves me to write you.

In my recent message to the House I indicated my entire willingness to communicate any and all information, not incompatible with the public interest in the possession of the Executive and the heads of the several executive departments or their subordinates, which the Legislature might request as useful in the discharge of its law-making functions and duties. I wish to reiterate this willingness and to express my desire and purpose at all times to cordially cooperate with the Assembly.

Duel office holding has long been in vogue in the Commonwealth. In my judgment, it makes for economy and efficiency in administration. Men better qualified can thus be obtained for a less expenditure by the State than if an appointee is restricted to the holding of a single office The Constitution recognizes duel office holding; e. g., the Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth and Attorney General are members of the Board of Pardons, and, as such members, receive a salary of $500.00 a year.

For many years, dual offices have likewise been held by certain subordinates in the several executive departments. These offices, with a few exceptions, and the salaries attached to them have from time to time been created and fixed by the Legislature itself. For this reason, and, as a matter of common knowledge, my feeling was that the House Committee, as evidenced by its subpoena, had knowledge of these duel offices, as well as of the appointees to the same and of their salaries.

With reference to the proposed inquiry by the House Committee as to the "duties" of such appointees, the resolution provided that "such committee shall have full power to administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books and papers, to issue all necessary processes and to exercise all the powers belonging to a committee of the House of Representatives. It will at once be recognized that, by reason of the wide scope of the proposed investigation, and the full power given to the Committee to inquire, not only as to the duties of these appointed, but to compel "the production of all books and reports" inquiries might be made and information demanded inadvertently or designedly of the several subordinate officers subpoenaed, the disclosure of which would be incompatible with the public interests. I am sure that the members of the House and the Committee will recognize the limitations which, as a matter of public policy, should be placed upon such inquiries and disclosures. Certain information can properly be given by the subordinates; certain other information should, just as properly, be withheld—I mean, of course, information as to the performance of duties in the scope of their employment, reflecting the exercise of executive discretion and concerning matters over which the Executive Department has, and should, exercise exclusive discretion and control. Many of the duties, for example, of my Secretary and of the Clerk of the Board of Pardons, who were subpoenaed, are of this confidential nature. This observation applies also to many of the books, papers and records in their custody and control.

I have said enough to again indicate and call your attention to the thought expressed in my message—that an unrestricted examination of these subordinates under subpoena would not be compatible with the public interests; and therefore I suggested in my message that, instead, a proper request or inquiry by the Legislature or its Committee concerning the subject-matter of the resolution and the information desired, should be addressed to the Governor. As I have said above, there seems to be some misunderstanding between the House and the Governor, and the impression seems to prevail among certain Members of the House that I have counseled defiance of its process. I repeat that this was furthest from my intention. At this time, when we are all interested and should co-operate in the enactment of much useful and highly desired legislation, there ought to be no unnecessary or unseemly wrangle or controversy between the House and the Executive over the subject-matter of this inquiry, which, as I now understand, it is proposed to confine within the proper limitations above referred to

If, therefore, with this purpose in view, the Committee will send me a communication, making a detailed inquiry as to the information desired, or will honor me with a visitation, I shall be very glad to give them, or procure for them, such information. And if the Committee should deem it proper or useful to supplement this information by direct inquiry, within the proper limitations referred to, of the subordinates in the several Executive departments, I shall request these persons to attend before your Committee.

Yours very truly,

JOHN K. TENER.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the report be received and a Committee appointed by this House to confer with the Governor as to its further action in the matter and the suggestions contained in this communication.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that such a motion is entirely out of order until the report of the Judiciary General Committee, which was instructed by the House to inform the House as to what its rights, duties, obligations and privileges are in the matter. If the gentleman from Philadelphia will withdraw his motion until that report is rendered, I think it will put a different phase upon the matter.

The SPEAKER. Perhaps that would be better.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, No, I will not withdraw my motion. I stand upon my motion. It is idle to waste so much time in this House when we have such important legislation—over 1,400 bills reposing in the committees of this House—to quibble over such a small matter as this. The Governor in his communication states frankly to every member of this House that he does not desire any discord nor does he throw defiance to the members of the House, but what he says is to the effect that if the committee will honor him with a visit, he will give all the information they may require. And he goes further than that and says if they are not satisfied with that visit, he will instruct his subordinates to obey the process of this House in a formal subpoena and compel them to appear before them. In other words, he is willing to do just exactly what this House demands—give them information in regard to dual office holding. Do not play peanut politics in this matter, my friends. Do not be narrow and so indiffernt to what we are requiring. We have been wasting too much time on this matter. We have a great deal of legislation and a great many other duties of importance to our constituents and to the people of the State of Pennsylvania, and I ask you and demand now, Mr. Speaker, a roll call upon my motion, that this committee appointed by the House, to investigate dual office holding honor the Chief Executive with a visit, and if they cannot agree, then under the process of subpoena he tells you in his message that he will compel his subordinates to appear before that committee. I press my motion, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern, be laid upon the table. I do that, Mr. Speaker, with a thorough apprehension of what it means, and with the feeling that in the present state of affairs it is the only right thing to do. We are building history this moment. There has been a perfectly clear and definite issue raised upon the record as to what the legal rights of a House subpoena, addressed to a subordinate in the Executive Department, are. That issue is as clear as day, and the House has instructed its committee to inform the House exactly what its rights are and how far it may go. There will be occasion after occasion in the subsequent history of this session and future sessions when it will be of the utmost moment that the House know whom it can subpoena and whom it cannot, and now when the House has appointed this committee, for instruction, and that committee has not had an opportunity to report to this House its carefully found opinion on that question, by a message from the Governor, which at best is a skillfully constructed evasion of the issue, it is proposed to act upon that before you have been informed of your rights and duties here. Now, all that I have moved is this: that this motion made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, which will prevent the issue from being determined —all that I ask is that such a motion be laid upon the table until we have been put in the possession of the legal counsel which you, yourselves, have requested, and your properly appointed committee is now ready to give you.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry to be compelled to take issue with my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Scott, but I cannot see any sound logic in making a scapegoat out of our Chief Executive, when he has come forward to the House of Representatives in a communication that is open in every particular, and willingly submitted his office and those under his authority for any information that that committee may want if they came to him. Now, the whole question of laying this matter over seems to be whether the House will thresh out the legal standing or legal meaning of the issuing of subpoenas and the compulsion of witnesses appearing before an investigating committee. That matter is not needed. We can go with the committee to the Governor and secure that information, and I hope that this House will stand with Mr. Shern's motion.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this motion now to lay the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern, on the table is not a disrespect to the Governor. In fact, the whole tendency of the proceedings of both the Judiciay General Committee and the sub-committee of the Judiciary General Committee has been to have the issue which has been raised by the Governor's communication to the House handled in a dignified manner, and dignifiedly submitted to the House. The Chairman of the Judiciary General Committee now awaits his opportunity to make the presentment—

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point.

Mr. SHERN. My point of order is that there is nothing germane to the subject except the laying upon the table of this motion, and I am not so sure, and I raise the further point of order, that this is not debatable—a motion to lay upon the table.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman on his last point of order that there should not be any debate on this motion, but I do not think it should be pressed upon me and I trust my friend will withdraw that.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw that point of order, so far as the motion is concerned, but the discussion should be confined to the motion to lay upon the table, and to nothing outside of the record.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the remarks which had been made prior to the raising of the point of order have seemed to the Chair to bear upon the question. The Chair will not sustain the point of order.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. The motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, is merely that this question take an ordinary course. This motion to lay the question upon the table does not mean indefinite delay of the question as to a committee going to see the Governor. The orderly proceeding is to have a report from the Judiciary General Committee to this House and see what that report is and then take the position that has been advised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern. Surely there can be no disrespect to the Governor such as the gentleman from Erie has spoken of. Surely this cannot be called peanut politics, as stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern. A matter of very grave importance has been raised by this House, and that is whether the subordinates of the Executive or the subordinates of the heads of departments are exempt from the subpoena of the legislative body. That is the whole question before the House. When the report comes from the Judiciary General Committee, then the motion as made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern, would undoubtedly be in order, just as the Chair suggested. It would be better that we take that course. Now, why should we treat the Chief Executive without the dignity that his personality or his office deserves, or why should we treat this House as we ourselves, as individuals and as members of the House deserve? The course, as laid down by the gentleman from Philadelphia and as suggested by the Speaker, is the proper course to take. Let us hear the report of the Chairman from the Committee on Judiciary General and then vote on the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia. But I hope that this House will sustain the motion now to lay the motion on the table.

The SPEAKER. So that the House may understand the motion, the Chair understands the purpose of the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia to be that the action upon this motion be postponed until after the report of the Judiciary General Committee has been received.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, if I understand, "laying upon the table" means to postpone until somebody makes a resolution to take from the table, and the time of doing so is entirely within the discretion of the House.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does not seem to comprehend my motion. The message as received from the Governor is not a message of evasion or equivocation. As the gentleman from Philadelphia who sits upon my right mentioned a few minutes ago, it is a direct admission that if the House will honor the Chief Executive with a visit and confer on this little unpleasantness that has ensued within the last few weeks, he will instruct his subordinates to answer the subpoena and apear before them. Now, that is what is in this message, and what more can this body require or demand than the fact that if they are not satisfied he will instruct his subordinates to obey the process of the subpoena of this body. That is, I believe, his answer and admission, that he recognizes that process to be effective. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I do press my motion and ask a roll call upon it.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is upon the motion of Mr. S. B. Scott, that the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern, be laid upon the table for the present.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, the thought that comes to my mind, and I believe to the ordinary man of any legislative experience, is that when a motion is made to lay a proposition on the table, that that means an indefinite postponement or the killing of the measure. Now, I am perfectly willing to support the motion to suspend the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. Shern), until the Judiciary General Committee's report shall come in.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I hope that the motion to lay the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia on the table is sustained and that that motion be postponed until the report of the Judiciary General Committee is received by the House. I believe, however, that the motion to lay upon the table is a technical motion—that the motion puts it in the charge of the House and you can lift it from the table whenever the House is willing.

Mr. ROCKWELL. To continue, Mr. Speaker, I have in my hand the report of the Judiciary General Committee upon this subject, and if this motion to suspend the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia is adopted, I propose to offer this report and bring the whole matter before the House, and then they will have a complete and definite knowledge upon the position that the Committee on Judiciary General takes, and their construction to the House of what they think the law is.

The SPEAKER. The motion, as the Chair will state it,—the Chair understands the purpose of the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. S. B. Scott), to be that action upon the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. Shern) be postponed until after the reading of the report about to be submitted by the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell. Is that motion seconded?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I trust the members will vote down this amendment and I call for a roll call.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, from one on the side lines it would appear that we have wasted a great deal of time on this question. I think it should be voted down—that this amendment should be voted down. Perhaps sixty days have been quibbled away here on the question of dual positions. There has not been an issue raised in any of the Governor's messages which can be construed in itself as defying the subpoenas of this House, and we will be enabled to secure the information if we will go there to get it. It doesn't appear to me that the issue has been raised as to whether or not the duties of the appointees are being fulfilled, or the State is getting value received. From one on the side lines, again I say, it might not appear as peanut politics, but it does appear as buncombe. In the old days, when we had political parties, we had buncombe, and today we have individuals here in this House who are playing politics. Lack of party lines has permitted this to occur. Not only thirty or sixty days, but ninety days or the length of the session this little quibbling will waste. The issue which we ought to recognize is whether or not they are doing their duties, and which has not been raised.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, there is a goodly portion of men in this House that are in the same position in which I am in, and that is that I have absolute confidence in his Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, and furthermore that I have absolute confidence in this committee. Now, I think this Committee—the Judiciary General—should have its opportunity to report to this House, and furthermore I think that the motion made by Mr. Shern in the first place should prevail. I think we ought not to vote it down—in my judgment, I may be wrong— but I think we ought to vote down this motion to postpone this matter indefintely, as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, says, and have an opportunity to recognize the Governor and recognize this committee—the Judiciary General. That is the way I feel about it. I do not care a snap of my fingers about the political phase or the parliamentary phase of this matter; we want to get down to just what is right in the matter. I think we ought to vote it down.
